Depositors of the Oregon Trust & Savings bank are ascertaining the exact status of the bank's assets and those interested may look for interesting developments within two or three days. A meeting of the depositors will take place in the early part of next week. Over 100 new members have enrolled at Metzger & Co.'s store, 342 Washington, and the officers of the organization urge every depositor to sign the roster and become members of the organization and by their combined efforts the results will not only be dollar for dollar in promises, but in actual cash.

At the Hutchinson home, 391 Jackson street, Ernest B. MacNaughton and Miss Gertrude Hutchinson were married last night by Dr. E. L. House. The groom is a member of the firm of MacNaughton, Raymond & Lawrence, architects. The bride is a sister of the late Reno Hutchinson, a prominent Y. M. C. A. worker. The wedding was a quiet one, only the near relatives of the bride and groom being present. After a short wedding tour they will return to Portland and make their home here.

Alleging that he was prevented by the insulting language used by his wife from selling tickets to passengers and delivering the United States mail, J. D. Stevens, a storekeeper at Holbrook, Oregon, filed a suit for divorce from his wife, Mrs. Nettie Stevens, in circuit court yesterday afternoon. They were married in Polk county in May, 1892, and have five children. Stevens charges that his wife ordered his partner, J. W. Lewis, out of rooms in the rear of the store that he occupied with his family.

The funeral of John E. Sittou, who died at the Marquam building last Sunday, was held from Finley's undertaking parlors at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The remains were shipped to Rochester, New York, where Sittou was born and where relatives still live. He had been a resident of Portland for several years and was engaged in the furniture business with F. S. Chadbourne & Co. and later in the real estate business for himself.

Dr. Anna MacLean of Adelphi college, Brooklyn, will inaugurate a scientific sociological investigation as to woman's work and economic conditions on the Pacific coast. She is coming to Portland in connection with the Oregon. Miss Wilhelmina Joehneke of Oregon City and Miss Jean Gray of Oregon university, both well known in similar work, will aid Dr. MacLean. The latter will lecture at the northwest conference at Seaside.

J. F. Hutchason, at one time assistant manager of the Oregon Mercantile company, a department store on Seventh street, and until recently with Pease & Co. of The Dalles, Oregon, has engaged in business for himself at Marquam. The firm name being Baker-Hutchason Co. The stock of this new store is being handed to ladies' wear. Mr. Hutchason has a host of business acquaintances in Portland who wish him well in his new undertaking.

C. Carlson, the Linnton saloon keeper, who was arrested by Deputy Sheriff Sam Wagner for selling liquor on Sunday to patrons whom he admitted through a trap door in the ceiling, appeared before Judge Cleland in the circuit court this morning to answer to the charge. He pleaded guilty and was fined $25, which is the severest penalty that can be imposed. Carlson paid the fine and returned to Linnton.

Arthur Freeman, charged with a felony by 15-year-old Mabel Van Fleet, appeared before Judge Cleland in the circuit court this morning and entered a plea of not guilty. He was tried on September 19. The crime is said to have taken place at the Grocers' picnic at Bonneville in July. Freeman is being held in the county jail in default of $1,500 bail.

Examinations for teachers in the city schools began in room 1 of the High school building at 11 o'clock this morning and will continue through Thursday and Friday. The new teachers were tested today in arithmetic, reading and grammar. Tomorrow they will be examined in geography, writing and physiology, and on Friday in the theory of teaching, spelling and history.

The Vernon Presbyterian church, which is nearly completed, will be dedicated September 22. Some funds to be used in building it have been deposited in the Oregon Trust & Savings bank the day before that institution suspended operations. The building when completed will represent a total cost of $5,000.

Suit for divorce was begun in the circuit court this morning against Charles Cole, who had a school for barbers on Flanders street for some time. The suit was brought by Mrs. Susie Cole, who says she married Cole in Vancouver, Washington, in July, 1898, and charges that he deserted her in June, 1906.

