WEATHER REPORT

All eastern reports are missing this morning. The Oregon high pressure area has remained nearly stationary. The barometer continues relatively low over California and Arizona. over California and Arizona. This distribution of pressure is favorable for fair weather in this district during the next 24 hours to 38 hours. More or less local cloudiness will, however, continue along the coast, where the weather will at times be threatening, without much if any rain. Light frosts are indicated for tonight in southern and eastern Oregon, eastern Washington, and Idaho.
