

GIVES BOOZE AWAY TO EVADE BLUE LAW

American Lake Saloonman Sells Sandwiches to Thirsty Customers.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 22.—A brand new evasion of the Sunday closing law has been invented by George Miller, a saloonman of American Lake, 12 miles from Tacoma. After Miller had been arrested and fined $100 on two different occasions for selling liquor on Sunday, he took a new tack and began giving it away. He accomplished this by selling sandwiches for 10 cents each and donating a glass of beer to the purchaser. He had 15-cent sandwiches of the same kind as those which he had previously contributed a glass of whiskey or wine. A 20-cent sandwich carried with it the present of a glass of champagne. He required all the stocks of an adjacent bakery last Sunday to supply Miller with sandwiches. His arrest followed Monday, and he was tried and convicted yesterday afternoon and given the usual fine of $100 and costs. Miller conducted his own case, but made poor headway. He appealed to a higher court, maintaining that the handing out of give-aways under the closing law is his choice. Providing he loses on the appeal his license will doubtless be taken from him.

STAR IS TORN FROM DEPUTY BY SHERIFF

Richmond Discharged From Office for Aiding in Child's Abduction.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 22.—Sheriff Tom Morris last evening removed from office and took away the star of Deputy Sheriff Alonzo D. Richmond, who last week made a descent upon the home of Mr. and Mrs. Mace, living near Roy, and after beating them shamefully took away their grandchild, a little girl of 3 years. He took the child to the home of H. W. Greengrass, its stepfather, who spirited it away to Puyallup. Richmond was arrested Saturday and that evening the child was secured in possession of Sheriff Morris. Richmond was tried and fined $25 for assault yesterday afternoon. The child was a subject of controversy between its mother, Mrs. Greengrass, and her husband, and she had taken it to its grandfather for protection.

DALTON IS PLACED IN MURDERERS' ROW

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Walla Walla, Wash., Aug. 22.—Mangled and heavily bruised, the effects from the penitentiary, James Dalton, sentenced to be hanged October 12 for the murder of Officer Skotko of Spokane, was brought to this city this afternoon and lodged in murderers' row. Dalton was closely guarded on the trip from Spokane, but gave the officers no trouble. Dalton's relatives have started a movement to gain Governor Mead's consent to commute the death sentence to imprisonment for life. This makes the third time that Dalton has been confined in the prison here. He served four years for burglary, two for horse stealing and also a term in the county jail for petty thievery.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Butte, Aug. 22.—The grand lodge meeting of the Ancient Order of United Workmen of Montana was held here yesterday afternoon after the delegates had adopted a rate of insurance which selected new officers for the ensuing term. The session was one of the most important in the history of the Workmen.

PROBABLY PAY DEBTS

(Continued from Page One.) and stringency in the New York stock exchange. This fact is not taken to mean that the Home Telephone securities have depreciated or that they are not a reasonably safe investment. They pay 5 per cent interest annually and large blocks have in the last year been purchased by Portland investors who are known to have good business judgment. Bonds on the Portland plant of the Home Telephone company were purchased by the Merchants National bank, Ladd & Tilton, F. L. Willis, the Citizens bank, Meier & Frank, W. M. Welch, J. C. Mead, A. B. Asher, Ed. Deakun, F. H. Stow and many others. The Merchants National bank purchased $50,000 of the Home Telephone company's bonds, and according to President J. Frank Watson considers them a good investment. In a signed statement from Mr. Watson, which appears in the literature of the company, he is quoted as saying: "At the request of the Home Telephone company of Portland we beg to state that we have no objection to our having issued on their plant in this city, that after a full investigation of same we have taken $50,000 in bonds, which show better than words how we regard them."

Took Too Many Bonds.

