railroad. The city can make it hot for you for this action and I shall investi-site fully the proceedings you have in-stituted. This city will take this mat-ter to the court of last resort if you think you can run over us." Mayor Lame yesterday gave Manager Miller of the Mount Hood Railway & Electric company one of the severest grillings ever heard in a city hall com-mittee meeting, when the latter peti-tioned for a permit to cross the city's property after filing suit to condemn a strip of Land. It is not improbable that the city officials will refuse to have any more dealings with Miller as an of-neal of the company. Tussday Miller appeared before Judge McBride in the circuit court at Oregon City and swore to the truthfulness of condemnatory papers looking to the ac-quirement of a 100-foot strip across 18 property af the property at the con-function of Bull Run creek and Handy rive.

The only overtures made by differ's company was when the mana-ar asked Mayor Lane for a permit. The mayor told him it was not his rowince to grant rights of way and irected him to Superintendent Dodge of he water department, so that the lat-er might take the matter up with the rater board, which would in turn ask he council to give the railway com-any the desired strip. The city of-cials contend that Miller made no ormal petition for a right of way. However, that official filed his peti-ton with the board yesterday and the itter initmated it might grant an ease-ent, but under the circumstances did of the to part with the full title to he property.

not care to part with the full fills to the property. In addition to its tracks the Mount Hood company also desires to construct a flume on the property. This request involves certain water rights. Should it be found that the city's water rights are in jeopardy the fight against con-demnation will be carried into the high-est courts.

Subsequent experiments proved that the deer were afraid of the to-bacco smoke, and as smoking is a pleas-ant pastime, all of Mr. Prentiss's neigh-bors have adopted this means of ridding themselves of the deer. It is said that on a still night the animals will detect the odor of tobacco almost 500 yards and that they will straightway take to the woods with the first whiff. In some instances when the wind was blowing in their direction they received the warning at a longer straightway take to the woods with the first whiff. In some instances when the wind was blowing in their direction they received the warning at a longer distance. All the farmers say that after scenting tobacco the deer will keep away for from three to five days. They are then likely to make the field or garden another visit with the hope of grazing on tender shoots or uproot-ing growing vegetables. Several farmers in this and adjoining towns do not smoke and are forced to hire men to do it for them. These em-ployees receive 10 cents an hour and their tobacco. One farmer, who is noted for being close, decided it was cheaper to learn to smoke himself. So he bought a pipe and tobacco and began operations in his corn field. In-side of 10 minutes he was taken death-ly ill and headed for the house. On the way he became dizzy and fell into an old well. Fortunately his wife heard his cries and he was rescued with a smoker or lew the deer eat all his crops before he tries the weed again.

ARCHERY COMES INTO

VOGUE AS A PASTIME Even in the most active summer

there are times when the young girls of a country neighborhood long for a diversion, says the New York new Civersion, says the New York Herald—something that can be done out of doors, something that has never been a part of the summer amusements of that particular colony before, and that will not be too difficult of inaugu-ration. In this connection it seems strange tist girls in America do not more often go in for archery. archery clubs compete with one another year after year and pleasant meetings are held all through the season for the championship trophies. For a summer diversion at country places, where wide lawns and beautiful gardens afford so desirable a setting for the sport, one can think of nothing more attractive than archery. It is an aristocratic sport, of which one thinks in connection with noble parks, ances-tral castles and tea upon the terraces. It is a graceful sport, which shows off the graceful girl to immense ad-vantage, but which also does well by her awkward sister. As an exercise, while there is no muscular accession to be dependeded on, it nevertheless does f while there is no muscular accession to be dependeded on, it nevertheless does much to give the body grace and poise. It teaches self-control and concentra-tion of the mind, and it inspires one with a certain sprightliness which is not followed, as frequently happens in the more strenuous sports, by exhaus-tion.

the more strenuous sports, by exhaus-tion. Archery also has the great advantage of being a diversion in which one may indulge while in ordinary afternoon attire. It is the garden party sport par excellence. Fluffy frocks and gar-den hats are quite possible for an archery meeting, whereas tennis, golf and most of the outdoor sports which one can name require a special cos-tume of a rather severe character. It is also to be considered that arch-ery is a sport in which every one can take part and which affords great pos-sibilities for competitions which the onlockers may enjoy, so that it seems altogether an ideal diversion for young women, whether they take it seriously and form clubs and leagues and have important competitions, or whether they simply look upon it as something to play with in the hot days or a pleasant hovelty for the lawns during the afternoons before tea time.

Fishing With Electric Light.

Fishing With Electric Light. From the Elizabethtown (Ky.) News, Bud Ashlock, who is one of the best fishermen in this section or any other section, is fixing to scoop up all the bocal sports who use the reel and line hereabouts. He has a new contrivance which he thinks is sure to catch them. A small wire runs through the eyelets on the pole down the line to just below the hook, where a small electric light is attached. The wire is connected on the bank with a small portable battery. When the line is dropped into the water the light is turned on and attracts all the fish for 50 yards around. Of course the first one to see the wriggling min-now takes the cork under and the fish is landed. Everybody is waiting now to hear from Bud when he goes fishing.
