FIVE TRIALS ON PROGRAM TODAY

Fall Tourney at Irvington to End With Social Dance at Clubhouse.

MISS FORDING STARS IN WOMEN'S EVENTS

Wins Two Firsts and Will Probably Capture a Third Today—Goss and Turner Play Long Five-Set Match—Results of Yesterday.

At 3 p. m. Finals in men's singles, open handicap—W. A. Goss (owe 40 4-6) vs. Kenneth McAlpin (owe 3-6). Best three sets in five. Finals in men's doubles, open handicap—Wilder and Andrews (owe 40) vs. Turner and Rohr (owe 30). Best three sets in five. Finals in ladies' singles, club championship—Miss Fording vs. Mrs. Northrup. Best two sets in three. At 4 p. m. Finals in men's singles, club championship—W. A. Goss vs. H. V. Andrews. Best three sets in five. Finals in mixed doubles, open handicap—Miss Leadbetter and K. McAlpin vs. Mrs. Judge and Scott. Best two sets in three.

Today is the closing day of the fall tournament at the Irvington Tennis club. Today five final matches will be played, and tonight the club will give a dance, at which a feature will be the presentation of the tournament trophies. The tournament has on the whole been a great success. The handicapping was as a rule well done, and many very close matches marked the closing days. Yesterday four matches were played, the finals in two of the ladies' events and the semi-finals in two of the men's events. Miss Fording, the present holder of the ladies' club championship in singles, won the ladies' open handicap yesterday by defeating Miss Campbell in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4. Miss Fording will probably win the ladies' club championship again this afternoon. She has a strong chop, a strong cut serve, handles herself well at the net and looks like a coming state champion.

Wins Ladies' Doubles. Miss Fording was also successful with Miss Fox in the ladies' doubles, which was won from Mrs. Cook and Miss Leadbetter, 3-6, 6-1. Turner and Rohr won their way into the finals of the men's handicap doubles by defeating two promising players, Mackenzie and Frohman, in three sets out of four. The younger players put up a very brilliant game, Mackenzie being especially successful in his fast forehand drive.

The event of the day was the semi-final match in the upper half of the men's open singles set. The contestants were Goss and Turner. The handicap was small, owe 4-6, but Goss was given the closest run he has had during the tournament. The match went to the five full sets, Goss finally winning by sheer endurance. Turner captured the first set 4-3, and the second 6-1, but at the end of it he was "all in" and Goss' staying powers prevented the loss of the leading set.

Last Set is Hard Fought. Goss won the third and fourth, 6-2, 6-2. With the score 3-1 against him in the fifth Turner made a desperate attempt to pull out the longest in the match. It went to deuce nearly a score of times, Turner finally winning. Turner's Frohman playing a really hard game, 4-3 and 40-30, but Goss pulled it up to deuce with an ace on the side lines and then captured the game. Turner forced it for the next two, Goss lobbed continually and very deep; Turner was groggy and his smash was gone, and Goss took the third set 6-1.

The match between Goss and Kenneth McAlpin in the finals should be a very good one. Goss must owe 40, and as young McAlpin is playing a really high grade of tennis he stands a strong chance to defeat his clever opponent.

Yesterday's Summary. Ladies' singles, open handicap (finals)—Miss Fording (owe 30 3-6) beat Miss Campbell (owe 8-6), 6-2, 6-4. Ladies' doubles, open handicap (finals)—Miss Fording and Miss Fox (owe 15 3-6) beat Mrs. Cook and Miss Leadbetter (owe 30), 6-6, 6-1. Men's open singles (semi-final)—Goss beat Turner, 6-2, 6-2, 6-1. Men's doubles, open handicap (semi-finals)—Turner and Rohr (owe 30) beat Mackenzie and Frohman (owe 3-8), 6-2, 6-2, 6-1.

Three Straight for Angels. (Journal Special Service.) San Francisco, Sept. 7.—Joy was wild yesterday and gave the Angels their third straight victory. Score: R. H. E. Los Angeles..... 4 7 1 St. Louis..... 0 4 2 Batteries—Gray and Eager; Joy, Quick and Street.

