Barley Buyers Are Very Anxious to Purchase Supplies While Growers Are

Showing No Disposition to Hurry Sales

TODAY'S MARKETS

EGGS ARE ANYTHING UNDER STRAIN

Supplies Great and Concessions in Price General for Outside Stock.

Latest market features:
Old hops are wanted.
Peach market doing better.
Tomatoes are rather slow.
No strength shown in butter.
Dressed yeal scarcer than ever.
Eggs and poultry hold well.
Wheat and flour held well.

Chittim bark acts crazy.
Petatoes move to Arizona.
Car sweet polatoes is due. Car sweet potatoes is due. Fine Concord grapes in market, Apple market remains dull.

No Strength Shown in Butter. On all sides the butter market is showing weakness today. While stocks are not showing any increase over the past few days, supplies are still too liberal for the demand and in many quarters values are being cut on the sly. This is more especially noted in the out-of-town brands than in city creamery. The latter is showing weakness and there are rumors of some sales at a lower range of values. However, none of the creameries will admit cutting Eggs are very scarce along Front street, supplies on all sides being nomi-nal. Some dealers are today asking 2840 a dozen, but most sales are re-28460 a dozen, but most sales are reported at 28c. Eastern eggs are moving quite well on account of the shortage of local supplies, but the quality of the former is not as good as home stock. Pulltry market is very firm. Receipts are merely nominal and there is a disposition among some receivers to secure a higher price. However, the trade baiks at this and any attempts to boost the price too high would only result in a general downfall of values. Cheese market is steady, but the supplies are still a fraction too heavy for demand.

A firmer tone is hoted in the peach market along Front street. Receipts are not quite so liberal and sizes are much better. The trade does not want a very small peach and whenever a large amount of this stock comes it weakens the buying demand.

Tomato market is slower, although quality was never better than at this time.

Pear market shows strength, but values are stationary at the range ruling the past week. Quality fine.

So good are supplies of other fruits that there is scarcely any call for applies at this time, overripe stock therefore being sacrificed.

Fotatoes Move to Arisona.

Several car lots of potatoes have moved toward Arisona points during the past 24 hours. A few new orders from that section are being received, but most of the shipments at this time are on back orders. Cars are still rather hard to secure but the situation is not so bad as at first. According to a local dealer he does not feel so hard toward the Southern Pacific for not furnishing cars for Puget sound shipment, for after investigation he found the dealers there using the cars for storage houses. He says that a car of potatoes he shipment. on back orders. Cars are still rather hard to secure, but the situation is not so bad as at first. He says that a car of potatoes he shipped remained on the track at seattle for 14 days before being unleaded.

Onion market is firmer, with some small business reported from the south Purchases are being made here at $1.50 and $1.75 per cwt. for best stock, f. o. b. Portland.

Mushrooms are again in market, but the price range is so great that they can scarcely be quoted.

Watermelon market remains good on account of the unusually good quality this season of the California fruit.

SHORTS IN HOPS ARE BIDDING UP PRICES

On account of the fact that hop picking will be suspended in the Oregon hop yards not later than next Tuesday and the fact that the pick is very short, especially for choice grades, short sellers are very much excited and are freely offering 7½ and 8 cents a pound for new goods. For old goods they are in the market around 5 cents but holders will not sell at that figure. Their sales must be covered and growers with choice hops presume they are willing to pay a better price before throwing up their hands and settling with brewers. Several small sales are reported. The chief one was the car load purchased by Catlin & Linn from George Ball of Ballston at 7½ and 8 cents a pound.

High Salmon Price.

Astoria, Or., Sept. 13.—The paying of 2% cents per pound for salmon by the Union Fisherman's Cooperative company in addition to the same amount after the fish has been prepared and sold has been partially met by other fish buyers, who are paying 3 cents straight. It looks like before many days are over 5 cents a pound will be paid. The fish are very scarce.

Pacific Fruit Express Takes Place of The Armour Cars.

RATES WILL NOT BE LOWER TO SHIPPERS

Fruit, Vegetables and Meats Will Receive Quicker Dispatch, as the New Company Has More Rolling

Within the next 15 days the Armour car line, with approximately 5,000 refrigerator cars, will have withdrawn from the entire railroad lines of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific systems, and the San Pedro, Los Angeles & Salt Lake road, and will have been supplanted by the Pacific Fruit Express with 6,500 cars. Coarse grains are very firm all through the Pacific northwest at this time. Oats market is active, but sales would be considerably increased if growers would let go. In barley they are not yet ready to sell most of their crop and this keeps the market rather quiet.

