University Eleven Coming Down From Seattle With All Confidence of Well Tried Team-Probable Lineup of Visitors.

There are two things of unusual interest in connection with the Multnomah-Washington football game in Portland one week from next Saturday. First, it will be the first big game of the season in the northwest and, second, it will give a line on the future strength of both clubmen and colle-

Washington is coming down from Seattle with all the confidence of a veteran team. Multhomah will go on the field reenforced by a number of players new to Portland. They have become residents of Portland since last season and their names are to conjure with and their names are to conjure with among eastern colleges.

While the locals are expecting a hard game they have no fear that their goal will be crossed by Victor Place's frisky youngsters. Lack of early practice is all that is worrying the clubmen, but from now on the slogan will be work work work! Captain Lonergan will have the men on the field in uniform at 10 o'clock this morning for an hour's work in taking the kinks out of their arms and legs. Kicking, sprinting and falling on the ball will be the program, with a short scrimmage following the preliminary workout. Night practice will be the order from now on until the big game. Tenting has been stretched over a corner of the field and electric lamps will light the way for the pigskin warriors. pigskin warriors.

Practice Game With H. M. A. Manager Horan has arranged for a game with fill allitary for next saturday, so that experience can be given the new Multnoman machine in offense and defense. Handling the ball in action will be the chief difficulty of the local men for a few weeks and the Saturday game has been arranged with a view to correcting this fault as much as possible before the more important game the following week

The cadets are fast being whipped into shape by "Hoot" Kerron, the coach, and are expected to give a good account of themselves when lined up against their older and stronger opponents. Just what sort of a showing the Washington eleven will make cannot be forecasted. When college opened it was the belief of the Washington management that all of the old players would be seen in the squad except Crim. agement that all of the old players would be seen in the squad except Crim, who graduated. Since the team has been assembled Paul Jarvis, the crack guard of two years, informed Captain Bagshaw that he would no longer play against the consent of his parents. The absence of Jarvis will make a hole hard to fill in the Washington line, as he was counted one of the most valuable forwards the Evergreen college has produced in recent years. duced in recent years.

Lace has not yet given the men their positions for keeps. Captain gahaw, who is considered one of the the northwest, will! Bagshaw, who is considered one of the best quarters in the northwest, will probably play in his old position at half on Multnomah field. An lowa chap, Palmer by fiame, is said to be making the best showing of the new men and will probably move into the place filled by Bagshaw last season. There is a strong probability that Tegtmier, the speedy center of last fall, will be shifted around to tackle. Tegtmier is a peppery player and his quickness and natural headiness make him too valuable a man to keep at center. If this is done Todd, the heaviest man on the team, will be consigned to snapping the ball.

Washington has been weak in the kicking department ever since Speidell left college five years ago, but Place is immensely tickled over the showing made by Clark, a freshman punter from Everett High school. Clark has a strong leg and is said to be a wisard with the long, low spiral so dreaded by all football players.

Gus Packard, an old Seattle High school player, has entered the "U" this fall and will be one of the strongest candidates for the eleven. In his scholastic days Packard was a whirlwind. In addition to the players already mentioned, Place will have such men to work with as Willis, the star fullback; Comfort, Galloway, Ward, Grim, Bragdon, Blake, Flaherty, Delaney, Catlin, Parker, Frenger, Morgan, Beck, Berge, Howe, Matthews and Summerset.

Multnomah wili have a hard game on her hands. Place is a foxy coach and he knows how to get work out of his team. He knows, too, that the clubmen cannot keep up the pace capable of being maintained by the college men, and will probably elect to fight the game out in the running style almost entirely.

Prizes to Attract Speed Demons-Road to Seaside.

The Portland Automobile club is planning a big race meet for the rose carnival in June, 1908. The club is at present consulting with the carnival committee and if the plan goes through cash prizes of $100 to $500 will be of-fered on each race. The prizes will be the biggest ever offered in America, so officers of the club say, and the club expects that some of the most noted drivers in the world will come to compete.

The Gun club will have a big shoot during the carnival next spring. Twenty five hundred dollars will be offered in prize money. The club expects that this event will attract many of the big shooters in the country.

