MANSFIELD DIES FROM HARD WORK

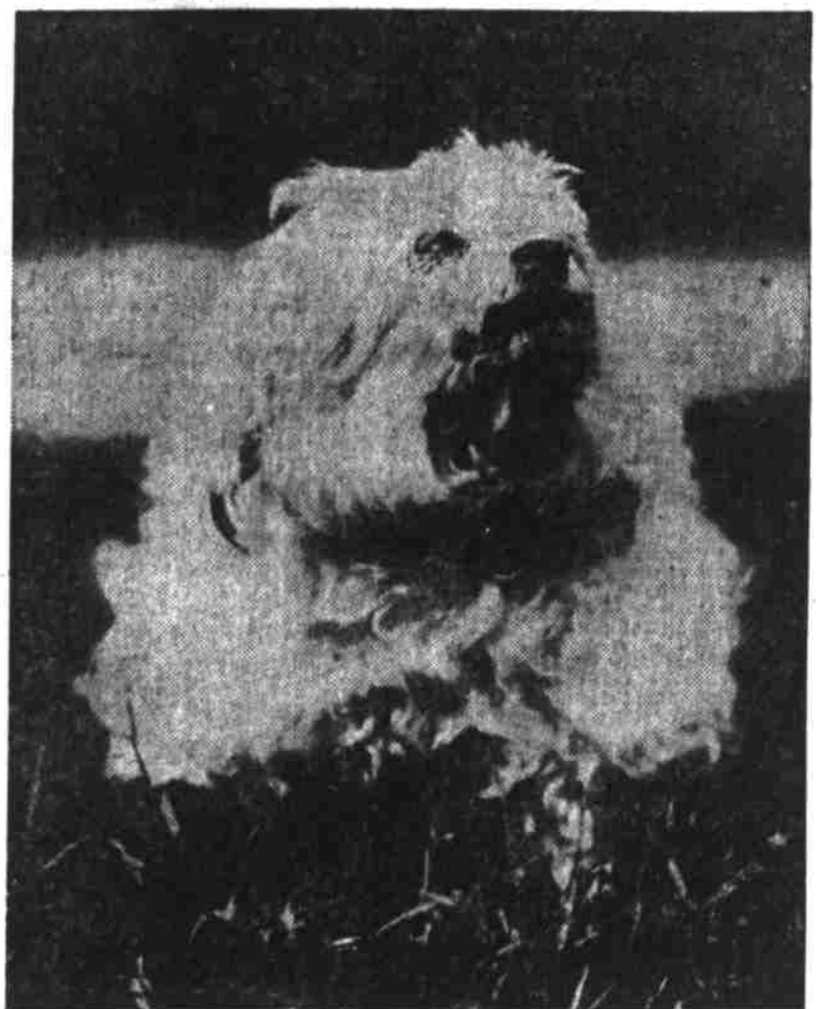

Ibsen's "Peer Gynt" Proves Too Great a Strain for the Man Who Was Greatest Actor on Stage After the Death of Edwin Booth.

Noted Mummer Never Recovers Health After His Breakdown at Scranton—Was Artist, Accomplished Musician and Royal Host.

(Journal Special Service.) New London, Conn., Aug. 30.—Richard Mansfield died this morning at his summer home here. The great actor's death followed a long illness, which came after his breakdown at Scranton, Pennsylvania, last winter while playing Ibsen's "Peer Gynt." During his last appearances the great actor's eccentricities were so accentuated that his people could not work with him. His breakdown followed and his decline was rapid, until today he was claimed by the grim reaper.

DOG'S FUNERAL TO COST $1,000

Lima, Deceased Royal Spanish Pet.

DOG'S OBSEQUIES WILL RIVAL ROYAL FUNERAL

Captain Tozier's Spanish Lap Canine, Only One of Kind in the United States, Will Be Buried in Silver Casket on Vashon Island.

Lima, the royal Spanish lap dog, friend and companion of Captain D. F. Tozier, of the United States life saving service, is dead. The petted and pampered daughter of the Spanish royal kennels that has been with Captain Tozier ever since her birth 13 years ago died at the St. Francis hotel in San Francisco of old age last week and will be buried beside her brother on Vashon island in Puget sound. She will be accorded a funeral costing $1,000.

Nothing was ever too good for Lima and from the time of her birth till her death she lived as an equal with the bereaved captain. Her food was of the sweetest delicacies. Her home was a silver-barred mahogany cage and her privileges were bound by no restrictions. Wherever Captain Tozier went, Lima went along. When she was but five days old she accompanied him on a sea voyage extending over a course of more than 20,000 miles.

