

SCOOP DOWN ON KLAMATH

Business Men of Portland Will Go on Excursion to Productive Region East of Mountains—Fair Will be in Session.

Southern Pacific Grants Special Low Rate for Trip—Novel Features Will be Attraction of County Exhibit—Many to Go.

Arrangements have been completed to hold a business men's excursion to Klamath Falls, to leave Portland Thursday morning, October 17. The occasion is peculiarly advantageous because of the Klamath county fair which will be held from October 17 to 19 inclusive.

The Southern Pacific has granted a rate of $2 for the round trip, which includes a stage ride of 22 miles through the largest tract of standing pine in the United States. The last stage in the journey is a steamboat ride on the Klamath river.

Leaving Portland on the morning of Thursday the excursion will arrive at Klamath Falls Friday afternoon. The time will be spent in looking over the superb Klamath country and in taking side trips on the upper lake and inspecting the irrigation projects.

The fair will be the most pretentious of any heretofore attempted. It will be by far the largest on account of the development of the country since the last one was held one year ago.

Every big business house is expected to have at least one representative along. The trade of the Klamath district is a desirable one and it is believed that by this method only it can be secured.

Reservations for Pullman accommodations will be made at the office of the Southern Pacific in the morning. It is necessary to know several days before hand how many will be included in the excursion.

WILL GO AFTER HUGE GRANT REAL TEDDY BEAR IS REVEALED

President Roosevelt Will Make His First Try at Bruin Soon.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Lake Providence, La., Oct. 5.—President Roosevelt will make his first try Monday for the bears he seeks to bag. He is in camp near Stamboul tonight but will not make any effort, under his present plans, to do any hunting Sunday.

He reached Lake Providence at 9 o'clock this morning and after being introduced by Congressman Randall made a short speech to the citizens. He then took the train for Stamboul and arrived there this evening.

The president's camp is in East Carroll parish about 12 miles from Stamboul in the midst of the wilderness. It is pitched on a knoll in the forest on the bank of the Tensas river. There are several sleeping tents, cooking and dining tents.

The president is in fine fettle for the sport. His rest at Bay has made him keen for the trail and he appears to be in unusually robust health. He expects to begin the chase before day.

Runners will be out all day Sunday getting on the track of the bears in the neighborhood and when the start is made a short sprint will be necessary. It will be encountered in running them to earth.

In addition to killing the bears they will be photographed at all stages of the hunt.

Portland Boys Smelled Jail But Frenzied Dig Appeased Accusing Popcorn Man, Victim of Swiping.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Forest Grove, Or., Oct. 5.—While celebrating a football victory here today a number of high school students from Portland barely missed spending a night in the Washington county jail. The trouble occurred when a large crowd of students invaded a confectionery store belonging to Oscar Baldwin and began helping themselves to candy, fruit, cigars and other perishable goods.

In the absence of Mr. Baldwin, who attended the street fair at Hillsboro, Mrs. Baldwin was in charge of the store. Unable to intercept the boys, who had left before the pilfered wares were missed, she telephoned to her husband at Hillsboro, who met the train with the sheriff and demanded payment for the stolen goods. It was necessary to detain all who might possibly be implicated and a general invitation to the Portland contingent to vacate the train pending a settlement of the claim was performed.

Five boys were charged with the theft and were asked to come through with $3.50, the sum necessary to cover the loss as reported by Mrs. Baldwin. The five Portland youths from Portland High had only $1.50, but by scraping the sum was found in the crowd and the boys were detained no longer.

But meanwhile the train had passed on, leaving the boys marooned at Hillsboro until the next train tomorrow morning.

VOICELESS RUEF

But he would not agree to any such proposition. District Attorney William Langdon had no comment to make on the finding if it disappointed him he would not admit it. He said that Ford would at once be brought to trial again.

But meanwhile the train had passed on, leaving the boys marooned at Hillsboro until the next train tomorrow morning.

OFFICIALS ARE AT SEA

least suspicious was found, the officers declared. When the raiders arrived at Mrs. Kennison's door she made no attempt to prevent them from searching the place and offered to aid them in any way she could.

Mrs. Kennison is a sympathizer of the Western Federation of Miners. She is a comely woman of about 30 years of light hair and beautiful blue eyes, which eloquently express her feelings when she so desires. When seen this evening by Journal correspondents she refused to discuss the Brown assassination.

Mrs. Brown and her daughter Ethel live in the assassin's house. Mrs. Brown has refused to give further information concerning whom she suspects of the crime. She maintains that she does not put any faith in the theory that the federation was responsible for the dynamiting.

Every effort to get Mrs. Brown to tell what she knows of her husband's murderers has failed of result.

Railroad Commission Succeeds in Securing Statement From Southern Pacific Company Regarding Its Enormous Holdings.