The Oregon Trust & Savings bank undertook, in a contract with the underwriter, Louis J. Wilde, to dispose of approximately $900,000 of bonds on the plants of the Home Telephone company at Tacoma, Seattle and Omaha. In carrying out this contract, the bank was unable to sell more, its officers were obliged to invade their cash reserve to meet the payments on the contract, and it soon found itself without sufficient working capital. Walter O. Poor, district manager for Louis J. Wilde, the underwriter, made the following statement regarding the relations of his firm with the bank: "We want to state to the public that we offered them these securities as a good investment. It has been erroneously stated that they were offered or accepted terms at a price below par. The bonds were taken by them at 100 cents on the dollar, with a stock bonus equal to the amount of the bonds. They bought $900,000 of the bonds on those terms, and issued to us their certificates of deposit, payable at the rate of $55,000 per month. The money realized in this way was for carrying on construction work on the Home Telephone company's plants on Puget sound and at Omaha. Every dollar so received went into these legitimate expenditures. For a time the bank found a ready sale for the bonds and about the time the contract was completed when the stringency came."

Will Take Bonds Back.

"The bank still has $450,000 of the bonds in its hands, and we hold its certificates of deposit for the amount of $55,000 per month. We have already offered to take back the unpaid certificates of deposit we hold, which would in effect be a realization by the bank of that amount of its assets at par. It is reported that another offer may come that will relieve the bank of $32,000 of its securities at par. Dr. A. F. Reddy, receiver for the Portland & Greater Lake railroad, is a creditor of the bank to the extent of $82,000, the railroad company's securities being among those the bank has received. Reddy came to Portland yesterday to look after the affairs of his receivership, and it is reported that an offer will be made to take the bonds at sale price at a discount. A disposition shown by directors of the bank to unload all the discredit for the suspension upon Cashier W. C. Morris is resented in many quarters, where it is asserted that the directors knew of every purchase of bonds or other securities of considerable amount, and that purchases were made with their recorded acquiescence. Asked concerning the method of purchase by the bank of the Home Telephone bonds, Mr. Poor said:

Authorized by Directors.

"The purchases were made with the assent and cooperation of the directors. When we offered these securities to the officers of the bank they stated that nothing would be done until the directors met and assented to the plan. Such meetings were held, and the board decided to enter into the purchase and sale of the bonds, as other banks have done. It is rumored that a week before the bank suspended deposits carried by Leo Friede and E. E. Lytle, directors, were withdrawn, and that Mr. Friede gave kindly tips to his particular friends to follow his example. Receiver Devlin, when asked whether Mr. Friede or Mr. Lytle carried deposits in the bank, said he did not know. When asked to verify the statement made by Directors Lytle and Moore to the effect that Cashier Morris had used the money of the bank for acquiring interests in four or five business enterprises about town, the receiver stated that he was not at the time able to answer, but that when he had completed a complete list of the bank's accounts it would show all the facts."

Offer to Accept Bonds.

Prior to banking hours this morning, when a crowd had collected in front of the doors of the Oregon Trust & Savings bank, L. Ainsworth Smith, a real estate dealer, appeared and distributed cards bearing this written offer: "I will exchange real estate for your account in the Oregon Trust & Savings bank." A large number of depositors have called at the office of Louis J. Wilde, in the bank building, and offered to accept Home Telephone company bonds for their accounts with the bank. Mr. Wilde, in an advertisement printed in all the papers today, offers to accept Home Telephone company bonds in lieu of $4,000 which he had on deposit in the bank, and to guarantee to pay $200,000 will be taken by other depositors on the same terms.

NEW STREET AND SUIT HATS

First Showing of the Season at Fraley's Newly Enlarged Millinery Headquarters, 214 Third Street

Miss Conkleman, head buyer and designer for Fraley's, has returned from New York, and is now showing the first arrivals in the way of fall hats especially for street or suit wear. Women who are always keenly alert to see the first new millinery of the season are now visiting Fraley's, and express the most enthusiastic delight over the chic and altogether becoming fall modes. These hats, in dainty light felts—white, gray, blue, brown, lavender—all the newest tints and colors—trimmed in silk drapes, quills or wings—give the face an extremely girlish appearance, and are at the same time distinctive in tone and character. The variety of shapes and colorings provides a becoming style for every contour. These first showings might really be called the "between seasons" wear, as they come at just the time when the summer hats are growing too shabby for one to longer feel comfortable in them; and while they are light in color and weight, having a summery appearance, they will tone in perfectly with the earliest fall suits, completing the new fall costume with beautiful and harmonious effect. The unusual distinctiveness of Fraley's hats is adding daily to the reputation of this house as the place where one always finds something of a high tone—something different from the usual run—and at a reasonable price.
