Synamox and Corsair Win in B and C Classes, With Comet Winner of Handicap Race-Yacht Club Projects Larger Things.

By J. L. Wallin, Staff Correspondent. Astoria, Or., Sept. 5.-Four saffing races were run over the same course at once yesterday afternoon, the events being boats of classes B and C, handicap yacht and fishboat races. Classes B and C were made up of Portland skimming-dishes, with the exception of the yacht Winged O from this city Synamox won first place in class B, and The Corsair won in class C. The Comet won the handicap race. These events marked the closing of the resatta.

All hope of pulling off the sailing races had about been abandined when at 2 o'clock the wind suddenly began to freshen with increasing strength from the northwest. It had been blowing from the east all morning until neon, when it died down and the sea fell flat. Similar conditions on the preceding two days had been followed by calm afternoons, and for that reason it was feared that the races would have to be declared off for the season. But the prayers of the yachtsmen must have been heard; for, after all, the wind came and transformed the mirror-like came and transformed the mirror-like surface of the bay into a ruffled sheet of somber gray. The boats had been hanging around, as it was their last chance, and it did not take long to get into action when the committee finally announced that the start would be called

The Start and the Finish.

The Start and the Finish.

The first boat passed the spar at 1319:29. It was the Comet, sailed by Captain Todd of the Oregon Yacht club, and she skimmed along at a nice clip, although the breeze was still light. The other boats kept away in hopes of getting a better start and it was 2:27:05 when the Synamox passed the spar. Then followed the Iroquois at 2:31:32, the Hoot Mon at 2:32:45, and the Zephyr at 2:36:48. These were of the B class.

The Class boats passed the starting spar as follows: Winged O. 2:28:55: Corsair, 2:32:51; Naiad, 2:34:03.

In the meantime the 15 fishermen sailboats spread their more or less spotless wings to the breezes and bore off toward the rounding buoy beyond the bars of Desdemona sands. With four races being run in one, the starters and timekeepers were busy as bees.

The last of the yachts pulled away at 2:35:48, and it was 3:34:05 before the first passed the line marking the finish, or approximately an hour clapsed from the time the Zephyr left till the Comet crossed the line on the home stretch, and 1 hour, 40 minutes and 59 seconds elapsed from the start of the Comet to the return of the Naiad, the tail-ender of the yachts. The fish-boats finished a little later.

Results of the Baces.

The actual time of the B class boats follows: First, Synamox, 1:13:23; second, Comet, 1:14:26; third, Zepayr, 1:15:18; fourth, Hoot Mon, 1:18:25; fifth, Iroquo's, 1:19:40.

The actual time of the C class boats was: First, Coreair, 1:06:12; second, Wingsd O, 1:15:25; third, Naiad, 1:26:25, The Dancin' Sal started, but failed to finish.

The fishboat sailing race was won by It. Tarrabocis, with D. Henderson second and Ed Pollard third. The Comet won the handicap yacht race, the Winged O being the scratch boat, the Comet having been allowed a handicap of 5 mintues and 60 seconds. The Symamox came second and Zephyr third. Pickpockets did not steer clear of the regatta, but on the contrary they worked quite successfully and persistently since the opening of the festivities. W. Madison, an Astoria business man, was robbed of a $300 diamond scarf pin Tuesday afternoon while in the grand stand viewing the races or making his way through the crowded streets. Several persons have reported the loss of pocketbooks. One man was robbed of a purse containing $60, while taking a streetcar ride.

It is generally conceded, however, that the crowd, taken all in all, was more orderly than ever and this is attributed largely to the fact that the dance halls and dives of the lower end of the city are closed and the rattle of chips strictly prohibited. The moral wave swept over the town so thoroughly that very few of the undesirable element

FOR BETTER RACING.

Yacht Club Will Probably Build Fleet of Boats.

Fleet of Boats.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Astoria, Or., Sept. 5.—Will A. Knight, commodore of the Oregon Yacht club, has received from Frank M. Foulser, a well-known eastern writer on yachting affairs, and one of the founders of the Motor Boat club, a suggestion for bettering and building up the local yacht club which seems to him the most feasible plan yet presented.

Mr. Foulser recommends the construction of 10 yachts of exactly identical design, costing in the aggregate, approximately $1,000. These yachts should be from the boards of a clever designer and built in the same shop with especial consideration for the conditions surrounding the sport in this vicinity. With the exception of racing days these boats should be accessible to every member of the club for pleasure sailing, but on the dates set aside for racing, they should be turned over to the 10 best sailors and raced under the most even terms possible.

"In no other way," asserts the eastern man, who has sailed all classes and descriptions of boats, "can good sailors be better developed from the rising generation." He states that the most successful yacht clubs in the country are made up of two classes of members, the "piazza yachtsman." usually an elderly man, who enjoys the organization for the social privileges it affords, and the active sailor, the majority of whom are young fellows in their teens of early twenties. Many of these cannot afford to own a boat, but by levying an assessment upon the entire club or by circulating a subscription list, a thousand dollars should be easily raised, and these younger members given a chance to show what they can do. This method, he claims, has already rejuvenated and in some instances been responsible for the successful formation of strong clubs in various sections of the country.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Astoria, Or., Sept. 5.—From a financial standpoint the regatta which closed last night was a brilliant success, in fact the committee did such a prosperous business that the grandstand was thrown open on the last day free to everybody. L. E. Selig, who had charge of the admissions, reports that never before did the grandstand receive such liberal patronage. Immense crowds had to be turned away on the two first days of the regatta. days of the regatta.

The saloons run wide open day and night excepting Sundays, but notwithstanding this fact there was little disorder during the regatta, everybody having apparently made up his mind to make the best of things. The committee on sports had to listen to more or less serious complaints from defeated

The unfortunate man at the time of the accident was milking a very nervous cow and had his head pressed against the bovine's side. The animal became fractious and backed Merrill against a rail fence. The man's head was doubled up on his chest and the dislocation of the back bone occurred.

Paralysis developed as the result of pressure on the spinal cord and on August 27, the injured rancher was brought to the Good Samaritan hospital for treatment. Dr. Williamson attended him but despite the skill of the surgeon Merrill succumbed.

PROMPT POLICEMAN PREVENTS MURDER

Discharged Laborer Nabbed While Doging Steps of His Victims.

Had it not been for the alertness of Potrolman Humphreys, Nick Musrich an Italian laborer, employed on the north bank road, might now be waiting trial on a charge of murder rather than assault with a dangerous weapon.

Muzrieh was arrested yesterday afternoon at Second and Burnside streets by Patrolman Humphreys on a charge of carrying concealed weapons. When taken into custody the man, evidently thirsting for gore, attempted to draw a revolver but changed his mind upon looking into the ominous muzzle of the policeman's 28. When searched at headquarters a pair of brass knuckles was also found on the prisoner.

The attention of Humphreys was attracted to Muzrich by the fellow's action in following W. E. Thomas superintendent of the Pacific Coast Construction company about the streets for over two hours. Upon investigation the patrolman ascertained that the man had attempted to to pull a revolver on Thomas but was knocked down by one of the former's employes. Muzrich thereupon dogged the footsteps of the two men seeking revenge. The prompt action of the policeman in making the arrest undoubtedly prevented a homicide. Muzrich was formerly employed by Thomas and is said to have shot a fellow laborer in a north bank construction camp.

Thomas appeared in court this morn-struction camp.

Thomas appeared in court this morning and swore to a complaint against the prisoner, charging him with assault with a dangerous weapon. Patrolman Humphreys also filed a similar charge and Muzrich has been bound over to the grand jury.