Feasted and Dined. She was feasted and dined on the rarest foods, and was bathed and manicured like a lady. Her hair was combed with silver-backed combs, while all of her toilet articles were of the choicest metal work. Therefore, the statement that Lima would be given a funeral costing $1,000 occasioned no surprise among those who know Lima and Captain Tozier.

An expensive metal casket with a heavy silver plate will hold the remains of the little dog in her last resting place. A monument of marble such as marks the brother's grave will be reared over the little plot of ground containing her body, and such other regalia as are necessary for a funeral of one belonging to the royal family, will be included in the funeral.

Lima's parents were born and bred in the imperial Spanish kennels in sunny Spain and were carried to Lima, Peru, South America, in 1893, by members of the Spanish royal family on a Spanish man of war. The dogs were presented to the Spanish minister at Lima, who in turn presented the mother to United States Minister MacKenzie, who was serving there at that time. In 1894 Captain Tozier, who was tak-

CRIMINALS CAUSE OF DISASTER

Authorities Think Ninety-Two American Workmen Who Lost Their Lives Near Quebec Were Victims of Deliberate Plot.

Divers Searching Bottom of St. Lawrence River for Bodies of Men Who Were Killed in the Collapse of Bridge Last Night.

(Journal Special Service.) Quebec, Aug. 30.—Criminals are believed to be responsible for the death of the 92 persons who were killed in the collapse of a bridge across the St. Lawrence river, five miles below this city, yesterday afternoon. There were 102 skilled American workmen on the structure at the time of the disaster and only 10 of these are known to have been rescued.

Divers went down in the river today and are exploring the bottom in search of bodies of the victims. Hundreds of workmen are also employed under the direction of engineers in efforts to save the injured who were pinned under wreckage above water.

Two Others Will Die. Two of the 10 Americans rescued are seriously injured and it is feared that they will die.

It is reported that the disaster was of criminal origin and the authorities are making a searching investigation. Several motives are said to be assigned for the possible destruction of the bridge but the investigators refuse to discuss their theories.

The fact that the collapse did not occur until after 5:30 when the workmen were leaving the structure lends color to the belief that spite against the contractors caused the accident. The men did not quit work quite as early as usual last night and were making their way towards shore when half of the great structure fell into the water. The bridge was a mile and a half long and was nearly completed. The half toward the southern shore collapsed.

Dash for Shore. Terrified by the sound of crashing girders and snapping cables the men on the bridge dashed toward shore. A few of them reached the portion of the bridge closest to the bank but all were caught in the steel and woodwork of the bridge that their bodies would not float for none came to the surface.

SCAT RATS OFF WATERFRONT

Merciless Fight Against Plague Infected Rodents Will Be Conducted Along River—City Will Compel a Clean-Up of Vile Accumulations of Rubbish.

Thousands of plague-spreading rats which infest Portland's waterfront, making nests in the piles of refuse that have lain neglected under buildings along the riverside for years and feeding on the decayed animal and vegetable matter that is carelessly scattered around, are being treated by the city and harbor officials to be the worst menace to the health of the city that they have to deal with.

Steps were taken today to prevent danger of infection from bubonic plague by rats carrying germs ashore from foreign ships. The city health department has secured models of a device used in oriental ports which consists of a metal collar fitting over hawsers and about two feet in diameter. This collar effectually keeps rats from leaving a ship, as it is impossible for them to climb over the collar while making their way along the hawsers—their customary manner of getting aboard a ship.

A large number of these rat guards have been ordered and will be placed by the city on every vessel drawing up at Portland. In addition to this safeguard steps are to be taken to poison the rats on the docks and around the waterfront and to kill those on shipboard by fumigation.

That the war of extermination on the rodents is to be a difficult one is admitted by city officials. (Continued on Page Two.)

JAPS IN CALIFORNIA ARE NOT MISTREATED

(Journal Special Service.) Watsonville, Cal., Aug. 30.—At a banquet given in his honor by local Japanese business men, Ishii, minister of commerce and immigration in the imperial Japanese cabinet, expressed himself as more than pleased with the condition of his countrymen as he found it in California. KELLOGG IS TO SUCCEED BONAPARTE

Counsel for the Interstate Commerce Commission Is Slated for Cabinet Job When Present Attorney-General Retires.

Financial News Bureau Says Appointment of St. Paul Lawyer Will Prove to Be Satisfactory to Largest Wall Street Interests.

(Journal Special Service.) New York, Aug. 30.—The financial news bureau today reports that Frank B. Kellogg, counsel for the interstate commerce commission, is soon to succeed Attorney-General Bonaparte in the president's cabinet.