"It is the purpose of our company to give a first-class service, and to increase the facilities as fast as the business demands it." Mr. Secrist said. "The equipment of the Pacific Fruit Express is new and modern, with every advantage possessed by the old line. Our service will go into effect October 1, at which time the initial equipment of 6,500 cars will have been completed. They are coming out of the shops at the rate of 40 a day. Additional equipment will come along as fast as the business warrants."

PUGILISTIC TRANSFER MAN HAS TASTE FOR WONDERFUL HOSIERY

C. V. Chapman, proprietor of the A M. Transfer company, who was arrested yesterday afternoon by Patrolman Wanless on a warrant charging him with assaulting S. F. Thatcher, was found guilty by Judge Cameron this found guilty by Judge Cameron this morning and fined $29.

Thatcher is the shipping clerk for Rice & Phelan, wholesalers at Oak and Front street, and Chapman's teams do the hauling for the firm. The men have indulged in a war of words on several occasions over matters appertaining to shipments.

Chapman, according to his own testimony, went to the Oak street store for the purpose of "having it out" with Thatcher and punched the latter in the eye. After the shipping clerk had retreated into the building to bathe his injured optic Chapman followed, so he testified, to ascertain how Thatcher liked the beating.

The feature of the trial was Chapman's display of hosiery. Worked into his black silk hose, in baby-bite silk, was the initial "C," surrounded in a sweath of forget-me-nots, and the fashion-plate teamster's sox were the center of attraction while he was tentifying.

Chapman evidenced a desire to be flippant in his answers and was grilled by Deputy County Attorney Tomlinson, who referred to the young man as a "Smart Alec," Mrs. Chapman, a pretty blonde, tastefully dreased in a white sweater, silk waist and duck suit, was indignant over the prosecutor's summing up of her husband and with difficulty reftained from retorting in kind. The fine imposed evidently did not have any effect on Chapman's puglilstic nature, as a few minutes after the court proceedings Thatcher rushed to head quarters to have the transfer man placed under a peace bond, claiming that he intended to commit another assault.

HAUL SALMON FROM NEHALEM RIVER TO PORTLAND MARKET

While coming across the mountains; in his automobile from Tillamook to shipped into Portland in the early fall Portland, Rollo P. Watson passed several wagons loaded with Nehalem river salmon coming to the Portland market. An inquiry among the local fish mar-kets brings out the fact that Portland receives a small portion of ita fresh salmon supply at this season of the year from the Nehalem river.

The greater part of the saleso shipped into Portland in the early fair comes from the Grays Harbor country. This salmon is said to be some better than the Nehalem fish, but not nearly so good as that taken from the Columbia river in the late fail. The Nehalem salmon is a comparatively small fish, rarely reaching a weight of 15 pounds. It is said to be about the size of the Fraser river or Puget sound sockeye.

STREETCAR COMPANY MUST STAND EXPENSE OF PROTECTING MAINS

Instead of the city having to stand | wires to see if electricity is escaping the expense of protecting the water and must take measures to keep the mains from electrolysis, that expense must be met by the streetcar company. Mayor Lane sprung this interesting bit of information at the meeting yesterday in the shape of a provision in an old ordinance. This measure provides that streetcar companies must examine their water mains is practically exhausted and little more work will be done in this direction until a decision has been made by the supreme court on the legality of the proposed $3,000,000 water bonds.

PIGEONS FOR ARMY.

War Office to Try Experiments With Carriers.

The recently-announced abandonment by the war office of the military pigeon service created some surprise in the ab-sence of any explanation of the course adopted. The reason, it is understood, is that the system would not be likely to prove serviceable in defensive opera-tions. The experiment of establishing lofts of homing pigeons for military tions. The experiment of establishing lofts of homing pigeons for military purposes was instituted a few years ago but the trial was only made on a small scale, and although interesting results have been obtained, it is not held that the conditions under which troops would take the field in this country are such as to make the use of the birds practical. The great continental powers, notably France and Germany, maintain a large service of military pigeons, but in these cases there are lines of permanent frontier forts which need constant inter-communication, and cannot risk the destruction of telegraphic and telephonic connection. The British military centers would, in the event of mobilized troops taking the field, be denuded of their garrisons, and the problem of conveying intelligence would be a matter for the engineers, than whom no more capable scientific body exists, rather than for immobile stations to which the pigeons have been trained to return. This at least is the view of the military authorities after a careful test of the
