Suit was filed yesterday and a temporary injunction was granted preventing the defendants from disposing of the property they are alleged to have secured.

An interesting police court case which will be heard tomorrow is that involving the raid on a lottery agency at 267 Salmon street yesterday after-noon in which a Chinaman and a negro were arrested. The Chinaman, May Wal, deposited $150 as bail for his appearance in court tomorrow morning. A large amount of lottery tickets and records containing the names of win-ners were confiscated by the officers.

J. C. Hess, a well-known Portland man, is in the hospital at Cascade Locks, as the result of an accident which befell him while on a fishing expedition recently. While fishing Mr. Hess slipped and fell upon, a sharp rock wrenching his leg and cutting into the bone. It will be several days before Mr. Hess will be able to return to his home at Portland.

L. Y. Keady has returned to Portland after more than two months' absence, having spent the time in London, Paris, Berlin and other European cities. He went on missions of business and pleasuse, and said he had accomplished both. It is said he has succeeded in interesting British capital in certain Oregon business propositions of which more will be heard later.

Instructions were given to the different principals, and teachers were instructed to meet their respective principals promptly at 8 o'clock at the difterent schools Monday morning.

Mr. Rigier in a short address to the teachers advised them that in all cases where the printed course of study conflicts with the book list the latter is to be followed, as in some cases he had deemed it advisable to retain the old books where the pupils would use them Mary Gullander filed suit in the cir-cuit court yesterday afternoon for a di-vorce from C. O. Gullander, charging that he deserted her in February, 1906. They were married in this city in May, 1902. Mrs. Gullander designs to resume books where the pupils would use them but one term. Thus in the seventh-grade class the pupils will retain the old geography, as that term finished the course of study in that branch. In the ninth grads the old grammar, history and citizenship book will be retained. Miss Beulah Duncombe, graduate of St. Helen's hall, will reopen her private kindergarten September 16, at 308 Grand avenue, north. Pupils called for and returned. Tuition $3 per month. Hard to Becall Work.

Mr. Rigier urged the teachers to a broader spirit in the valuation which they place upon the work done by previous teachers and previous schools. "Be slow to say that the previous work has not been well done," said Mr. Rigier; "let me altruistic feeling show itself, not only in relation to the work done by teachers in the same school, but also in different schools and in different cities.

Distinctive Publicity.

Few cities in the United States have a tailoring establishment as progressive and up-to-date as the Columbia Woolen Mills store. in Portland. The men of the Rose City have learned to look to this store for something out of the or-dinary, and it is doubtful if there is dinary, and it is doubtful if there is a more agressive or more popular institution in this line anywhere in the country. In every department of their business they have introduced modern methods—improved ways of doing things. Their spiendidly equipped workrooms, and their magnificently stocked store is a fine testimonial to the foresight and energy of Grant Phegley, the active manager.

These views are all from sketches made especially for the purpose by Mr. Louis Rothe, one of Portland's leading artists, and are worked out in pen and ink effect. Advertising of this high character has seldom, if ever before been adopted by any Pacific coast firm in this line, in newspaper publicity, but Manager Phegley has great confidence that the innovation will be appreciated and says he is satisfied that the newspapers will produce results not obtainable through any other mediums. construction.

Broadway cars will run out 22nd street, right through the Irvington Investment tract and the 15th street line will be extended out through this property also. This new addition is immediately adjoining Tillamook street and extends to Fremont street, between 14th and 24th streets. The many costly residences ranging from $3,000 to $15,000, to be seen in Irvington, are evidences of the popularity of that section as an exclusive residential locality. When the present plan of improvements is completed Irvington addition will be an ideal community. The large public school is about completed. any other mediums.
