WEATHER REPORT

The pressure has risen decidedly east of the Cascades and the crest of the high area overlying the north Pacific coast yesterday morning is now central over Spokans. Clear skies, with temper-atures considerably below the normal, therefore prevail over this entire forecast district. A dense fog prevailed at Spokane this morning. The disturbance over the lower lakes yesterday morning is now passing off the New England coast, and an area of light to moderate scattered precipitation extending from the Rocky mountains east-ward to the Atlantic seaboard has re-sulted from this movement. A depression of marked character overlies the southwest, but clear skies nevertheless prevail over that region except along the southern California coast. The in-dications point to continued fair weather over this district tonight and Thursday. It, will be was mer tonight over eastern and southern Oregon and Washington, and warmer day over Oregon, eastern Washington
