CHECKS ISSUED 24 HOURS BEFORE BANK CLOSED CONSIDERED GOOD

Must a bill be paid twice that has been paid with a check made against a bankrupt bank before the latter's doors are closed? That question is bothering several of the depositors of the Oregon Trust & Savings bank who had paid bills by check shortly before the closing of the bank's doors. Who is liable for the check if issued before the bank is closed? J. N. Teal says that the law does not state a specified length of time allowed for the presentation of a check for payment because circumstances govern individual cases.

FUEL PROBLEM WILL BE SOLVED

Lafe Pence Offers to Deliver One Hundred Cords Daily. TRADES COUNCIL TO ACCEPT PROPOSAL Wood Will Be Flumed and Landed at Any One of Numerous Docks Available—Sale Price Probably Six Dollars or Less.

Indications point strongly to the fact that the grip of the fuel trust on the Portland public will not be so tight during the coming winter as has been feared. Lafe Pence made a proposition this morning to the Federated Trades Council to land 100 cords per day of four-foot fir wood at $5 a cord on any dock in the city that may be secured by the Trades Council. It is understood that the city has offered the use of one of the ferry docks on which to land the wood. The Federated Trades Council will meet tomorrow night to consider the proposition of Mr. Pence, and it is considered altogether likely that it will be accepted. While discussing the proposition made to the Trades Council, Mr. Pence said: "If the labor people accept my proposal I shall put in three gasoline engines at once that will cut 100 cords a day. I shall flume this wood to the river and then barge it to the dock. It will be landed at night and will have to be taken away the next day. If the labor people can handle more than 100 cords per day I shall put in more machinery and saw more wood. It is generally believed that the Federated Trades Council can handle the Pence wood for about $1 per cord, making the cost to the consumers $6 the cord. Mr. Leabo stated this morning that the Trades Council had been offered ample dock facilities and that he had no doubt that Pence's proposition would be accepted.

PRISONER IGNORANT OF CASE AGAINST HIM

Asks for Legal Advise When Brought Before Bar to Plead. When Charles Steckelman, charged with malicious destruction of household property, was presented before the bar of circuit court this morning to plead he looked as though he had fought a battle with a wild cat and lost. "What have you to say for yourself?" asked Judge Gantenben. "Well," remarked the prisoner, "I'm under the doctor's care and really I don't know anything about this case at all. It's all news to me. I have no attorney and I should like to have a little legal advice to know just where I stand in this matter." Judge Gantenben agreed with the defendant and promptly appointed Attorney A. H. McCurtain to look after his interests. The latter was told to be ready to defend his client Saturday morning. As stated in The Journal yesterday Steckelman was arrested on Tuesday evening at Lentz for threatening to kill his landlady, Mrs. Sue Minard, after wrecking several pieces of furniture in the house. Deputy Sheriff Bulger had much trouble in subduing the fellow before he finally landed him safely behind the bars in Multnomah county jail.

BANK FAILURE AFTERMATH. SPECIAL STREET COMMITTEE NAMED

Mayor Lane this morning appointed Councilmen Belding, Willis and Kellisher as a special committee to look into the proposed plan for renumbering houses in the city. The new committee will take up the matter at once. Ornamental street lights have been allowed, and work of installing them will begin as soon as the contract has been approved at Washington. The lamps are similar to those in vogue along the street and are known as the four-glower Nemast lamps. There will be two on each post, and all will be along the Morrison street side of the postoffice. The lamps will burn from dusk to 1 o'clock in the morning. This is the first request that has ever been allowed for ornamentation about the Portland postoffice. All Portland will buy today, and buy for months to come. The Golden Eagle, the big department store at Third and Yamhill streets, in order to raise a large amount of money immediately, on account of the suspension of the Oregon Trust & Savings bank, will sell everything in their immense stocks tomorrow—Friday—at one half regular marked prices.
