TODAY'S MARKETS

Heavy Purchases of Hops Are Being Made Quietly by Shorts and They Are Paying on a Basis of 9c for Choice.

CHEESE MARKET DOWN HALF CEN

Price Cut to 16c Owing to Lower Markets Elsewhere -Supplies Are Liberal.

Latest market features: Lemon buyers handed a lemon. Cheese market is lower. Cheese market is lower.
Lower prices in onions.
Potatoes at a standstill.
Some blackberries are coming.
Sweet potatoes find better sale.
Poultry hurt by grasping dealers.
Grape market is in fine shape.
Flour market looks higher again.
Wheat sales again liberal.
Candies are quoted higher.
Hops are purchased quietly.

Cheese Marcht Is Lower.

Cheese Marcht Is Lower.

On account of the high prices now ruling and the liberal supplies at Tillamook, coupled with the lower markets elsewhere. Values in the local cheese market are fully ½c a pound lower today. Sixteen cents is now the top for twin flats, while Young Americas are slow at 17c a pound. The fact that a considerable amount of eastern cheese has been brought here has only resulted in a further, weakening of local values. For several weeks the trade has been vainly trying to hold up twin flats to 16½ £17c a pound, but sales are few and far between. Even with the present lower range the market is wesk and dull; buyers showing no disposition whatever to do business at this basis. Holders at Tillamook are not much concerned over the dullness now ruling in all Pacific coast cheese market; all of them expressing the opinion that the market will go back to former ruling in all Pacific coast cheese market: all of them expressing the opinion that the market will go back to former high levels at no distant date.

Those that brought eastern cheese into this market are perhaps the worst sufferers from the present duliness.
There are a number of grades of eastern stock offering at this time but the best cannot be sold at the figures now ruling for local stuff.

Will Try to Advance Eggs. The egg market remains in a mixed condition. Receipts are about the same as they have been for several weeks— too light for the demand and eastern too light for the demand and eastern stocks are supplying the major part of the trade. So scarce are local arrivals generally that one of the large eastern firms brought in a car of fresh stock in a refrigerator yesterday. Chicken Market Receives Blow.

Chicken supplies along Front street are very liberal and in order to move stocks some of the dealers cut values under those printed yesterday. Those dealers who have been holding up the trade for about 2c a pound over the printed quotations are directly responsible for the present break. It is stated that returns were in no cases made over the prices listed by The Journal; so those that squeezed the last cent out of their buyers are that much in while the their buyers are that much in while the shipper is out. The future of the mar-ket is entirely dependent upon the sup-ples. Liberal ones will wreck values. Dressed Meats Hard to Get.

Nine cents is now easily obtained for first-class small veal in the Front street markets. There are reports of a still higher figure being squeezed by grasping dealers, but these cannot be confirmed. Receipts of frist-class stock are nominal. stock are nominal.

Small hogs find a very good call these days and the former prices are very easily maintained.

Very easily maintained.

Creamery butter market is exceedingly weak with sales of first class outside product at 30@32½c a pound.

While the city creameries are still asking 35c for the best product it is stated that some sales are being made at a cut. Brief Notes of the Trade.

Potato market is at a standstill ow-ing to the lower market in the south and the car shortage.

and the car shortage.

Onions are lower here but Portland is still the highest onion market on the coast. No outlet at present.

Grape market is in better shape on account of small arrivals from the south. Concords are now arriving more freely. Small baskets at 17% @20c, while crates are going at 75c@$1.00, ac-while crates are going at rac@$1.00, according to pack.

Peach market is lifeless, owing to the high prices asked and the poor quality.
Sweet potatoes are somewhat firmer with supplies scant. A car was due to arrive this morning. Market at 2% @

A few crates of blackberries are ar-ving. Selling at $1.25@1.50 a crate for 24s.
Cream mixed and French candles show an advance of 2c a pound today.

No change in chocolates.

There are a number of dealers buying hops quietly at this time; sales being made at 8 @ 8 ½ c a pound with 9c paid only in extreme cases. It is reported that Krebs and Horst are still picking. Front street prices:

have been arriving this week which is causing the market to ease off somewhat from what it was one week ago. Cooler • weather, however, is likely to • stimulate the demand and I do not look for any heavy decline at this time. "There is still a scarcity of veal of the fancy kind and anything in this line is moving off at good prices. Hogs have been more plentiful and the market is fractionally weaker.

"Fresh Oregon eggs are still scarce and the trade is using storage stock heavily. This stock being in good shape has a tendency to hold the price of the fresh level."-B. W. Graham of Templeton & Graham.

COMMISSION MEN

HANDED A LEMON

By Hyman H. Cohen A lemon of unusual size has been handed a large number of Front street commission men by the growers and shippers of California. Several months ago The Journal contained a statement that many thousands of dollars would be lost this season by northwest nan-dlers because of heavy speculation. The season is now drawing to a close, and the losses already sustained are staggering.

One of the causes of the heavy loss is the fact that the lemons this year proved of the poorest quality ever seen in this market. Dealers who stored the In this market. Dealers who stored the fanciest stock brought them out in bad condition, few of them being able to realize the cost price on most of their product. It is openly stated along Front street that recently one holder sold some 60 cases of 34 lemons to a hawker at a fraction less than 55 cents a case.

Every dealer was overloaded with these storage lemons, and all who dabled lost money as a result of being taken in by Californians who were selling inferior goods on the reputation made by fancy stock.

ASPARAGUS PLANTING ON A HEAVY SCALE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Eugene, Or., Sept. 25.—F. E. Dunn.
C. S. Williams, George A. Dorris and
A. C. Woodcock, of this city, have formed a company and bought 200 acres of fine bottom land, seven miles north of Eugene for the purpose of setting out an gene for the purpose of setting out an immense Royal Anne cherry orchard. A greater part of the tract will be set to cherries, although there will be some winter apples, pears and peaches. The land was owned by Richard Robinson, who is the nephew of the original owner, "Dickle" Robinson, one of the best known pioneers of Lane county. These gentlemen have also purchased of Henry Loretz, a 75-acre tract near their orchard tract on which they will plant asparagus for the market. Mr. Dorris has successfully raised asparagus on his asparagus for the market. Mr. Dorris has successfully raised asparagus on his farm at Springfield and made money by shipping it to Portland. He will superintend the operation of this farm. It will probably be the largest asparagus farm on the coast.
