

LAST COUNT DECIDES TRIP TO NORTH LAND

High Contestants in Every Division Will Select Them. Ballots in Journal Subscription Contest Develops a New Leader—District No. 4 Takes First Place.

By strange coincidence the fifteenth count of ballots happens to be for all subscriptions taken by contestants up to August 15. Those who led their respective divisions on the count of these votes, as was announced, have the right to invite any one friend to go on a trip to Alaska, all the expenses of the trip to be paid by the Journal.

The recording of subscriptions and the counting of ballots was carried on all day yesterday, and the result indicated below was arrived at last night. The winners, as indicated in the score, were immediately notified by letter and telephone to report the names of their appointees who are to have the tickets to Alaska.

The touring party will go as guests of The Journal, and the newspaper will pay all actual traveling expenses from the time the party leaves Portland until the return.

The ladies and gentlemen so fortunate as to be invited by the leading contestants to become members of this party are requested to meet the manager of The Journal at his office on Saturday, August 20.

The contest for the scholarships and for the bags of gold continues, and will not end until early in September.

There is still room for new contestants to enter the contest and to share in the awards of the contest. Every town in Oregon, no matter how small, should furnish at least one candidate. There are worthy boys and girls in the country who, through this contest, can gain the advantages which they long have wished for. Anyone interested should call on or address The Contest Manager, The Journal, Portland, Oregon.

Contest district No. 4 comprises all of eastern Oregon and eastern Washington. Contestants in this district compete with one another and also against all other contestants.

Bessie Gaylord of North Powder, having attained the highest standing in this district for all subscriptions reported up to August 15, earns the right to appoint for a free trip to Alaska any friend of her own choosing.

Contest district No. 1 comprises all of Multnomah county and includes Portland. Contestants in this district compete with one another, and at the same time with all contestants in other parts of the northwest.

Alice E. Price entered the contest but three weeks ago to earn a scholarship in singing. She has made a dash to the lead in this district and has captured one of the tickets to Alaska. She is now high among the cash prizes.

Alice E. Price, who has made meteoric flight through contest horizon.

Contest district No. 2 comprises the Willamette valley except Multnomah county (which forms a district by itself) as far south as Eugene. Contestants in this district compete with one another and at the same time with all contestants in all parts of Oregon.

Contest district No. 3 includes all that part of Oregon south of Eugene and the counties of Oregon bordering on the Pacific ocean. Contestants in this district compete against one another, and at the same time against contestants in all other parts of the northwest.

Cecilia Wessela, leading this district in all votes cast up to August 15, earns the right to name a friend of education to become a guest of The Journal on an excursion to Alaska.

will win a scholarship and cash prize if he continues to make friends. Test of Loyalty. Miss Mattie Fenley who started out as one of the leaders of the contest has not been giving much time to gathering subscriptions since she moved to eastern Oregon. If she had worked every day one of the Alaskan tours would have been here. In the beginning while she was in Portland she demonstrated her ability to get votes. Meanwhile, her champion, Ralph Almeter, keeps up her standing by taking subscriptions for her in Portland. A young man who will canvass for a girl certainly stands the test of loyalty.

Making for Subscriptions. Harlin Talbert, one of the Albany contestants, has made a record "hike" for subscriptions and he is still on the march. He is now in Coos county.

When last heard from Talbert was beginning the canvass of Coquille City and he predicts that he will do well.

The Albany boy has selected a fine field for gathering subscriptions to The Journal. The Portland evening newspaper enjoys the advantage of one day in time over the morning papers of Portland and other cities and the people of Coos county want The Journal.

The Coos bay settlements are difficult to reach by land or by water. But now that he is on the ground Talbert will have no trouble. The towns are close together on the navigable rivers and bays and the farms are all within a few minutes of launch transportation from the towns.

