FIGHTS MAD LION TO SAVE WOMAN'S LIFE

Brave Patrolman Rescues Mrs. Huckle From Cage of Enraged Beast.

(Journal Special Service.)
Pittsburg, Aug. 28.—The prompt action of Patrolman Sheridan saved Mrs. Anna Huckle from being eaten alive by an enraged lion at Luna park yesterday afternoon.

For nearly a quarter of an hour the lion, a huge male beast, pawed at the unconscious woman, picked her up in his jaws and dropped her down, the crowd, paralyzed with fear, unable to assist the unfortunate woman, while policemen with drawn guns did not shoot because of fear of killing the woman.
Finally George A. Sheridan climbed to the top of the bandstand, which was deserted when the animal escaped from its cage, because of the careless trainer falling to lock the door.
Sheridan, who is a crack shot, took careful aim, fired and the brute let out a roar which proved he was hit. Again and again Sheridan fired, each time hitting the animal. He then reloaded his gun, jumped from the stand and advanced upon the beast.
Just about this time Mrs. Huckle moved and the crowd yelled in terror. The animal turned for a second and Sheridan snatched the woman, placed her on one arm and started to back away before the beast missed its prey. With a roar the lion discovered his prey was missing and sprang for the policeman, who retained his nerve. He fired a bullet into the head of the lion but did not stop it. Again Sheridan fired, the crowd still keeping its distance, no one being brave enough to rush in and relieve him of his burden.

The third shot brought the beast to its knees and caused it to roll over and then enough alleged heroes, knowing the animal was dead, appeared on the scene and made a dive for the body.
Sheridan hurried the victim to a waiting patrol wagon and she was taken to the Hospital hospital, where she hovers between life and death, horribly mangled, with broken ribs and arms, with no hope of recovery, so the hospital people say.
Mrs. Huckle was one of the Daughters of the American Revolution who were holding a picnic in the park. It is said she could have escaped the beast as she saw him coming, but she remained directly in his path and pushed little children to one side. The animal immediately attacked her and the nerve of Policeman Sheridan saved her from being torn to pieces.

It was the most thrilling sight ever witnessed in Pittsburg, and the park has been deserted ever since, while Sheridan patrols his beat as though nothing had happened.

TRAMPS RESPONSIBLE FOR CARLE'S DEATH
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Olympia, Wash., Aug. 28.—The state railroad commission has received a report from Inspector A. W. Perley on the Northern Pacific wreck at Kalama August 19, which resulted in the death of Conductor Carle. Inspector Perley says the wreck was due to the fact that tramps had been climbing about the cars and had put one of the angle cocks out of commission, thus leaving the engineer without control of the airbrakes. Inspector Perley's report concludes: "All the employees involved in this wreck bore the best of reputations, and under the circumstances I am convinced the accident was unavoidable. Engineer Jacobus would have been able to stop his train had the air throughout the train been cut in."

CIGARETTE FIENDS STOCK UP FOR FAMINE
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 28.—The anti-cigarette law goes into effect in this state Sunday morning and there is scurrying on the part of cigar dealers to get rid of stock. Cigarette fiends are helping them by buying heavily in anticipation of not being able to buy cigarettes hereafter. One dealer claims he sold $30 worth of coffin nails to one friend two days ago. The one buying thought that by the time he smoked a bunch of that size he would be dead and it would not matter much to him whether the law was in force then or not. Those who twist their dreams have also been laying in large quantities of the brown paper books. Several of the largest cigar stands of the city claim the law is unconstitutional and that they will continue the sale of the cigarette. Promecutor Rowland, of this county, says he will vigorously punish the slightest infringement of the law. Humorous placards are posted at cigar stores urging "hop-heads" and "fiends" to "get wise and stock up before Sunday."
