

ROOSEVELT MUST BE FORCED TO ACCEPT THIRD TERM

In Remarkable Address at Pendleton Fair Dr. Henry Waldo Coe Declares Country's Interests Demand Third Term and President Will Accept.

That Roosevelt must be given a chance to run for another term is the burden of a remarkable address delivered by Dr. Henry Waldo Coe of Portland at the Umatilla-Monroe district fair at Pendleton.

The speaker, who spoke on "Political Day" Saturday, declared that those who were opposing a third term for Roosevelt were doing so for personal and selfish reasons; that they wanted an honest and business executive out of the capital.

He said that the average citizen in all parties against Roosevelt now as he has always been. The average citizen is for Roosevelt. He said that the Republican party is scanning the horizon for a candidate to succeed Roosevelt, but my fellow average citizen, and I say that Theodore Roosevelt desires to retire from the presidency.

"We are looking for a fairly satisfactory substitute. In the meantime we are holding a vote for Roosevelt. If we cannot find such a substitute, as I do not believe we will, we shall go back to Theodore Roosevelt and remind him of what he has said of 'stubborn life' and insist upon his continuance of public life for another four years. The politicians everywhere, and the special interests in this place, are today deciding that Roosevelt is not a possibility. The average citizen is thinking—thinking. Here and there only does the average citizen speak. None yet has decided against Roosevelt.

Have Reasons for Objections.

The Republican who claims to be for Roosevelt and his policies but says that he cannot support him for another term because Roosevelt said he would not again be a candidate needs to alter either his promises or his conclusions. Behind his skin and you will find underneath that this individual had good reasons of a personal character to be against Roosevelt and that the special interests in this place are today deciding the long-ago statement of the president as an easy excuse to be for another.

Most Republicans who are against Roosevelt for another term, if you will analyze their connections, are allied some one or more interests which are themselves on the defensive against the Roosevelt policies which the people as a whole have made upon their own cherished self-aggrandisement at the expense of the people as a whole.

The Chicago Tribune which is against Roosevelt for another term, but with no show that the people desire one else than Roosevelt, with the greatest unfairness, in the blank sent out does not ask except incidentally for expression upon Roosevelt. It assumes that Roosevelt is out of the question, and that the people's choice lies between Taft, Cannon, Fairbanks, Hughes and Knox.

In a recent issue the Tribune reports the south favorable to others than Roosevelt and summarizes the replies. Yet the first question it asks is 'Do you approve the progressive policies of the president?' and the replies are 521 yes and 58 no. In another issue it reports the breezy west for a certain number of replies upon the foregoing question were 425 yes, 27 no. If the Tribune had asked 'If President Roosevelt will consent to be your first choice?' the figures would doubtless be about as above given.

How about the celebrated 'promise' of Roosevelt not to ever again run for the presidency? As we are studying over the matter, in closing these remarks, let us consider the same.

He did make a declaration upon this matter, but he did when he said he would not take the vice-presidency upon a former occasion.

A binding promise as we hold it in general and everyday life presumes something in the nature of a contract. Something for something; that for that without two parties thereto it is not a real promise but more nearly a declaration of belief. When between two parties the greater the favor therein makes no binding obligation against himself.

Can Force Third Term.

A man is a candidate for an office. He is not a candidate if elected he will never again be a candidate for such office. He is elected. He has secured a great honor and is bound forever to keep his promise. But Roosevelt did not do this. He never intimated before election that he would not be a candidate. If he made such a promise it would be binding. He would have received something for his promise.

What he did say was expressed after election. It was his personal opinion at such time, in which the public had little concern. Since then great and momentous questions have arisen upon the treatment of which the very life of the public depends. The questions have been brought out by Roosevelt and better than any other man can work out the great problems which they mean for our country. Most important of these are the points in difference between him and the great corporations of the land. He is in the midst of these issues now. He is needed to carry them through.

The people need but to demand that he shall reconsider his declaration, not in his own but in the people's interest, and I believe he cannot refuse to obey.

Peter Neth Believed to Be Deranged—Fred Miller Before Grand Jury.

(United Press Special Wire.)