Charging that her husband beat her and generally abused her during the two years they lived at Dawson, Alaska, so much that she was compelled to leave him and return to her home in Oregon, Mrs. Rosa Christensen this

TOOK 12 DAYS TO SEND MESSAGE

Western Union Nearly Two Weeks Getting Wire To Chehalis.

THREE MESSENGERS RETURN TO WORK

Three-Dollar-a-Day Men In Fear of Losing Jobs—Seattle Offering Big Bonus In Attempt to Get New Operators.

Three of the striking messenger boys returned to work at the Western Union this morning and the high-priced messengers which the telegraph company has been paying $3 a day to help break the strike are beginning to shake with fear of losing their sinecure. The company says that as fast as the boys come back they will be taken on and the expensive messengers will be dispensed with. When the messenger boys struck in sympathy with the telegraphers the Western Union advertised that it would pay men $3 a day to deliver messages. They succeeded in getting together seven or eight men, most of them over 50 years old, who were attracted by the money offered.

For several reasons, however, principally because their parents took a hand in the game and ordered them to go to work or leave home the boys have been weakening, and a few of them have returned to work. As fast as they do they will be taken on by the company, held by the 33 men, though at their old pay, of course. As an example of how the telegraph companies are tied up in this section of the country the telegraphers are exhibiting at their headquarters this morning a telegram sent on August 15 and received in Chehalis yesterday, about 11 days after the mail would have carried it.

A letter received at headquarters from Seattle this morning brought the news that three check clerks walked out of the Western Union offices there yesterday and that the company is offering its messengers $5 a head for any operator they can bring to the office. They have also installed a range of the operating rooms and have a chief who prepares meals for the strike-breakers so as to forestall danger of their being approached by union pickets.

morning filed suit in the circuit court for a divorce from Sverre Christensen. They were married in this city in July, 1894, and have one child, Robert, aged 7 years, whose custody the mother, Mrs. Christensen is now at San Bruno, California.

Suit to collect $1,098 from the City of St. John was filed in the circuit court this morning by T. C. Thronson. The money is alleged to be due Youngberg & Son, formerly of Portland, the contractors who did the tinning and galvanized iron work on St. John's new city hall.

Articles of Incorporation of the Earle-Smith Timber company were filed in the office of the county clerk this morning by Zera Snow, Howard H. Holland and G. G. Engvall, of Portland, and Edward C. Smith of St. Joseph, Missouri. Capital stock $10,000.

"SERENADE" OPENING BILL OF NEW COMPANY

"The Serenade," which contains stronger and more inspirational music than any other American light opera, will be the first offering of The Californians at the Marquam Grand, opening next Monday night, September 2. It was originally intended to open with "Robin Hood," but after consultation with many music-loving patrons it was thought advisable to substitute Victor Herbert's most tuneful work instead. "Robin Hood" will follow later in the engagement. "The Serenade" is one of the greatest hits of the famous Bostonians, and was quite as successful as "Robin Hood." Harry Cashman, the comedian of the company, assumes Mr. Barnaby's role of the Duke of Santa Cruz, and is happy in the part. Miss Lucille Saunders, the contralto, is delightfully cast as Dolores, and her rich voice is heard to the best advantage. Richie Ling's Lopez is most exacting. His splendid physique, his admirable virility in acting and his superb tenor voice serve him well in every scene. Mr. Robert Hosea, the baritone, is well placed as Carlo Alvarado, singing with spirit and force, and acting with vigor. The chorus is promised to be the best that Portland has heard in many seasons.

MEETS DEATH UNDER WHEELS OF STREETCAR

Fred J. Rooney Struck Down And Killed On Third Street.

