

Declares He Believes Legislators Should Follow Dictates Of Their Own Consciences and Not the Will of the People In Voting for Senatorial Candidates

United States Senator Charles W. Fulton on Friday last at Corvailis de-clared himself to be in favor of the election of United States senators by the direct vote of the people. At the same time he declined to place himself in the position of advocating the doc-trine that members of the Oregon legis-lature should be bound by the ties of statement No. 1. The senator, in his speech before the All Benton school fair Friday night, stated that in his belfef the constitu-tion of the United States should be so amended that the popular vote would elect the senator in function of the constitu-tion of the United States should be so amended that the popular vote would elect the senator agrees with the political con-

The senator, in his speech before the All Benton school fair Friday night, stated that in his belfef the constitu-tion of the United States should be so amended that the popular vote would elect the senatorial representatives in congress. He held, however, that un-til that amendment was adopted the provisions of statement No. 1 were not necessarily binding because the federal constitution stipulates that the mem-had of the state legislatures shall hose the United States senators. Attitude Is of numerance

Attitude Is of Importance.

Attitude Is of Importance. This exposition of his attitude is taken to be of importance at this time, owing to the widespread belief that "Statement No. 1" will be one of the leading issues of the senatorial battle in 1908. Frederick W. Mulkey is one aspirant for the office who is an out-spoken champion of Statement No. 1, just as his political friend, Senator Bourne, was before him. W. S. U'Ren, who may enter the field, is the father of the statement, and of course will champion it whether he becomes a can-didate or not. The attitude of Senator didate or not. The attitude of Senator Fulton shows that the lines will be closely drawn. That portion of Senator Fulton's speech dealing with Statement No. 1 and the election of United States senators was as follows:

Would Amend Constitution.

"I believe that the federal constitu-tion should be so amended as to permit the election of United States senators by direct vote of the people. It is true that we have as nearly as possible, un-der the existing constitution, adopted that method in Oregon. Still we are far from that yet, for the legislature is not and cannot simply by an act of legislation be made to be bound by the popular vote, although I believe it is morally certain that the popular choice will, as a rule, be chosen by the legis-lature. Some people have said to me: Inasmuch as you favor election of sena-tors by popular vote, why do you not "I believe that the federal constitutors by popular vote, why do you not insist on candidates for the legislature subscribing to statement No. 1? My answer is that I do not deem it incumbent on me to instruct members of the legislature as to their duty in that re-gard. That is a question which every candidate must solve for himself. It is parallel matter concerning which he must satisfy his conscience

a matter concerning which he must satisfy his conscience. Should Made Own Choice. The federal constitution provides that senators in congress "shall be chosen by the legislature." To choose means "to take by preference one out of sev-eral offered; to select." The constitu-tion of the United States also specifical-ly provides that the "members of the several state legislatures shall be bound by oath or affirmation to sup-port" it, and such an oath is taken by every member of our legislature. Now I can understand that in some circum-stances a man may conscientiously say. "The choice of the people will be my in other circumstances he may not be able to conscientiously bind himself to that extent. His oath is to "support" That instrument imposes on him the divy of "choosing" a senator. The pian the letter and spirit of his oath is that the letter and spirit of his oath is that the letter and spirit of his oath is that the letter and spirit of his oath is that the letter and spirit of his oath is that the letter and spirit of his oath is that the shall exercise his honest convictions that he himself shall choose, shall ex-croise his own indement not the letter and spirit of his oath is that the shall exercise his honest convictions that he himself shall choose, shall ex-troise his own indement not the letter and spirit of his oath is that the shall exercise his honest convictions that he himself shall choose, shall ex-troise his own indement not the letter and spirit of his oath is that the shall exercise his honest convictions that he himself shall choose, shall ex-troise his own indement not the letter and spirit of his oath is that the shall exercise his honest convictions that he himself shall choose, shall ex-troise his own indement not the letter and spirit of his oath is that the shall exercise his honest convictions that he himself shall choose, shall ex-ercise his own indement not the letter and spirit of his oath is that the shall exercise his honest

"I can well understand that when a legislator agrees with the political con-victions of the candidate selected by the people and knows nothing against his competency or moral character which should prevent his election, he can con-scientiously say that the people's choice is his choice, but just so long as the federal constitution imposes the duty of choosing on legislators, just so long will conscientious members decline to, violate their conscientious convictions by selecting for senator one whom they believe to be wrong on great funda-mental political principles. A Pian Illustration.

A Plain Illustration.

A Plain illustration. "A legislator, for instance, who be-lieves in the doctrine of protection or in the single gold standard, or both, could not be said to have exercised his choice within the meaning of his oath of office who should vote to elect a man to the senate who was an avowed free trader or advocate of the free and unlimited coinage of sliver at the ratio unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1, simply because such person had been indorsed by a plurality or even a majority of the voters. To do so would clearly be to violate his conscien-tious convictions, and hence his oath of office, for his oath is to exercise his choice, that is, his preference. "It will not do to answer that the re-sponsibility is with the people. When that is so, well and good. If is not yet so, for the law requires the legislator to choose and requires him to take an oath that he will do so. Therefore, while I expect that as a rule, the choice of the people will be the choice of the legislator, you can readily see why I do not feel sure that it would be proper for me to insist that candidates shall unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio for me to insist that candidates shall subscribe to statement No. 1. I have no objections to their so doing. I make no opposition thereto and offer no ad-vice on the subject, for I deem it a mat-ter of conscience which every candidate must or should determine for himself.

Will Eimself Abide by Statement.

This enables the batteries to be trans-ported through the most difficult re-glons accessible to troops, and the guns can be brought into action in mountain-ous country. In the United States army these batteries are comparatively new, but they received their baptism in the Philippines and have proved their prac-tical value in many skirmishes upon the cottas and forts of the Moros. It is surprising how rapidly the mules are unloaded, the parts of the gun thrown together and the gun loaded, sighted and ready to be fired. At a test of the Eighteenth battery the men ran the mules back 50 paces, unloaded and assembled the gun and fired in 45 sec-onds. This was a world's record. The work requires not only intelligent

Live All Your Years A Perfect Man

The human body is most wonderfully and perfectly constructed. Each part is built equal to its task. Unless overburdened or attacked by disease, no organ falters. Nature intended that every man should live all his years a perfect man. Now men do. Most men can. All men make mistakes. Some make mistakes in youth. Others make mistakes after they have grown to be men. Still others are merely unfortunate. Practically all diseases and disorders are the result of mistakes or misfortuna. The problem of living a perfect man is simple. Undo the injury that mistakes or misfortune have wrought. Then avoid both—live as nature built you to live.

Undoing the Injury

I do not know how many thousands of men I have treated. I have been a specialist in men's diseases for seventeen years. During most of these years my practice has been the largest of its kind upon the Pacific coast. During the several years just past it has been fully double that of any other specialist in the west treating men's diseases. I have met with but few incurable cases. I have failed to eure in atili fewer cases. In recent years I have failed in none. This is because I attempt to ourse only those able to determine curable and incurable cases with certainty. It is also because my skill in curing has grown and my methods of treatment have been perfocted. The following mention of ailments that come through mistakes and missoriume is necessarily brief. I will gladly explain them further and tell of my ofiginal, scientific and certain methods of treating them to all who will call or write.
