

THREE PLUMS WILL BE PICKED NEXT TUESDAY

Two Probable Recipients of Political Appointments at Hands of State Board are Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner of Salem and Harry E. Bickers of Pendleton.

Appointments as superintendent of the state hospital for the insane at Salem, superintendent of the state reform school and state fish warden are the three big political gifts to be handed out by the state board when it meets in Salem on Tuesday next.

According to the accepted belief of those who are supposedly on the inside Dr. R. E. Lee Steiner of Salem will succeed Dr. J. F. Calbreath as superintendent of the asylum, Harry E. Bickers of Pendleton will resume his way at the reform school, interrupted by the appointment of N. H. Looney some four years ago, while the successor to H. G. Van Dusen of Astoria, master fish warden, is a mystery and uncertain.

Steiner Sure of Place.

The appointment of Dr. Steiner may be taken as a practical certainty because of the known championship of his cause by Secretary of State Frank Benson, who is a personal friend. The certainty of this appointment dates back from the time of the last legislative session when a deal was entered into between Secretary of State Benson and State Treasurer Steel by the terms of which James Steel, brother of the treasurer, was to be appointed state bank examiner under the new banking law, while Dr. Steiner was to be given the superintendency of the asylum, the biggest appointive office in the gift of the board. Mr. Steel was made bank examiner, and it is now in the cards for Dr. Steiner to come into his own.

At the time when the banking law was being shaped out at Salem, Dr. Calbreath, for the four years past the superintendent of the county jail, was a candidate for reappointment. He had then the support of State Treasurer Steel, and for a time it looked as though there would be a deadlock in the board which would result in Dr. Calbreath's holding the office for an indefinite period. The appearance of James Steel as an aspirant for bank examiner changed the complexion of things, however, resulting in the agreement between the two Republican members of the board.

Doubt in Minds of Some.

In the minds of some, however, there is yet a doubt as to the appointment, since State Treasurer Steel has retained W. F. Perkins as his chief deputy. It is argued that this may have abrogated the old contract so that Steel may feel himself not bound to support Dr. Steiner. This, however, is not thought to be the case by the majority of the politicians.

Harry E. Bickers, who is supposed to be on the slate for superintendent of the reform school, was the holder of that office during the Geer administration. He was succeeded by N. H. Looney, through the intercession of David Looney, his brother and at that time senator from Marion county. It is supposed that Treasurer Steel is backing Bickers for appointment and will have his way with Benson.

The appointment of master fish warden is an uncertain question from an outside viewpoint. In it is involved the old fight eternally waged between the fishermen of the upper and lower Columbia. H. G. Van Dusen, present incumbent, hails from Astoria and is supported by the lower river people. He is out for reappointment and is opposed by J. U. Campbell, representative from Clackamas county and a resident of Oregon City, and by Charles

Two Highwaymen Enter Twenty-Eighth and Sandy Road Place at 1 O'clock—Bartender Covered With Revolver and Till Robbed.

Two masked men entered the saloon at Twenty-eighth street and Sandy road shortly before 1 o'clock this morning and at the point of revolvers kept Thomas Mahaney, the bartender, in one corner of the room while they rifled the till, securing about $14 in cash.

They then ironically bade the frightened bartender good night, and keeping him under cover of their guns until they were well outside the door, made their escape.

GOOD WEATHER FOR THE STATE FAIR

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Salem, Or., Aug. 31.—This is an unusual summer, even for Oregon, in the mild and often cloudy days which have predominated so far. The rain which has fallen recently has not damaged crops to any great extent, however. Some grain may have been injured, but potatoes, hops, late vegetables, and most fruit will not be affected. The abundant rains and bad weather at this time of the year presages fair weather in the fall, according to many prophets. When a summer is unusually cool, they say, it means that Old Sol will have his day later on, and fair weather may be expected for the fall. This will be good news to the thousands of people who will be in the hop fields during September, and the thousands more who will attend the greater Oregon state fair at Salem September 16-21. The fair is the big annual event for everybody all over the northwest.

MAYORALTY OF ASHES

Tide Has Set Strongly In Favor of Daniel O. Ryan as Candidate for the Republican Nomination—Mayor Taylor May Be Named By the Democrats.

By John Taylor Waldorf.
San Francisco, Aug. 31.—The wheel of politics has revolved rapidly during the last week, but Daniel A. Ryan is still perched jauntily on the rim, giving smiling encouragement to his Republican followers. Mayor Taylor remains a Democratic possibility, just that and nothing more.