ASK YOURSELF THIS QUESTION

How can people with kidney trouble expect to get well on the ordinary patent medicines when the census deaths from kidney disease show that 92 out of every 100 of them die from a form of kidney trouble that was absolutely incurable as well as before—the first to cure in the chronic fatal stages. That these diseases are now curable by the compounds discovered by Fulton is established here as well as in California.—Buffalo, N. Y., Daily Times.

Fulton's Renal Compound is the only one in the world that publishes no testimonials except in the supposed incurable forms. All druggists.

James Edward Britt.

GANS BECOMES A PRONOUNCED FAVORITE OVER CALIFORNIAN

(Pacific Coast Press Leased Wire.) San Francisco, Sept. 7.—Joe Gans became a more pronounced public choice over Jimmy Britt today, in the face of the most favorable reports from the training quarters of the California lightweight. The price went to 10 to 6 1/2. Some judges seem to think this will be the lowest point touched in the betting, while others expect to see it go still lower. Britt weighed 133 1/2 yesterday. When Gans stepped on the scales after his work he weighed 134 pounds, which means that each man will make the weight without having to do any severe work. When the straight betting on the fight settles down to a solid base it is expected there will be some betting on the rounds. If any be done it will probably be on the basis of even money that Gans wins in 20 rounds.

The advance sale of seats for the admission day fight goes merrily on, with large blocks of pastboards changing hands. With the Ketchel-Thomas fight out of the way interest is now centering on the lightweight championship tussle. Although Joe Thomas' defeat has spoiled the native sons' combination, it has boosted the stock of the foreign contenders, the favorites are being knocked down with such regularity that the dope book is useless. On form Gans figures a 6-to-10 shot, but unless large chunks of the yellow metal pour in on the champion the odds are liable to soar upwards a point or two.

The supporters of Britt place great dependence upon Jimmy's speed and excellent condition, and anticipate seeing Gans battered into submission by repeated body blows. Unless Father Time has sapped the vitality of the Californian he will enter the ring at his best, because the weight will not bother him a particle.

Gans has eliminated all hard work from his training and will simply do enough road and indoor work to keep on edge and to stay close to the 133-pound notch. He doesn't say much as to his plan of battle, but it can readily be seen that he does not hold Britt cheaply and will to the scratch prepared for a gruelling match.

A new blow is being rehearsed behind closed doors and no peering eyes will be allowed to get a line on the method that Britt employs to penetrate Kreling's guard. The close study has been made of Gans' defense and special pains and care have been taken to map out a plan of battle that will prove to be the most effective.

Everybody is fight-crazy just now. The Labor day battle is the talk of the town and has created new interest in the Admission day affair. The fact that such a large crowd took the trip to the outskirts of the city indicates the prosperous condition of the city as well as what a firm grip boxing has upon the public. Unless all signs fall there will be a record-breaking assemblage of sports at Recreation park in the Welsh gives his final instructions to the lightweights who will battle for a princely sum and the lightweight title.

RUMOR ABOUT KELLY PROVED TO BE UNTRUE

The story that Dan Kelly broke the record for 100 yards at Jamestown yesterday, published as a rumor in The Journal, proved to be without foundation. The story was started by some one with a very peculiar sense of humor. It was given out that a friend of Kelly had received a dispatch to the effect that he had won the 100 yards in 9 2-5 seconds, and though the "friend" could not be located, the report spread all over town and even to the Multnomah club. While doubting the truth of the report, The Journal published it for what it was worth as a rumor.

By R. A. W. A goodly number of ladies, quite a few men and as many boys as had the price or the ability to sell peanuts, flocked at the vacant lot near the exposition grounds yesterday afternoon to see a miracle. This strange and unforeseen happening consisted in the actions of some nine young men known to fandom as Beavers, who by hook and crook compelled the small boy over on the back fence to hang a figure "3" and another figure "2" on the blackboard opposite the letter "P" while the figure "1" was hung alongside of "0."