Boise, Ida., Sept. 30.—The serious illness of Juror Peter Neth may cause a sudden and unexpected termination of the Borah trial. Judge Whitson this morning adjourned court until 3 o'clock this afternoon, when a physician will report on the juror's condition.

Neth, according to his physician, is temporarily deranged and it is believed he may not recover. The juror's actions first attracted attention in the courtroom when he was asked by District Judge Whitson and Assistant Attorney-General Burch were hurriedly called into consultation yesterday afternoon, just as they were about to leave for an outing.

Borah says he is willing to proceed with only 11 jurors in the best case. Neth's affliction is of a permanent nature. The United States attorneys, however, say this cannot be done, there being an adverse decision of the supreme court on the matter.

Fred Miller Before Grand Jury.

Attorney Fred Miller, counsel for the Western Federation of Miners, was called before the grand jury and testified regarding the report that money was used in influencing the indictments which include that of Borah. He treated the whole matter as absurd.

"Borah," he said, "was the one man I did not want indicted. He was the only one who treated us decently, and I like him."

I suppose these reports came from remarks jokingly made at the time the grand jury was impaneled. We laughed among ourselves and always spoke of it as 'our jury.'

Statements Wholly Wrong.

The operations of this company are at a point on Bull Run near where it empties into the Sandy river, nearly six miles down the river below the city headworks, and at an elevation 250 feet lower than the city headworks and upon land owned by the company two or more miles out of the forest reserve.

"It can be readily seen that all the rumors and statements that have been made criticizing this company in the matter are wholly wrong. We ask that you give this statement as much prominence as the misrepresentations were given, so that all persons may be thoroughly reassured for all time."

Regarding the eastern connections of the Portland Eastern no authoritative statement can be secured either in Portland or at eastern railway centers. Many rumors of traffic agreements and financial backing of the proposed 1,000-mile electric line are heard.

Many Stories Afloat.

A dispatch from Boston to The Journal connects the Burlington with the Forbes family association with the principal owners of the Burlington system. All the stories indicate that there has been a big combination made between the Burlington, the Los Angeles Pacific, the Rock Island, the Denver & Northwestern and possibly the Gould interests, to break the known as the "Harriman preserve" in the northwest, the largest territory in the civilized world that is without railroad transportation.

The Boston dispatch says that D. H. Moffatt, who has built 200 miles of the Denver & Northwestern from Denver over the Rockies, and heading for Salt Lake, has made arrangements with J. H. Hill for the Burlington road to use the Moffatt line and the Harriman-Hill combination, which will institute a competition against the Harriman roads for southwestern traffic.

DOZEN YOUTHS AND GOAT HAVE SUNDAY FRAGS IN BASEMENT

Perhaps it was a formal initiation into a new secret society of which no one is informed. Or perhaps it was an experiment to prove the power of mind over matter. At any rate it was a great and fearful noise and neighbors looked interestedly in the direction of Seventeenth and East Washington streets yesterday afternoon and some directed their eyes to a flat on the second floor which was the abiding place of the youths.

Investigation showed the noise to be only the product of one goat multiplied by a dozen boys full of the spirit of mischief. The goat had escaped from a barn Sixth and Hawthorne avenue and while the distracted owner searched high and low for the goat that was no like Mary's lamb, the boys had it corralled in the basement of the empty flat. But the goat succeeded in making a second escape finally and finally took the car to avoid all boys between the ages of 12 and 14 who appeared on his homeward path.

ROAD HEADS FOR CENTRAL OREGON

lakes and follows the Owyhee as nearly a direct line as possible, the divide, and passes west of the creek range, in the northwestern part. All along this route the construction work on the great power plant developed for operation of the line.

The Sandy and Bull Run river development alone will generate 250,000 horsepower. It is estimated that the company will need less than 300,000 horsepower for all its main line and feeders. Throughout the region traversed, there will be built electric branch lines that will prove to be of immense value to the country and will develop like magic.

Will Utilize Deschutes River.