Fred J. Rooney, a veteran of the Spanish-American war, was struck by a north-bound "B" car at Third and Main streets at 8:30 o'clock last night and so seriously injured that he died at St. Vincent's hospital several hours later. The unfortunate man, who was under the influence of liquor, according to Mrs. Hetty Salisbury of Third and Main streets, at whose place he ate supper after dining started to cross Third street, when "B" car No. 269, in charge of Motorman G. B. Spivey and Conductor J. M. Kittrell drove into him. Noting the fast approaching car, Rooney stopped and the motorman believed the man intended to wait until the coach passed. Just as the car was within a few feet of him, Rooney, apparently not realizing the danger, started across the tracks. He was struck and hurled a distance of eight feet. Patrolman H. C. Wilson, who served with Rooney in company G, Second regiment, O. N. G., in the Philippines, happened to be near the scene of the accident at the time and summoned the patrol wagon. The injured man was removed to St. Vincent's hospital, where an examination showed that his skull was fractured, in addition to internal injuries. Surgeons held out no hope for his recovery. He remained in an unconscious condition until his death.

Rooney was 35 years of age and resided at 66 1/2 Third street. During the Spanish-American war he was a member of the company in which Detective Sergeant Charles E. Baty was first sergeant, and had a record for bravery. He was employed on the Hillside creamery building, now in course of construction at Third and Hoyt streets. Rooney was unmarried, and his parents reside at Marshfield, Oregon.

"The Whine of the Wheels," a short story of life on a strike-bearing by one who has traveled the route, Jack Jungmeyer, is one of the best short stories of the season. September Pacific Monthly, now on sale.

DRESSER'S Cleanliness

Cleanliness in foodstuffs is not so common as you may fancy. When we say cleanliness we mean not only swept floors and clean windows. We mean dust-proof bins for the storage of everything eatable. Dust-proof canisters, cans and bottles for everything drinkable. Yes, not alone dust-proof, but germ and microbe-proof—that's what we mean by cleanliness. Selected fresh meats, our own cured hams, bacon and smoked meats; we make our own sausages, baked goods and candies and specially prepare fish, salads, relishes and all manner of high-grade delicatessen. You should see the new store.

DRESSER'S

Everything good for the table. Main store, Fifth and Stark; also East 15th and Broadway, Gearhart and Seaside.

THINKS PEOPLE WILL DEMAND THIRD TERM

Dr. Coe Addresses East Side Republican Club on Rooseveltism.

Backers and boosters of the second elective term idea had a most enthusiastic love feast over at the Logus building on the east side last night when Dr. Henry Waldo Coe delivered a long address on why President Roosevelt should be a candidate for re-election. H. H. Newhall presided and introduced Dr. Coe as a friend of the president and a man well qualified to speak of Roosevelt and his desirability as a candidate for re-election. Dr. Coe contended that throughout the country the people had taken President Roosevelt at his word and that they had therefore practically ceased to consider him as a candidate for the nomination. The speaker argued that this was just what the Standard Oil and the other corporate interests of the country hoped for as the Roosevelt policy was hampering them in their conquest of the people and the earth. It was also what the Democrats desired because of simple jealousy and a desire for party gain. Dr. Coe said, however, that the plain people had begun to think and that when the time came their voice would ring through the land with such an insistent sound that President Roosevelt and the national convention would be compelled to heed. This heading would result in the renomination of President

DUNLAP & CO. TOMORROW OUR GREAT OPENING OF Fall and Winter Dunlap Hats. This, the 50th anniversary of the establishment of the great firm of Dunlap & Co., brings forcibly to mind the fact that American men appreciate and demand quality in their clothes; that year-by-year persistence in producing the best article that skill and art can turn out, secures for that article a foothold among men of ability and worth as immovable as the eternal hills. "A man is known by the hat he keeps"—a man who has once worn a Dunlap will never be satisfied without one. All Dunlap wearers—and others who are interested in seeing the new block for the fall and winter season are invited on a trip of inspection to our store tomorrow. The new Dunlap will appeal most strongly to the man who dresses well; it is the newest and best expression of style and at the same time it has that conservative, high class appearance demanded by men of taste. Come any time—all day tomorrow—our salesmen will be pleased to show you.