By the time this notice is published Talbert will have canvassed all the towns and will be concluding his canvass of the farms by rowboat. The letter in which he tells of his ride of 125 miles over the Coast Range of mountains, from the railroad at Roseburg to Coquille City, is as follows:

"I and a cousin of mine left Roseburg at 7 o'clock the morning of the 15th. We had one wheel between us and took turns riding and walking. We

A Progressive Step In Greater Value Giving

We are jumping into an awful rapid stride. Profits are left at the post. Values have the mount on all our thoroughbred stock. Now we are off—rounding the first quarter curve and pounding down the price turf at every step. We are going against time—and after our own record—the furniture record of the northwest—and we will win—are bound to win. For we have the backing of the citizens of Portland and of Oregon for a place, and that place first. The store of highest quality, lowest price and best treatment—the furniture house of I. Gevurtz & Sons, on Yamhill.

Elaborate Brass Beds at Most Ordinary Prices

Finest showing of these in the northwest. Beds that are model productions, by masters of the old school, offering in their own beautiful design and pattern the grandest ideas of metal bed craft.

$85.00 Bed $49.50 $1.00 a Week	$77.50 Bed $49.00 $1.00 a Week	$70.00 Bed $41.00 $1.00 a Week
$60.00 Bed $39.50 $1.00 a Week	$45.00 Bed $29.00 $1.00 a Week	$27.50 Bed $16.50 $1.00 a Week

Don't Delay Monday Tuesday Wednesday

Every bed is bound to go. More were sold today than we expected. Don't wait until Wednesday—but come early Tuesday.

These Prices Are lower than were ever placed on such furniture. It means an absolute money loss to the house on every bed. No other store would attempt to name such prices.

kept ahead of the Roseburg-Myrtle Point stage across the mountains for 44 miles when we stopped for the night at 7:30. I took three yearly semi-weekly subscriptions that day. Can any of the contestants beat this hiking? We got through to near Coquille at 3:30 the next day, about 35 miles. I do not feel as I notice any difference over the long walk.

I will write more in regard to this county and my experiences later."

Ballot Box Notes. Peter Seltice is making a wide reputation among the United States Indian training schools of the country by his prominence in The Journal contest. Subscriptions are coming to him from a distance. One arrives yesterday from George J. Fanning, Crow agency, Montana.

Adam Murray has written one subscription for the Misses M. A. Noble, 277 High street, Elgin, Scotland. A number of subscriptions have been taken by contestants for foreign post-offices. People in distant States cannot choose a better present for friends living abroad than to send the Semi-Weekly Journal.

Miss Alice A. Cochran of Mount Hood has been retarded in her contest work by sickness.

Earl Heckert of Corvallis has made a considerable gain in his score. Every day he proves his ability as a solicitor and the generosity of the good people of Corvallis. The Corvallis people are a lesson every day in the year of the benefits of education from the work which the Oregon State Agricultural college is doing there.

Winona Ogden of Forest Grove has been doing splendidly at Troutdale. It is marvelous what a great number of subscriptions can be secured in a small town by clever contestants. Foral No town in Oregon but what is large enough to afford enough subscriptions by which a young person can win one of The Journal's scholarships. And there is time enough yet before the contest closes.

KHORASSAN KNIGHTS IN COLORADO SPRINGS (Journal Special Service.) Colorado Springs, Colo. Aug. 19.—Every arriving train is bringing large delegations to the national convention of the Knights of Khorrassan, which is to begin its session here tomorrow. The Khorrassans form the social and fraternal adjunct to Pythianism in the same manner that the Mystic Shrine are the spectacular branch of Masonry. The organization has nearly 150 temples in various parts of the United States and an aggregate membership of 22,000.

The social and entertainment features form an important part of the convention program. Tomorrow evening there is to be a grand ball and reception in honor of delegates and their ladies. The big parade and prize drill will be held Thursday. Other features of entertainment arranged for the visitinclude trips to the Garden of the Gods, Manitou, Pike's Peak, Cripple Creek and other places of interest in this vicinity.

RAINIER SOUNDING PROSPERITY NOTES (Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Rainier, Or. Aug. 19.—The past week has seen the operations of the mills and camps resumed and big vessels are now chartered to land at Rainier docks for cargoes.

The Rainier steam laundry is now in full operation, being the first industry of its kind in Columbia county. It is making with much success. At the schoolhouse, which is being greatly enlarged, there is now being installed a new heating system.
