HEALTH OFFICER, BEGINS WAR TO EXTERMINATE WATERFRONT RATS

One thousand dollars was appropriated by the city council yesterday to enable Health Officer Pohl and the health board to wage war on rats and fleas to prevent the introduction of bubonic plague in Portland.

Dr. Pohl called the attention of the board to the fact that 20 cases of the dreaded disease had broken out in San Francisco since August 12, and that heroic measures were being taken there at great expense to ward off an epidemic. She fears that unless stringent precautionary measures are taken the malady may be introduced here by San Francisco and oriental vessels.

Secretary Yenny of the state board of health addressed the board in favor of exterminating the rats and cited the council to the unsanitary condition along the waterfront and in the railroad terminal yards. He asserted that refuse should not be permitted to be thrown in the terminal yards to be destroyed by yard fires or through evaporation.

Dr. Pohl told the council that bubonic plague had been in existence in San Francisco ever since the epidemic there some six years ago, but had never had a chance to come to the surface. She said that it had not been introduced this time from an Asiatic port, but the first case had developed in a sailor on a local tugboat.

Not only did the council show a disposition to aid in preventing the introduction of the disease, but Dr. Pohl was given individual assurance that more funds would be forthcoming to fight against bubonic or any other plague.

Sanitary assistants, professional rat-killing and the inoculation of "rat typhoid" in the rodent family will be the means of eradicating the pest.

COMMISSION ACTS FOR LUMBERMEN

Sends Letter to State Railway Commissions in East Asking for Cooperation.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
 Salem, Or., Sept. 12.—The railway commission yesterday sent a letter to the railway commissions of Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, Montana, Wyoming, Colorado and Kansas, asking for their cooperation against the proposed increase in rates on lumber from Oregon and Washington to eastern points. This is in performance of the promise of the commission made at the meeting with the representatives of the Oregon and Washington Lumber Association in Portland last Monday.

The letters are alike in character. The Oregon and Washington lumbermen proposed increase in almost the same words as in the lumbermen's petition presented Monday. The text of the telegram sent from Portland to the interstate commerce commission at Washington, D. C., at that time is given and the other commissions are urged to send telegrams of like character.

In writing to the Nebraska commission the Oregon commission says: "Oregon and Washington have abundance of fine timber of which the manufactured products have found a ready market in your state, while there is a great demand for such products.

PLEASURE GIVES WAY TO SEASON OF WORK

Veterans at Saratoga Encampment of the Grand Army Hear Reports.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Saratoga, N. Y., Sept. 12.—This was the day for business at the annual G. A. R. encampment and the meetings of the auxiliary organizations. The continuous round of pleasure that the veterans and other visitors have enjoyed since their arrival in Saratoga gave way to a season of work, and before the close of the day the greater part of the routine business will be disposed of.

In convention hall at 10 o'clock this morning the forty-first encampment of the Grand Army was called to order by the retiring commander-in-chief, R. S. Brown of Ohio. The opening hour was devoted to addresses by representatives of the State of New York, the village of Saratoga and the local veterans, with appropriate responses by several of the prominent visitors. As soon as the exchange of greetings was over the encampment went into executive session to hear the address of the commander-in-chief and the annual reports of the adjutant-general showed that the veterans are rapidly passing away, the New percentage of loss in the membership during the past 12 months having been greater than during any other similar period since the organization of the Grand Army.

In the First M. E. church this morning the Women's Relief corps began its twenty-fifth national convention, the sessions of which will continue through tomorrow. A large number of resolutions are to be presented to the convention and the session promises to be of more than ordinary interest. The department of Illinois has prepared a resolution asking the convention to erect a monument to the memory of

MARYLAND CELEBRATES AT JAMESTOWN FAIR

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Norfolk, Va., Sept. 12.—The "Star Spangled Banner" and "Maryland, My Maryland" were the airs heard everywhere about the Jamestown exposition grounds today. It was Maryland State day on the calendar of the exposition and visitors from every part of the state flocked to the fair to help make the day a notable occasion.

The exercises of the day were held in the Auditorium, which was filled with as distinguished an assemblage as had been seen there since its opening. Charles J. Bonaparte, attorney-general of the United States, was the orator of the day, but he was not the only distinguished speaker heard. Governor Swanson of Virginia delivered a cordial address of welcome and Governor Warfield of Maryland made a felicitous response. Admiral Winfield Scott Schley was introduced as one of the honored

ARCHBISHOP KEANE CELEBRATES BIRTHDAY

(United Press Leased Wire.)

BATTLESHIP BARELY ESCAPES DESTRUCTION

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Washington, Sept. 12.—The battleship Indiana narrowly escaped destruction, according to a report made public by the navy department, by a fire which started in the coal bunkers on September 5. The ship is now undergoing repairs at League Island. The heroic action of the crew in removing the ammunition saved the vessel.

OLD DEFENDERS' DAY IS BALTIMORE EVENT

City Celebrates Legal Holiday in Memory of Heroes of the War.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
 Baltimore, Md., Sept. 12.—Baltimore today kept its annual holiday in celebration of Old Defenders' day, the anniversary of the successful defense of the city against the attack by the British on September 12, 1814. The repulse of the 8,000 British troops was due to the heroism of a little American garrison under command of Major Armistead and it was this incident that led Francis Scott Key to compose the "Star Spangled Banner."

Key had been sent to the British admiral under a flag of truce to request the release of one of his friends who shortly before had been captured when the British burned Washington. The admiral promised to grant Key's request, but detained him with the fleet in Chesapeake for two days to prevent his carrying ashore news of a proposed attack on Fort Mifflin at Baltimore. The British admiral had declared that he soon would compel the Americans to haul down the flag within the fort, and during the night of the 13th, while the bombardment was in progress, Key watched the flag anxiously from the deck of a British warship, until the bombardment ceased, sometime before daylight. With the first rays of dawn he was straining his eyes to discover whether the admiral's prediction had come true. When he found that the flag was "still there," and that during the night the Americans had repulsed the British both on land and water, his joy found vent in some hastily scribbled notes on the back of an old letter he had in his pocket. He put them into verse while returning in the boat to Baltimore, and a few days later the verses were adapted to the air of an English song, "To Anacreon in Heaven."
