Master of French Bark on Trail in the Federal Court.

Maurice Alphonse Hemet, master of the French bark St. Louis was tried before Judge Charles E. Wolverton in the United States district court this morning for bringing undesirable foreigners into the United States. This is the first case to be tried in the United States under the new law becoming effective July 1, pursuant to the proclamation of President Roosevelt March 4, to the effect that no coolie labor should be admitted into the United States by the way of Australia, Mexico and other countries unless provided with proper passports.

FRANK TAYLOR KILLS HIMSELF

Councilman of The Dalles Grows Despondent and Ends His Life.

The Dalles, Ore., Sept. 26.—Frank P. Taylor, a prominent citizen, committed suicide this morning, shooting himself under the chin and severing his jugular vein. He left home apparently in his usual spirits and health and rode a horse down to the beach behind a woodpile, where he got off and shot himself. When found he was lying on his back, his head leaning a little to the right, his arms outstretched and a .38-caliber pistol in his right hand. His fingers and thumb clamped as if just having released it.

POLICE CAPTURE MORE FAN TAN GAMBLERS

Once more Detectives Kay and Klein, composing the Chinatown moral squad, have demonstrated the correctness of the Journal's expose of Chinatown conditions by raiding two more fan tan resorts mentioned in the published list of places where gambling is in progress in the Chinese quarter. The first raid was made last night shortly before 11 o'clock by Kay and Patrol Driver Graves, at 84 Second street. After breaking through three strong doors the police captured two Chinese and booked them on charges of gambling and visiting a gambling house. An abundance of incriminating evidence was discovered, and in the police court this morning pleas of guilty were entered in all cases. Ah Wah was fined $15 and his patrons escaped with $10 fines.

OBJECTED TO FACING PLAINTIFF'S SNEERS

Sneers were the subject of part of the testimony in the divorce case of Malvina Taylor against Robert Taylor, filed in Judge O'Jay in the circuit court this morning. Mrs. Taylor, a witness for her husband, testified this morning that she was sneered at yesterday evening on the street by Mrs. Taylor and her friend, Mrs. Fleck. On cross-examination the witness was asked if she had not remarked in the courtroom that she would "make it hot for Mrs. Taylor" when she got on the witness stand. She testified that Mrs. Taylor's attorney told her that she always told the truth, and then informed her that she had not made the remark.

STARCH SMEARERS CANNOT BE TOUCHED FOR TOUCHING PRICES

At some time in the distant past a man of philosophic turn of mind remarked to the effect that he would trip the light fantastic toe must needs contribute to the union scale set out by the orchestra. If there were philosophers in the present day and age the old proverb could well be changed to read: He who wears a shirt must pay the laundryman.

Chicago & Northwestern's Field Force Will Begin Construction Out of Shoshone, Wyoming — Will Traverse Central Oregon.

High officials of the Chicago & Northwestern railway are credited with the statement that construction will be immediately pushed westward from Shoshone, Wyoming, and continued across the Bitter Root divide to St. Anthony. This is confirmation of the statement published months ago when the Northwestern's surveyors were rushing lines through the lowest passes in that region. That the road will be surveyed through central Oregon, and touch tide-water at both Coos Bay and Port, and for each of the children but two years will be required to work out the Northwestern's problem of reaching the coast from central Wyoming. The distance surveyed was about 1,000 miles. The work has thus far proceeded slowly on account of the Northwestern's well-known close traffic affiliation with the Union Pacific system.

WASHINGTON, D.C. TIGHT GO DRY

Determined Effort by Anti-Saloon League to Put Lid on Capital.

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—A determined effort will be made next winter, it is said, to bring about the enactment by congress of a law making Washington a "dry town" in every sense of the word. Information received here today from Norfolk, Virginia, where the Anti-Saloon league of America has been in session, is to the effect that a campaign having as its object the eradication of the saloon from this city will be inaugurated at once by the league and other temperance organizations in the United States. The league has been determined to bear upon senators and representatives from many sources, urging them to support the proposed law for total prohibition in the District of Columbia. At yesterday's session of the national league it was declared that "the national capital can only be freed of saloons by the states of the union influencing their representatives in congress."
