AT THE THEATRES

"Little Johnny Jones" Sunday. Joseph M. Gaites will present George M. Cohen's famous musical play "Little Johnny Jones," at the Helig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, four nights, beginning next Sunday, September 29. Advance seat sale opened this morning.

Tonight and Tomorrow at Helig. The attraction at the Helig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, tonight and tomorrow night, will be the enchanting and magnetic actress, Miss Jessie Busley in the interesting drama, "In the Bishop's Carriage." Special price matinee tomorrow at 2:15 o'clock.

New Operas Monday. "Maritana" will be the change of bill by the Californians next Monday evening at the Marquam. This is a standard opera which Portlanders have not seen in years, and to most of the younger generation "Maritana" is unknown.

Marquam Matinee. Matinee opera patrons can rest assured of a treat in "Fatinitza" at the Marquam tomorrow. The Californians have been appearing in this march-music opera all week with eminent success.

"The Prince of Pilsen" Coming. Henry W. Savage's production of the beautiful musical comedy success "The Prince of Pilsen," will be the attraction at the Helig theatre for three nights, beginning next Thursday night, October 3. A special price matinee Saturday.

"A Stranger in New York." Standing room at nearly every performance of the Baker company's "A Stranger in New York" this week has been at a premium. Every one likes these clever pieces that make people laugh, and appeal to their musical tastes with bright, catchy song specialties.

"The Girl With the Green Eyes." Next week Portland theatre-goers will have an opportunity to see Clyde Fitch's celebrated emotional play, "The Girl With the Green Eyes," as it will be presented by the Baker Stock company, starting Sunday matinee. If your will or sweetheart is jealous she should see this play.

"For Mother's Sake." A sweet, pretty play telling a story of New England home life. Such is the Marie Heath melodrama, "For Mother's Sake," which is pleasing Empire audiences all this week. Little Pearl Golden in Marie Heath's part, is a delightfully clever soubrette actress, and quickly wins her audiences.

"To Die at Dawn" Next Monday. The attraction at the Lyric for next week, commencing Monday night, will be "To Die at Dawn." Such is the dramatic success which will have its first Portland performance on that occasion. Everywhere it has been seen there has been the most favorable impression, and it is a foregone conclusion that local theatre patrons will endorse the opinion held by the eastern cities.

"Drusa Wayne" Proves Popular. The most popular bill ever given at the Lyric proves to be "Drusa Wayne" as offered by the Lyric stock company this week with Maxine Miles in the title role. It is a play that appeals so strongly that theatregoers cannot help but like it.

"Uncle Josh" Coming. Not yet, but soon, will the favorite old farmer, Uncle Josh, arrive at the Empire, and proceed to get the smiles that won't come off. Next Sunday afternoon this well-known rural drama will return for its regular annual visit to the uptown home of the road show.

The House of Hits. The Grand has established its right to be called the house of hits, for the vaudeville acts at this theatre are never flimsy or thrown in for the sake of making a poor program long. Every act is selected on merit and is booked in Chicago or New York.

"Slaves of Russia." That sensational melodrama of which so much has been heard, "Slaves of Russia," has been secured for the French stock company and will be produced next week at the Star theatre. This is its first presentation in Portland and it will be found unusually interesting. Seats on sale.

Matinee at the Star. Tomorrow there will be a matinee of "The King of the Desert" at the Star theatre. The play is being presented by the French stock company and is a great comedy drama, with its laughs alternated with exciting situations.