Water rights secured by the company will provide power developments on the Deschutes, the Donkey and Biltzner, the Owyhee and other streams. The current will be carried in 10,000 volt and transformed on the car on account of the heavy flow of water. There are numerous springs in that locality and it is supposed that the source of supply has been tapped. A large pump is now being used, operated by a gasoline engine.

Moore Bros. contemplate installing an up-to-date electric plant, and a franchise has already been asked for in the town of Merrill. They will have power to rent, and are building for the future, for with the advent of the railroad there will be manufacturing establishments of various kinds located here.

WAGE-RAISE IN KLAMATH PROJECT

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., Sept. 30.—Construction of a large power plant on the west side of Link river, within the city limits, are experiencing trouble in their excavating on account of the heavy flow of water. There are numerous springs in that locality and it is supposed that the source of supply has been tapped. A large pump is now being used, operated by a gasoline engine.

Moore Bros. contemplate installing an up-to-date electric plant, and a franchise has already been asked for in the town of Merrill. They will have power to rent, and are building for the future, for with the advent of the railroad there will be manufacturing establishments of various kinds located here.

SPRINGS AT KLAMATH BOTHER EXCAVATORS

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Klamath Falls, Or., Sept. 30.—Construction of a large power plant on the west side of Link river, within the city limits, are experiencing trouble in their excavating on account of the heavy flow of water. There are numerous springs in that locality and it is supposed that the source of supply has been tapped. A large pump is now being used, operated by a gasoline engine.

Moore Bros. contemplate installing an up-to-date electric plant, and a franchise has already been asked for in the town of Merrill. They will have power to rent, and are building for the future, for with the advent of the railroad there will be manufacturing establishments of various kinds located here.

OREGON LIFE

THE POLICYHOLDERS COMPANY
"PURELY OREGON" BEST FOR AN OREGONIAN
HOME OFFICE COB. SIXTH AND ANKENY STREETS, PORTLAND
A. L. MILLS, President. L. SAMUEL, General Manager. CLARENCE S. SAMUEL, Assistant Manager.

AT THE STOCK THEATRES

There is no fun in being a slave of Russia, if the play at the Star this week tells anything like the truth. It deals the lines in Russia when human slavery was as common in that country as it was among the blacks in our own south before the civil war. The French company gave a very excellent production and the 11 characters in the cast were all portrayed earnestly and conscientiously.

The first act reveals the studio of Ivan, a young Russian artist, who is struggling for fame and fortune in Paris. A scene near the village of Stovka, Russia, a parlor in the chateau of Princess Lodowski, a roadway near the same village, a deserted hut and a countryside near the village with the elaborate attention to effect that the French company always strives for.

Not since the company opened the season at the Star have they given as uniformly satisfactory work as they do in "The Slaves of Russia." There is some comedy and some tragedy in the melodrama, but whatever is given is effective and makes its point with the audience.

Elizabeth Hale played the part of the countess, Kathleen Taylor played the part of George Berry played the part of John, the old Russian peasant, whose life has been spent in toil and suffering. There will be three matinees this week—Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

AT THE THEATRES

"Johanne Jones" at Heilig.

The attraction at the Heilig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, tonight at 8:15 o'clock, will be George M. Cohan's famous musical play, "Little Johnny Jones." This tuneful comedy opened an engagement of four nights last week at the "standing room only" house and was received with rounds of applause.

Seat Sale Opens Tomorrow.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) morning at the box office at the Heilig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, the advance seat sale will open for "The Prince of Pilsen." Henry W. Savage's beautiful musical comedy production, which comes to the above theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with a special price matinee Saturday.

"Martians" at Marquam.

Tonight and all week the Californians will be heard in "Martians" at the Marquam. This is next to the last week of the engagement of this popular opera company and each succeeding week sees it more of a favorite than ever. It is impossible to say just how the story of Don Caesar de Bazan, the most lovable swashbuckler in romantic literature.

A Green-Eyed Girl.

Any one desiring to see a real girl of the green-eyed species is highly recommended to attend a performance of Clyde Fitch's strange and fascinating play, "The Girl With the Green Eyes," at the Baker theatre.

"Slaves of Russia."