Up to last Monday he looked like a double star, but the Ryan movement has been a great change in the situation. Now the politicians who know most about the great American game of boost and knock say that Ryan is absolutely sure of the Republican nomination.

Ryan is young and energetic, a native of California, a grand trustee of the Native Sons of the Golden West, an able lawyer and an orator of the flowery, tremolo type. His friends claim great popularity for him, but he has never yet gone to the hustings, asking for the office of mayor. He has wanted the fusion nomination for mayor, and, luckily, failed to get it.

May Have Two Opponents.

If Mayor Taylor gets the Democratic nomination, Ryan will have two opponents instead of one, for the Union labor party, while not avowedly going outside its ranks for a nominee, wants either a man who formerly held a union card and is now in business, or some large employer of labor who has always favored union men.

BECAUSE SHE WOULD MARRY A GRANDEE

Countess Frances Holmes Torres Is Constrained to Seek Divorce From a Bigamist.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Tacoma, Wash., Aug. 31.—The press dispatch from Morristown, Pa., stating that Countess Frances Holmes Torres, wife of Count Juan de Las Torres, a Spanish grandee of the Philippines, accuses her husband of bigamy, has caused much comment here, where she is known. The countess, who is of a wealthy Pennsylvania family and heir to millions, came here from Manila recently and was for several weeks the guest of Captain and Mrs. Thomas W. Garlick. She said nothing to the people she met about the bigamy charges against her husband, but a few close acquaintances admitted her husband had vainly tried to prevent her coming back and she was compelled to work to secure money for her passage home. Her lack of pocket money was a means deflected in her wardrobe, which was lavishly in display of rich dresses and finery.

ROMANCE OF A PRINTER'S ERROR

A most romantic story had its sequel on Thursday last in the marriage of Archibald Douglas, director of education of Southern Nevada, and Miss Hawker pastor of the Camden Road Baptist chapel, says the London Mirror.

The wedding was the happy result of a mistake; it was due to a misprint in the spelling of a name in a London newspaper.

A few months ago one of the daughters of the Rev. George Hawker, an athletic 16-year-old school girl, saw from her front doorstep a couple of men misusing a lady, who lives next door to the parsonage in Anson road, Holloway.

The little lady saw her neighbor's purse snatched and, to her horror, saw a blow delivered by one of the two robbers. Instead of fainting Miss Vera Hawker gave chase to the men, who after the assault, made tracks for obscurity.

England's Bad Weather.

A woman who announces that she has just "hooked out of the window and beheld flakes of sleet drifting past on this July morning," writes to the Queen to recall a rhyme which celebrated another season's rain in the month of the one which has afflicted England this year. It ran:

July days has September
Days has November;
All the rest have thirty-one,
Without a blessed gleam of sun,
If any of 'em has two-and-thirty,
They'd be just as wet and twice as dirty.

Yellow and Black Pearls.

From the London Tribune.
There are some gems of which women never grow tired or never can have sufficient—of these the diamond and the pearl rank among the first favorites. The latter, however, is the most sought after, and the craze for strings of perfect pearls is ever on the increase.

Yellow and black pearls are also much appreciated. So much has this craze taken hold of the fashionable woman that the jewelers have prepared most tasteful little jewelry cases to hold one, two or three of these gems, with birthday wishes complete.

The large gold safety-pin brooch with a large colored stone in the center is also very general, turquoise, rubies, amethysts and topaz being chosen according to the tone of the gown worn. These pins are also sold in graduated sizes for the front of blouses instead of buttons.

Purses in platinum, gold and silver follow the modes of checks and stripes, and are so cleverly made that they have the appearance of a tissue, even to the flexible fringes at the bottom. Tiny purses are being made in gold in the shape of a small tobacco pouch with a shankrook leaf in diamonds or pearls. Also crest or monogram in colored stones on the outside.

Paris-American Suits

FOR WOMEN OF FASHION

We are justly proud of our showing of high class Model Suits this season—the kind that we call Paris-American, made by a New Yorker who goes to Paris every summer for his inspiration and then comes back to produce these superb tailored suits. These suits are so far ahead in style and novel ideas of those which dressmakers produce at such prices that the woman with taste will quickly see the advantage of buying an individual suit at a ready-to-wear price.

Little style touches that only a woman of refinement would notice, give them a pre-eminence that ordinary suits, made in factories, do not possess. Price? Say—$50 to $85. Not extravagant for such suits as these.

We have a special showing of all the latest shapes in early fall shadings, including the newest cardinal colorings, at $5 and upward.