Some Heart Throbs and Squeaks. Some heart throbs and squeaks were caused in the last half of the first act, when Burdette walked down to first base, through the four times repeated favor of Pitcher Wright, stole second and then got over to third somehow, or other, figure "2" on the blackboard opposite the letter "P" while the figure "1" was hung alongside of "0."

Immediately afterwards the shadow of the evil genius appeared over the grandstand, and never again did he strike out. He hit out to center, and the bleachers shut up tight and swore at Derrick for allowing Bliss to catch the ball.

TWO-YEAR-OLD A PRISONER AT BAR

Tiny George Shaffer Holds Record for Youngest Person Ever Tried.

Pittsburg, Sept. 7.—The most notable residence in Pittsburg at this moment is that in Bigelow street in which lives George Wilson Shaffer, the two-year-old youngster who holds the record as the most youthful person to have ever suffered actual arrest and trial. On Monday he acquitted himself of the charge of malicious mischief made by Frank D. Fisher, from whose lawn a piece of sod had been torn up. Little George has been placed in the ranks of prominent citizens.

George is not affected by the bright light of publicity and apparently has only a hazy idea of the position of public malefactor in which he was placed. Mr. Fisher, his father's neighbor, reluctantly pursued him with the law, but when the only testimony against him was found to be a tale told by Fisher's son involving George in the mutilation of the lawn, the magistrate threw the case out of court. The populace hooted Fisher and cheered George.

Instead of wearing stripes and looking through bars George went today to a birthday party given for one of his playmates and had a fine time at the lion of the hour. An effort to interview him upon the hardships he had suffered met with a ready response in talk about the subjects brought to his light to Portland hearts again by a joke. He playfully tossed the ball quite rapidly down to first, while Mr. Smith was trying to fix his eyes on some bright bit of color in the grandstand. Consequently Mr. Smith and the side went out into the field to get the ball. Then he tried to knock Casey down, but had failed. Devereaux, however, managed to get home before the disaster, thus putting the kibosh on things Portland for the moment.

LOCAL SCORE THREE TIMES.

Portland evened things up a little in the fourth by overbalancing the score. Pay walked out to first and Mott went in to pitch. He pitched a curve which Byrnes also got there because Devereaux was so busy saying funny things to make the ladies laugh that he missed the ball when it came to him. Kinella swatted one out into the infield, but some unkind young man in the Oakland uniform hit it back to the rubber in time to catch Pay in the act.

Then Casey came to bat, but the poem was not true. Casey slapped the horse head and tried to knock Casey down, but had failed. Devereaux, however, managed to get home before the disaster, thus putting the kibosh on things Portland for the moment.

HOLDUP MAN LETS GOOD THING ALONE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Helena, Mont., Sept. 7.—New York capitalists, together with residents of Butte and Helena, have formed a syndicate to take over the Barnes-King gold mine in Fergus county, and enlarge the milling equipment. The Barnes-King is a low grade cyanide proposition. The ore is simply quarried out by blasting, shoveled on cars, taken to the mill, and dumped into the tanks. It and others of its class have within five years made Fergus county the banner gold producer of the state.

Fergus county is reached by a single railroad from Helena by way of Lomax, and from Lewistown to Kendall the journey must be made by stage. There is no through express line, and the gold from the Barnes-King, Kendall and other famous mines, including those of John A. Drake, the famed Wall street plunger and turf king of Chicago and New York, is shipped to the United States assay office in this city by registered mail. The first loss of a single dollar's worth of the precious metal is yet to be reported, and the shipments run from $25,000 to $75,000 a month and sometimes even larger. Neither has an attempt ever been made to hold up the stage between Kendall and Lewistown while carrying the precious consignments.

(United Press Leased Wire.) Jamestown, Sept. 7.—The Federal grand jury has returned additional indictments against the syndicate company of New York, the syndicate company and the Buchanan, New York Central and Pennsylvania roads, charging collusion in the sale.
