

HARRIMAN'S RECEPTION IN CROOK COUNTY

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Prineville, Or., Sept. 4.—During his stay of about 14 hours here Mr. Harriman expressed himself as much impressed with the country and said Prineville was a much larger place than he expected to find so far from a railroad.

He talked with interest to everyone who was introduced to him, seeming to have an earnest desire to learn all he could about the country and its natural resources. This was apparent in his ordinary conversation, he always keeping the other party, and his interests as the subject.

He thanked the business men for the invitation they had extended to him and said Prineville had more metropolitan ways than he had been able to find since leaving the railroad.

A photograph of the party seated in their automobile, was taken Sunday morning, as they were preparing to start on their trip north, in front of the Prineville hotel.

The remainder of the Harriman party arrived here Tuesday night from the Sisters country, where they have been hunting. The party divided at Redmond, August 31. The young Harrimans say they have experienced the time of their lives, although no large game was killed. The party was in the Corvallis and Eastern survey camp a greater part of the time after leaving Redmond. There the time was spent killing grouse and hunting larger game.

The young men spent the evening about the streets here, seeming much interested in everything, pleased to mingle with the people and eager to learn the ways of the west. The party is composed of five members, W. Arnest Harriman, Roland Harriman, who gave their home as Arden, New York, W. H.

Holbard, as of Los Angeles, California, and J. A. Taylor and M. W. Lytle, M. D. of New York city. They left here at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, going out by way of Lamonta and Madras to Shaniko expecting to arrive there by noon and make the trip to Portland by special train.

CENTRALIA MUST HOUSE NEWCOMERS

Building and Loan Association Proposed as Solution of Serious Prosperity Problem.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Centralia, Wash., Sept. 5.—Some of the leading business, professional and real estate men of Centralia have taken the preliminary steps toward the organizing of a building and loan association in this city. It is proposed to organize with a capital stock of $100,000, to be divided into shares of $100 each. It is expected that all the stock will be subscribed in this city, and it is possible that there will be applications for more than that amount of stock.

One of the most urgent demands here at present is the erection of dwelling-houses for the hundreds of newcomers who are arriving to make their homes in this city. The lumbering, mining, manufacturing and mercantile development in and around Centralia has caused an unprecedented demand for labor of all kinds. To meet this demand people are flocking in from all directions, and to meet this healthy growth in population it is imperative that many new dwellings be erected. The operation of a building and loan association, prudently and conservatively managed, will go a long way toward solving this serious problem.

PORTLAND SCHOOLS OPEN MONDAY SEPTEMBER 16

It Is Estimated That 25,000 Boys and Girls Will Take Their Places at Desks at Opening of School Term—Everything Will Be in Readiness.

School opens in Portland, Monday morning, September 16, at 9 o'clock for nearly 25,000 of her inhabitants.

In an effort to have everything in readiness to house the pupils and present them with their book lists both the contractor and the school officials are working overtime. City Superintendent Rigler stated this morning that he doubted whether a number of the new school buildings will be ready for occupancy.

The addition to the Irvington school building is practically ready but it is believed it will be impossible to get into the annexes of the Portsmouth and Montavilla buildings. The Terwilliger, Arleta and Creston schools are not nearly completed. However, Mr. Rigler thinks all of the pupils can be cared for with the exception of those in the Vernon locality, where there is no old school building. It is likely that this building can be occupied late in the fall or in early winter.

Crowding is seldom felt in Portland until the third of fourth week after the opening, and by that time it is expected that the condition can be relieved by the completion of some of the annexes.

Owing to the adoption of the new text book the city superintendent's office has been compelled to work practically throughout vacation. Although the book was available in June, the rush incident to the close of school was so great as to make it impossible to work out the city schedule of studies at that time. It will probably be ready to hand to the teachers at the general teachers' meeting to be held in the west side high school assembly hall at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, September 14.

The school board will have its regular meeting next Monday night at which time it is probable that teachers will be elected to fill the vacancies on the staff or a day set for that particular purpose. There are three or four applicants for each of the vacancies. At this same meeting the question of adding a department of domestic science will be considered with every indication that it will be adopted.

Three of the five members of the board have expressed themselves as favorable to the addition of such a course to the school curriculum as proposed by Director L. N. Fetschner. Should the board favor the proposition it will probably not be installed until some time during the winter.

This year 614 teachers will look after the destinies of the pupils, 106 of whom have risen from the pupil-teacher's class. This semi-normal training class will this year contain 35 pupils who intend to pursue teaching as a vocation. That the instruction given is valuable is indicated by the demand of the various principals for members of the class. Pupil-teachers are graduates of the high school and recite every Saturday to City Superintendent Robinson. Some who have graduated from this class have been engaged in teaching in the city school for 20 years and the method is proved to be successful in the highest degree.