Tomorrow there will be a matinee of "Slaves of Russia" at the Star theatre. This play given for the first time in Portland yesterday by the French stock company and its hit was promptly made. This is an unusual drama, differing from any that the stock company has presented during its engagement in Portland.

"Uncle Josh" at the Empire.

Attention is called to the popular matinees of "Uncle Josh Perkins" at the Empire, Wednesday as well as Saturday. The popular old opened is again in town, and evidently more a favorite than ever. At the Empire all week.

New Bill at the Grand.

Today the management of the Grand

AT THE STOCK THEATRES

There is no fun in being a slave of Russia, if the play at the Star this week tells anything like the truth. It deals the lines in Russia when human slavery was as common in that country as it was among the blacks in our own south before the civil war. The French company gave a very excellent production and the 11 characters in the cast were all portrayed earnestly and conscientiously.

The first act reveals the studio of Ivan, a young Russian artist, who is struggling for fame and fortune in Paris. A scene near the village of Stovka, Russia, a parlor in the chateau of Princess Lodowski, a roadway near the same village, a deserted hut and a countryside near the village with the elaborate attention to effect that the French company always strives for.

Not since the company opened the season at the Star have they given as uniformly satisfactory work as they do in "The Slaves of Russia." There is some comedy and some tragedy in the melodrama, but whatever is given is effective and makes its point with the audience.

Elizabeth Hale played the part of the countess, Kathleen Taylor played the part of George Berry played the part of John, the old Russian peasant, whose life has been spent in toil and suffering. There will be three matinees this week—Tuesday, Thursday and Saturday.

AT THE THEATRES

"Johanne Jones" at Heilig.

The attraction at the Heilig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, tonight at 8:15 o'clock, will be George M. Cohan's famous musical play, "Little Johnny Jones." This tuneful comedy opened an engagement of four nights last week at the "standing room only" house and was received with rounds of applause.

Seat Sale Opens Tomorrow.

Tomorrow (Tuesday) morning at the box office at the Heilig theatre, Fourteenth and Washington streets, the advance seat sale will open for "The Prince of Pilsen." Henry W. Savage's beautiful musical comedy production, which comes to the above theatre next Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights, with a special price matinee Saturday.

"Martians" at Marquam.

Tonight and all week the Californians will be heard in "Martians" at the Marquam. This is next to the last week of the engagement of this popular opera company and each succeeding week sees it more of a favorite than ever. It is impossible to say just how the story of Don Caesar de Bazan, the most lovable swashbuckler in romantic literature.

A Green-Eyed Girl.

Any one desiring to see a real girl of the green-eyed species is highly recommended to attend a performance of Clyde Fitch's strange and fascinating play, "The Girl With the Green Eyes," at the Baker theatre.

"Slaves of Russia."

Tomorrow there will be a matinee of "Slaves of Russia" at the Star theatre. This play given for the first time in Portland yesterday by the French stock company and its hit was promptly made. This is an unusual drama, differing from any that the stock company has presented during its engagement in Portland.

"Uncle Josh" at the Empire.

Attention is called to the popular matinees of "Uncle Josh Perkins" at the Empire, Wednesday as well as Saturday. The popular old opened is again in town, and evidently more a favorite than ever. At the Empire all week.

New Bill at the Grand.

Today the management of the Grand

8,523 Miles of Blue Ribbon

Enough to stretch one-third the way around the world. This represents the quantity of blue ribbon used by the Pabst Brewing Company of Milwaukee during the past year. About six inches of this blue ribbon is stamped in gold with the words "Guaranteed Perfect" and wrapped around the neck of each bottle of

Pabst Blue Ribbon

The Beer of Quality

Some idea of the popularity of this famous brew may be gathered from the size of this order for blue ribbon labels.

The blue ribbon is the mark of excellence and is used only on Pabst Blue Ribbon. It is the maker's pledge of quality and your guaranty of purity.

When you order beer, insist upon having Pabst Blue Ribbon. You can recognize the bottle by the blue ribbon fastened to its neck, as shown in the illustration.

Made by Pabst at Milwaukee

And Bottled only at the Brewery.

Charles Kohn & Co., 3rd & Pine Sts., Portland. Phone Main 460.