AS NATURE WOULD.

THE ASSAULT by workmen on the Hindoos at Bellingham, Washington, has its several forms of significance. The most notable of these is that labor is scarce and costly. Oregon horticulturists in a recent gathering emphasized the fact. Many of them told how their crops had rotted last season because laborers could not be procured to gather and pack the fruit.

MADE-TO-ORDER PANICS.

DOWN in Wall street where they make panics to order, the barons of finance refuse to be comforted. Fits are epidemic, and whenever there is a fresh outburst of roaring in the White House the entire financial column lapses into hysterics. One legal light of the infected district declared recently that if the man in the White House isn't soon tamed, "liberty will become a hollow mockery."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Portland, Sept. 5.—To the Editor of The Journal.—Governor Chamberlain attracted wide attention at the Irrigation Congress the other day when he spoke on the land question. Oregon has been robbed of her lands by vandals and there is no cure in convicting a few of the living and the dead. We must have the land for the people of Oregon to tax the dog in the man's pocket.

SHALL THIS LESSON PASS UNHEEDED?

NAPOLEON tempted fate and fell. Until he stood on thrones, his power was secure. Money is potential until it grows over-ardent. Tweed fell in the mire of his shame, when he over-reached prudential bounds. The Pennsylvania state house ring might have gone on undiscovered in its infamy but for its monumental greed.

LOUIS GLASS WAS THE VISIBLE HEAD OF A GREAT TELEPHONE CORPORATION.

He was its president and general manager. He was the incarnation of respectable business life. He was a man on whom the rising and ambitious youth might look as a model. His position was one to challenge admiration, and be the setting of a dazzling day dream.

luxurious home and an interesting family must have been its accompaniment. It was a combination on which friends and relatives must have looked with pride and envy. But the name of Glass is dishonored. The head of the telephone corporation bends low. Like Napoleon, he defied fate. The pursuit of his business led him to tempt public officials. The lure of business success was his decoy. It was a way that many others have trod. His excuse to his conscience doubtless was business, somewhat shadowy mayhap, but still business.

DESIRABLE QUALITIES IN A WIFE

By Ella Wheeler Wilcox. After cheerful affection, order and neatness, an idea of the value of money comes next in the good qualities of a wife. Do not like the word "economy" because it is incapable of giving any parity and stinginess. An extravagant man or woman is preferable to a miserly one. Admirable qualities in connection with extravagance, but the miserly nature is without redeeming features.

is by no means an impossible one. It should be apparent to any one that until he is at least placed in possession of the evidence on which indictments were based he cannot proceed.

BOY SEES THINGS THAT ARE NOT FOUND EASILY WITHOUT LOOKING STRAIGHT AT THEM

All over Scandinavia a great excitement and sensation has been caused by a thirteen-year-old Norwegian boy, John Floetum, who seems to be possessed of a most phenomenal clairvoyant power. More than six months ago somebody at Singaas, where the boy is living, observed the remarkable ability which he had shown in finding lost things and persons.

At first no special notice was taken of it, but about a fortnight ago a commercial traveler, living in the Osterdal valley, was misled. Somebody took the opportunity to speak about the boy's remarkable power to the police, who for nearly a week had tried in vain to locate the missing man.

The method adopted was as follows: A photograph of the missing man was shown to the boy, and he indicated a river about twenty miles away, where the body was promptly found. FURTHER PROTEST AGAINST CREMATION

Another meeting of the East Portland Citizens' association was held at the Church of Good Tidings last night. Further protests were entered against the location of a crematory at the mouth of Sullivan's gulch and the body asserted itself as being unalterably opposed to the location of a garbage plant in any residence district whether on the east or west side of the city.

BECAUSE THE JUDGE COMMENTED ON CASE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Olympia, Wash., Sept. 7.—The supreme court has handed down opinions as follows:
William A. Scheider, respondent, vs. Great Northern Railway company, appellant, from Stevens county, reversed and new trial ordered. Respondent was ejected from a Great Northern train on his return ticket traveling from Sandpoint, Idaho, to Coeur d'Alene, but was allowed to board the train again and complete the trip. The jury gave him a verdict for $700 for physical injuries sustained. The supreme court orders a new trial because the trial judge commented on evidence offered by appellant to show that respondent was a habitual drunkard. The supreme court says, was prejudicial.