The Oregon railroad commission, after months of patient delving, has at last secured from the Southern Pacific a report on its land grants, showing their exact location. In the report is shown the number of acres taken by the company since the life of the grants, the amount realized and the number of acres yet to be realized upon.

According to the report, it is shown that the railroad originally claimed about 4,218,000 acres of land. Since the beginning of the grants patents have been issued for 2,394,500 acres, and there are still pending patents for 332,500 acres more. Difficulty is also due to 31,500 acres, making a total of 3,219,500 acres the company still claims.

According to the report the Southern Pacific will probably lose about 995,000 acres of the amount originally claimed by it. There appears to be a discrepancy in the company's figures covering the amount of land originally owned, the amount sold and the balance on hand. This is in all probability accounted for by the fact that many acres which have been included by the company in the "amount sold" column were afterwards recovered through the cancellation of contracts for non-payment of interest and principal and when thus recovered were added to the amount of acreage carried as "on hand."

A summary of the report of the commission follows:
Number of acres acquired through grants from states or the United States for whose patents have been issued, Oregon—2,822,819.22; other states—1,710.11. Number of acres to which the company is still entitled through grants from states of the United States but for which patents have not been issued, Oregon—232,541.03; other states—none. Number of acres of land available to company sold and due from the United States to satisfy adverse decisions, Oregon—31,473.63; other states—none. Number of acres of land due company from the United States for losses sustained through adverse decisions, Oregon—995,308.53; other states—none. Total—4,218,000.26 acres.

SLOGANS

names in a separate, sealed envelope and they will not be known until the prize slogan has been selected.

Read these slogans and try what you can do. Remember it's $15 just for the effort of writing down a few words on a slip of paper and sending it to The Journal:

- "The western wonder—Portland."
- Portland.
- Queen of the West."
- Portland, Oct. 5.
- "See Portland 'Beauties' and Live."
- Portland, Oct. 4.
- Portland.
- "It does rain—roses; it will rain—roses; Of course it rains—roses! Portland, Ore., June—1908."
- These three arrangements of the slogan were suggested to me by the following quotation from George Elliot: "It never rains roses; when we want to have more roses we must plant more trees."
- Portland, Oct. 5.
- "Beautiful Rose; Beautiful Portland."
- Slogans of All Kinds.
- Everett, Wash., Oct. 4.
- "Ever the best for roses is Portland, the garden city of the world."
- Portland, Oct. 3.
- "My slogan is 'Portland Rose.' It is intended to be used with a picture of a log cabin bearing the figures 1845, a rose and a 15-story skyscraper marked 1908 to represent the time the rose show is to take place. Thus the word rose—'Another one is 'Boost Portland, the Hub of the West.'"
- Portland, Oct. 5.
- "Portland Rose, U Know."
- Pendleton, Oct. 4.
- "I think no more appropriate slogan can be suggested for the Rose Festival association in respect to the coming festival either before or after that wonderful event than a transposition of our previous slogan, made to read: 'Portland fine, Portland great. A wonder of roses in nineteen-eight.' The campaign committee which is to raise that $100,000 can change the last line to read: 'The coin for the roses in 1908.'"

"Likewise the committee on publicity can alter it to meet their necessities: "The rosiest roses in 1908." "The City of Roses in 1908." "A week of roses in 1908." "Any of which, coupled with the first line will I think make a good ringing slogan for the association and all others interested in the festival."

Portland, Oct. 4.—"The roses win."

"The call of the roses."

"For nineteen-eight the roses wait."

"See Oregon roses bloom."

"A tribute of gold for a feast of roses."

"A day of gold for a week of bloom."
- Portland, Oct. 4.
- "In my slogan the top represents the rising sun, and the other cut represents a log cabin with a rose at each end. In the sun I would have 'June 1908'; at the end of the log I would have 'Line up' and 'Rose Fiesta'; and along the side of the log, 'Portland, Oregon.'"
- Portland, Oct. 5.
- "Watch the roses grow for 1908." Forest Grove, Oregon, Oct. 5.

Man Whose Memory Was Bad.

For more than an hour a witness for the defense had dodged questions. His faulty memory was particularly exasperating to the counsel for the plaintiff, who was seeking to recall to the witness's recollection an event of four or five years previous. Eventually the man remembered "something about it." "Ah," continued the lawyer for the plaintiff, "what did you think of it at the time?" "Really," said the witness, speaking before the lawyer for the defense had time to interpose objection, "it was so long ago I can't recall exactly what I thought of it."

"Well," shouted the cross-examiner, excitedly, "if you can't recall exactly, tell us what you think now you thought then."

Wouldn't You?

"At a tea," said a Washington woman, "the late Julia Magruder told us a story about a little girl whom she once took out to luncheon. At the luncheon's end Miss Magruder handed the waiter a $10 bill, and the man brought back on a plate a great mound of greenbacks and silver. The little girl looked at the huge mound of change longingly. 'If you please, Miss Magruder,' she said, 'I'll have a plate of that, too.'"
