GOVERNOR PRAISES THE PROGRESS OF OREGON

State Fair Opens With Good Attendance—Speeches by Prominent Men Followed by Fine Concert—Exhibits Are of Very High Order.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Salem, Or., Sept. 17.—In spite of intermittent rains yesterday afternoon the attendance at the state fair throughout the day and evening was as large as could be expected. As the rain compelled the visitors to keep indoors, the main pavilion, was more crowded than it otherwise would have been. Several of the exhibits were not completed—the greater number were, and the general opinion is that they are superior to anything ever exhibited at previous state fairs. At the meeting held in the Auditorium at 8 p. m., Governor Chamberlain gave the principal address. He said that he believed that it was the duty as well as the privilege, of citizens of Oregon to take part in the fair. He called attention to the splendid products of Oregon and the comparatively small effort that had been made to make them known to the world and even to the people of the state. He spoke of his visit to the congress at Sacramento and of the favorable showing made by the exhibits of Malheur and Klamath counties and expressed the opinion that had Oregon been entirely represented, no state's exhibit even that of California could have compared with it. Continuing he said that in private life farmers began to produce the best stock when they began to compare their own work with that of their neighbors. He called attention to the good effect produced by such school fairs as was lately held in Benton county and expressed the hope that such exhibitions would in the future be held in all the counties of the state. Speaking of the first prizes won by Oregon livestock at St. Louis he said that he believed that Oregon is able to excel the world in nearly all branches of farming as well as in the raising of stock and the work done at first showed the people of Oregon that their own farm products could not only compete with but excel those of any other part of the world.

WILD MAN IS GIVEN BATH IN COUNTY JAIL

Bareheaded, Barefooted and Half Clothed, Jacob Myer Ran Wild Near City.

Jacob Myer, the Hillsdale wild man, was arrested yesterday afternoon by Deputy Sheriffs Beatty, Leonard and Bulger on a warrant charging that he is insane. He was taken to the county jail, and this morning was given the first bath he has enjoyed for many weeks. Nothing is known of the strange man, except that he ran wild in the woods near Hillsdale, devoting his time to chasing all the animals, from cats to horses, that came near him. Children and women were badly frightened by the apparition. Yesterday S. Rice went to the courthouse and swore to a complaint charging that the man was insane. He was arrested without difficulty. Myer ran about bareheaded and barefooted, wearing only an undershirt and trousers. He will be examined as to his sanity by County Judge Webster and an alienist this afternoon.

MRS. PALMER TO VISIT PORTLAND

Noted Chicago Woman on Way to Visit Relatives in Eugene.

Chicago, Sept. 17.—Mrs. Potter Palmer leaves today, for Portland and Eugene, Oregon, on a short visit to her son Honor. Mr. and Mrs. Honor Palmer who have taken up their residence in Eugene for the winter are now at the Portland awaiting the arrival of Mrs. Palmer senior. They expected her to reach Portland this evening, and the party will go on to Eugene tomorrow. Mr. Palmer has interested himself in the lumbering industry about Eugene, and with his wife and child and two maids, he has just returned out of the handsomest homes in town, the E. C. Smith place. Mr. Smith is a retired lumberman, and is now most of his winters with his married daughter and his son in Honolulu. Mrs. Palmer junior is putting in her winter coaching up in French and music.

FIGHT FOR LIFE.

(Continued from Page One.) closing of the Ogden gateway two or three years ago. Prior to the merging of the Southern Pacific and Union Pacific traffic departments in the Pacific northwest, the Willamette valley lumbermen had an outlet for eastern shipments via Sacramento and the Ogden gateway, and were able to get the Union Pacific rate, and a considerable number of cars, from the Southern Pacific, which was at that time operated in competition with the Union Pacific route. The Harriman merger and resultant closing of the Ogden gateway was followed by the prevalent Willamette valley tonnage via Portland and east over the Union Pacific, as it was claimed by the railroad officials that the haul over the Siskiyous and via Sacramento to the east was too expensive to be further considered as a transcontinental routing for Willamette valley products. When this routing went into effect the valley lumber mills had the same rate over the Southern Pacific to the east that prevailed from Portland over the Union Pacific system to the same eastern territory. The railroads, however, agreed to continue this equality of rates, and it has been continued on east bound shipments until the present time, although the rate on valley lumber from Portland to California has been boosted from $5 to $8.25 per 1,000 feet, practically cutting valley mills off from the California market.

