Varicoccle causes congestion of the blood in some of the most vital blood vessels of man. It causes a dull, heavy, listless feeling, which is often mistaken for nervous debility or general decline. Varicoccle results from partial paralysis of the delicate nerve fibers that control local circulation of the blood. The muscular coating of the veins is deprived of nervous control and become inactive, weakens and relaxes. The blood vessels expand from the pressure within. The circulation becomes sluggish and clots form in little nooks and pockets that constantly enlarge as the relaxation continues.
