1. Now, boys and girls, just use your eyes,
And you will get a great surprise;
For John's made up his mind to go
And take his Teddies to this show.

2. Johnny holds up a piece of bread;
The tall giraffe pokes out his head.
They grab his long, slim neck, and he
Just lifts them over the fence, you see.

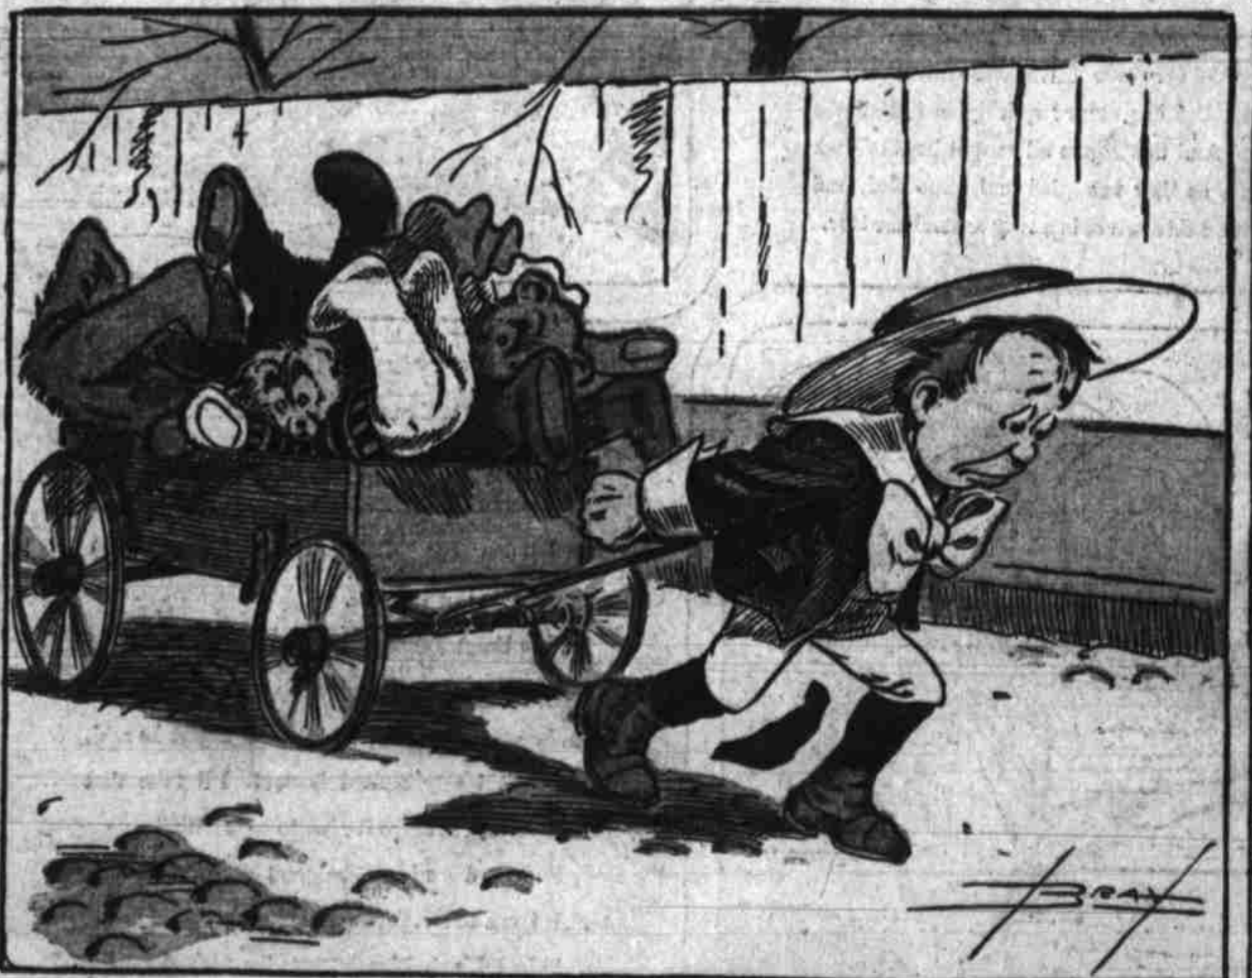

3. Then off they go, as happy as can be,
The wonderful circus sights to see.
You ought to see the animals laugh
At the trick John played on the tall giraffe.

4. The hippopotamus laughed so hard
He opened his mouth about a yard.
The Teddies thought he was going to bite,
And fainted dead away with fright.

5. Poor Johnny, you see, is almost daft,
And the big hippo is sorry he laughed;
For there's no way to bring the Teddies around
But to give them some more of the wonderful compound.

So Johnny borrows a wagon small
And loads into it the Teddies all.
Next week, if everything goes well,
There'll be another story to tell.