NEW BOOKS PLEASE THE CHILDREN BUT MOTHERS SIGH AT THE COST

The busiest people in town today are the book sellers, and the weariest are the mothers who have to buy the books for two or three children. These stand before the counter, are jostled and elbowed and much puzzled over all this exchanging of books, and when the matter is effected, must carry home an arm-breaking load of new editions. The children don't care, bless you, no. They like new books better than old ones any day, and one feature which especially pleases them is that the box of water color paints is an essential. It costs something to get an education nowadays, says the tired mother of two. "I bought $3 worth yesterday, and over $2.50 worth today." The mother of a high school girl laments yet more feelingly. "Last February," she said, "I bought $12 worth of books and now I have to bring them all back and buy new ones." The misunderstanding in regard to exchanging books hinges upon the fact that books are exchanged only for a similar one of the same grade. Thus reader for reader, or arithmetic for arithmetic, but if a child has finished with a book and the parent wishes to get something for it on the purchase price of a new book, the dealer refuses to take it. The esthetic side of our common school education is not overlooked this year. Every youngster in the intermediate grades must have a text book on music. The most expensive book in the grammar grades is the new geography at $1.12, but by the way, there are none in town. A carload of them is delayed somewhere, and though they are "expected to be here tomorrow" definite information as to their arrival is not to be had. Results will be watched with interest as to the practical value of the teaching of agriculture by books. There are many converts in town today to the principle of free school books and if the matter could be immediately acted upon, it is plain how the popular vote would go.

TUFTS WILL PUT LID ON.

(Continued from Page One.) Have the majority in that state are coming to our way of thinking, however, that cannot be said. The books will be purchased on six as well as seven days. Oregon to Vote Again. "No religious doctrines figure in the matter whatsoever. Our aim is purely and simply to work out a civil matter, to work the best possible protection for all concerned, and make those who would not abide by the desires of the majority do so. Most business men are satisfied to keep open six days a week and we ask that all be made to do so." Mr. Tufts stated that before the next Oregon legislature convened the matter might once more be presented to the people of this state to be voted upon. Mr. Tufts represents the International Reform bureau in the Pacific section, having supervision of the work throughout Oregon, Washington, Idaho, Nevada and British Columbia. Together with General Superintendent Dr. Wilbur P. Crafts of Washington, D. C. he returned to Portland recently from a campaign tour of British Columbia and Nevada, having spent the week in all principal cities north for the discussing of remedies for Sabbath breaking, gambling, impropriety and intemperance.

COULD AFFORD TO TREAT TOUCHET RIGHT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Olympia, Wash., Sept. 17.—The railroad commission yesterday had a hearing on the complaint from Touchet in Walla Walla county, demanding that the O. R. & N. construct a depot and passenger station and install an agent and operator at that place. It developed at the hearing that the railroad averages a monthly business of $1,000 and no very determined opposition was shown to the demand for a station and agent.

GROWING ACRES AND PAINS.

Mrs. Jostie Sumner, Bremond, Texas, writes, April 15, 1902: "I have used Ballard's Snow Liniment in my family for three years. I would not be without it in the house. I have used it on my little girl for growing pains and aches in her knees. It cured her right away. I have also used it for frost bitten feet, with good success. It is the best liniment I ever used." 25c, 50c and $1.00. Sold by all druggists.

ASTORIA CRIMINAL CASES DISMISSED

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Astoria, Or., Sept. 17.—The case of the state of Oregon against Julius Wilbur, William Stuart and Mabel Grant, charged with robbery from the person, was dismissed yesterday in circuit court on motion of the district attorney, as the prosecuting witness had left the state. The case against C. Roy Fot, charged with enticing a minor to visit a disreputable house, was also dismissed, on motion of the district attorney.

LINN IS OUT FOR PRIZES ON APPLES

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Albany, Or., Sept. 17.—Arrangements for the apple fair to be held in Albany this fall are being perfected and everything seems propitious for a fine showing of Linn county's resources along the lines of horticulture and fruit culture. Fine samples of fruit are being gathered and it is expected that the committee will be able to assemble a collection of apples and pears that will