A $15.00 OSBORN MANDOLIN—FREE

Only a few days left in which to avail yourself of this grand opportunity. We have all of them guessing. The music stores and the other conservatories as well as the private teachers, are staying awake nights trying to study it out. A 17-rib, solid Rosewood Osborn Mandolin will be given absolutely free of charge to pupils taking a course of forty lessons. That is, until our limited number are placed.

This Offer Will Not Extend Later Than September 14th

At 5 p. m., and it may be withdrawn at any minute. We have arranged to place a musical education within the reach of all until these instruments are exhausted on this basis. The course of forty lessons and the mandolin for $20, and the payments are 50 cents a week, with the mandolin delivered in your home upon payment of the first $2. Send your name and address to the conservatory and one of our solicitors will call upon you. There will not be two instruments placed in any one home. Do not confuse The Osborn Conservatory with any of these mandolin agencies who are disposing of an inferior grade of instruments. You get the benefit of instruction that would cost you from $2 to $5 a lesson were you to take private lessons. These lessons are given in class. By giving lessons to over 55,750 pupils in the past six years we have demonstrated beyond a doubt that class teaching is more beneficial than private lessons, to the average pupil. There is always a rivalry between the pupils. Each wants to outdo the other. While our expenses have advanced 100 per cent in the past six years still our price remains the same, 50 cents a lesson.

THE OSBORN CONSERVATORY OF MUSIC

Permanently located at the Corner of East Morrison and Grand Avenue, Second Floor.

Should one of our solicitors call upon you take advantage of the opportunity while you have a chance. You may never have such an opportunity again.

SENATOR DANIEL IS SIXTY-FIVE TODAY

Southern Democrats Would Like to See Solon Made the Next President.

(Journal Special Service.)

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 5.—Senator John V. Daniel, whom a host of southern Democrats would like to see nominated for the presidency next year, was 65 years old today and was reminded of the fact by receiving numerous congratulations from his fellow townsmen and from friends and admirers in all sections of the country. Senator Daniel was born in Lynchburg and has always made his home here.

It is now nearly 40 years since Senator Daniel began his political career as a member of the Virginia house. In 1881 he was defeated as Democratic candidate for governor by W. E. Cameron, and returned to law practice. He went to congress in 1886, and the following year succeeded General Mahone in the United States senate. There is one interesting chapter in the life of Senator Daniel, with which the general public is not familiar. His father was judge William Daniel of Lynchburg, a man of prominence and wealth. Although his fortune was considerably impaired by the war, he still had a lucrative practice, and during the 10 years which succeeded he was among those who foresaw the great commercial development of the country. He engaged himself in numerous speculative enterprises. But he was anguine to the point of being visionary. Everything seemed to him promising, and it was his habit first to subscribe to $10,000 worth of stock and then to ask what was the nature of the business.

In 1878, when he died, it was found that his estate was hopelessly insolvent. There were claims by creditors over and above the assets amounting to more than $100,000. These claims the son John assumed. He had been practicing law in his father's office, but there was no obligation on him of a moral or legal character. The schemes and speculations had been entered into without his knowledge or advice. The bankruptcy law afforded a wide door for escape. He could have wiped the slate clean and started the world anew. But he chose otherwise. To him it seemed that the only honorable course was to pay his father's debts in full and with interest. It took all the earnings of his life to do it. Accordingly he notified the creditors of his intention and began upon the herculean task.

That was nearly 35 years ago, and during almost the entire time that has elapsed since then Senator Daniel has paid over the greater part of his inheritance to his father's creditors. He has lived on less than $2,000 a year. When in Washington he has lived at the cheapest hotels, and although crippled full

HANDSOME MONUMENT TO WILLIAM M'KINLEY

Crowning Feature of Buffalo Old Home Week Is Dedication Today.

(Journal Special Service.)

Buffalo, N. Y., Sept. 5.—As the crowning feature of the Old Home week/celation Buffalo today dedicated a handsome monument erected in honor of President William McKinley, who fell a victim to the assassin's bullet while holding a public reception at the Pan-American exposition here six years ago tomorrow.

The dedication was one of the most brilliant affairs of its kind ever seen here and attracted thousands of visitors from all over western New York, and many from across the Canadian line. Governor Hughes was the central figure of the ceremonies and the principal speaker. The dedication was preceded by a big military parade, in which the Spanish war and numerous other military and semi-military organizations took part. The monument occupies a commanding site in Niagara square, opposite the house in which lived and died President William McKinley. The monument is of Vermont marble and consists of a shaft with sculptured lions at the base. The total height is 93 feet, the height of the base being 24 feet. The cost of the memorial exceeds $100,000 and was supplied from the unexpended balance of the New York state appropriation for the Pan-American exposition held here in 1901. The architects of the monument were Carrere & Hastings of New York City, and the lions were sculpted by A. Phinister Proctor, also of New York.