The biggest project now on the hands of the Portland Automobile club is the building of a road to Seaside. The Klatsop and Columbia county officials recently held a convention to discuss the proposed road. The result was that Columbia county offered to furnish two thirds of the money up to $40,000 necessary to build the road through its territory. Klatsop county offered to furnish all the money for its part of the Foad, and it was decided to pass it up to Multnomah county to raise the balance of the necessary cash.

The Portland Automobile club took The Portland Automobile club took up the proposition and a committee of eight was formed to carry on the work. This committee will increase and extend itself into every class of business in order to raise the necessary funds. It is confidently believed that from $10,000 to $15,000 can be raised. The plan is to run the road from particular to the plan is to run the road from the proposition. The plan is to run the road from Portland to Scapoose, thence to St. Helens, where it will turn from the river and run through the Nehalem valley and then via Klatsop road to Astoria. From Astoria the route will go on to Seaside. Those who have the project in charge expect that the road will be built in time for the coming summer season. It will be a great road for automobiles.

WABASH CLUB PLAYS ST. JOHNS APOSTLES

Weather permitting, an interesting exhibition of minor league ball will be the attraction at St. John Sunday afternoon. The contesting clubs will be the St. John Apostles of the Tri-City league and Charley Pembroke's Wabash independent team. Wabash has a clean reputation and their last game played at Eugene was a good one in every respect, although they fost in the eleventh canto. The Apostles regard their opponents as workers and a good, fast game is expected. Turk and Mangold will be seen in St. John uniforms. The independents have several good men in will be seen in St. John uniforms. While it is rather early to predict the outcome of the present season, quite a few of the old players are out getting into shape and there is some new material developing in first team players.

Monday evening next entries will close for the club league, and games will start on the following Wednesday. The captains for these teams have been picked from last year's first team and each captain has his eyes on the gold medals which will be presented to the winners.

Tommy Dowd, who managed the champion Holyoke team of the Connecticut league this season, will manage the Hartford club next year. Hartford fans believe that Tommy will be able to supply a winner.

Interscholastic Champions Have Abundance of Material for 1907 Team.

At the Hill Military academy, Coach Kerron is hard at work hammering into shape the football team that this year will have to defend the interscholastic championship won by the cadets in 1906. Mr. Kerron has behind him an enviable career as a football player. For five years he held the positions of guard and fullback on the teams of the University of Oregon. He has repeatedly been selected to represent his team on the all-northwest eleven, and is a pupil the all-northwest eleven, and is a pupil of such eminent coaches as "Dick" Smith and Bruce Shorts. When he coached the cadets last year his methods were so effective that H. M. A. won every game and permitted no opponent to score.

every game and permitted no opponent to score.

This fall he has an unusual abundance of good football material from which to hulld up his team. Eight men of the 1906 eleven have returned to the academy. They are: Merchant, left end: Loomis, left tackle; Graham, left guard; Donason, center; Knettle I, right guard; MacEwan, quarterback, and Hill, fullback. All of these cadets are well taught, experienced and very husky players, and will serve as an excellent nucleus for the new team.

For the halfback positions, Cadets Thorn of the Portland academy champion team of 1905; Loomis, who is equally strong at tackle or halfback: Briggs II, Carruthers and McFarland, are available. The right tackle and end positions will be filled by Cadets Briggs I, Briggs II, Knettle II, Bratager or Keene.

The remaining members of the foot-ball squad are Cadets Baker, Jamieson, Stewart and Reed I, sub-guards, and Shearer, sub-center, all of them men of more or less experience gained on the academy second team, or their former school elevens. Cadet Lieutenant Chester Loomis, one Aberdeen, Wash., Sept. 28.—Some of the men who have been in attendance on the state fair at Salem, Oregon, have come back with fine driving horses for which they paid from $450 to $1,000 each. Among those who have invested in blooded horses are J. G. Lewis, W. H. McBride. Scott Weatherwax, W. S. Johnston, Elber May of this place, and Dr. Watkins of Hoquiam. This investment has raised the question of a race track for the harbor, and will be likely to end in the securing of one in the near future.
