IMPETUS NEVER FELT WHEN PRICES SLUMP
President of Northwest Door Company Argues Against Supposed Benefits of Decrease in Cost of Material.

"It is a great mistake to believe that Portland would prosper with a falling lumber market. Such a result of falling prices was never known," said Samuel Connell, president of the Northwest Door company, discussing the question of the probable effect of lower lumber prices upon home building in Portland.

Small Mills Threatened.
The general effect of falling prices upon the business of the city is bad, and there is nothing in the theory that lower prices of a staple commodity when times are good and money plentiful benefit anyone particularly, said Mr. Connell.

Stumpage Prices Greatly Increased.
It was asserted by a Weyerhaeuser representative at the lumberman's banquet recently that the price of fir stumpage had advanced 500 per cent in the last five years.

HOWLERS OF RELIGION MAINTAIN SAME CAMP
Tornadoes of Gospel So Far Have Refused to Obey Police Orders.

In defiance of the police department of the city of Portland, those of the "tangled tongue faith," who about 400 strong are in camp at East Eleventh and Division streets, have not moved. Orders were issued last week by the police department that the camp should be removed, but late this morning not a peg had been pulled or were there any signs of restlessness about the big camp, which covers about five acres near the Southern Pacific tracks.