According to the report published in Wall street it is understood that the financial interests regard the probable appointment of Kellogg as entirely satisfactory.

Kellogg is a comparatively young man, a member of the law firm of Davis, Kellogg & Severance of St. Paul. This law firm is very prominent and Mr. Kellogg has a national reputation which is enviable. It is believed that the prospective appointee will prove himself qualified in every way for the attorney-generalship. Years ago he represented the Northern Pacific, and is thoroughly familiar with railroad law and transportation conditions.

It is reported that his former corporation connections make him especially valuable to the administration in view of the fact that more prosecutions of the trusts are being planned by President Roosevelt.

Since he has been counsel for the interstate commerce commission Mr. Kellogg has been particularly in the public eye. He has won many honors in his investigations of the railroads, knowing just what information was necessary to make a concise report of actual conditions. While Mr. Severance of the St. Paul firm was in Portland, Oregon, about four months ago, conducting the investigations of the interstate commerce commission in the affairs of the Harriman lines, Mr. Kellogg was in the east probing the same roads. His report, it is said, carried great weight with the president, and had a strong bearing upon Roosevelt's recent announcement that the railroads must obey the law and that the trust prosecutions would be continued.

Mead leaves tomorrow for Sacramento, California, to attend the session of the National Irrigation congress, which convenes there on Tuesday and holds the remainder of the week. He will be accompanied from here by State Horticultural Commissioner F. A. Huntley, who goes as one of the delegates from this state. It is believed Washington will have more than 30 delegates in the congress.

TWIST NECK OF RIVER STREETS ALL CITY TRUSTS MUST BE CLEARED

New Belding Ordinance Authorities Will Take Action to Prevent Blocking of Thoroughfares.

Trouble is brewing for all the combinations of business interests in the city which may fall under the ban of the Belding ordinance. As soon as the ordinance becomes effective through the mayor's signature, and it is being taken for granted that the measure will meet with Mayor Lane's approval, the city attorney will begin to cast out his drag-net for those who may be disobeying its restrictive injunctions.

It is expected that one of the first combinations to come under the ken of the law will be that of the so-called milk trust, which has announced that all milk prices will be boosted a few notches in a short time. The Dairy-men's association will perhaps be asked to explain the necessity for the contemplated advance in prices and also why it happens that the increase is so uniform throughout all parts of the city and so simultaneously made.

HARRIMAN HEADED FOR ROSE CITY

Back From Tour of Central Oregon He Is Expected by Way of Albany.

E. H. Harriman and his party touring through central Oregon are expected to reach Portland tomorrow. It is believed they will come out via Minto pass and the Corvallis & Eastern. They have special trains waiting at both Shaniko and Idanha, and are prepared to emerge from either direction.

Mr. Harriman's special train came from Klamath to Albany yesterday, and is now waiting at Idanha. It is composed of private cars Nos. 1060 and 99, and a baggage car. At Shaniko General Manager J. P. O'Brien's special train awaits the return of himself and Fred S. Stanley and the three automobiles with which they went down across the state to fetch Mr. Harriman from Pelican bay.

On the trip south they encountered a cloudburst that delayed them a day. They expected to meet Mr. Harriman at some point midway between Shaniko and Klamath Falls, and the report got around that Mr. Harriman was journeying northward with a mule team. But it is learned that the magnate decided to continue his outing at Pelican bay.

SAWS WALL OF HIS CELL

"Beau Brummel" Burglar Cuts Partition in City Jail in Effort to Escape—Plugged Cracks With Soap—Jailer Prevents Criminal's Escape.

Confronted by a long term in the penitentiary, from which there was apparently no escape, Harry Lents, the "Beau Brummel" burglar, who was arrested the morning of August 20 by Detective Hellyer for looting the home of B. H. Levy, 781 Lovejoy street, endeavored to cut his way to liberty, while confined in a cell on the top floor of the city prison.

That he was unsuccessful was due to two good and sufficient reasons. First, because he was removed to the county jail before he had time to put his plan into execution and secondly, for the reason that on the outside of the wooden partition through which he tried to saw his way, there is a solid brick wall over a foot in thickness. It was only yesterday afternoon that Lents' carefully-laid plan to make a dash for freedom came to light and then only through the keen perception of Jailer Ben Branch. The veteran turnkey at headquarters had occasion yesterday afternoon to clean out the cells on the upper floor of the hall of justice and while overhauling the one in which Lents had been confined, noticed that a sheet of newspaper had been passed on the wall.

Upon pulling away the paper Branch found that three sides of what was designed to be an aperture 12x18 inches, had been cut away. The cracks had
