EAST SIDE ANGRY NATIONAL DEBT OVER BRIDGE DELAY

What Has Become of Suits and Conduit.

Members attending the meeting of the federated east side clubs last night at the Hotel Sårgent expressed impatience at the delay in the progress of the suits started to test the validity of the bond build a new bridge to replace the antiquated Madison street structure. The members also wanted to know what had been done in the way of building a had been done in the way of building a new conduit from Buil Run river.

A committee, consisting of Dr. C. H. Raffety, H. H. Prouty and W. L. Boise, was appointed to confer with the city attorney to assertian what measures are necessary to expedite the bridge and conduit construction. Every part of the east side is intensely interested in the new pipe line from Buil Run and voted for it with the understanding that no delay would be experienced in getting the pipe line at once. The long delay of six months with no plans drawn is exhausting the patience of the east side.

other important matters were discussed, including the practicability of building concrete sea walls along the waterfront. This matter was introduced by T. J. Flynn. He spoke at length regarding the advantage to the city doing such work and the eventual necessity of the improvement, together with the improved appearance and look of prosperity it would give to a city.

L. Boise was authorized to secure W. L. Hoise was authorized to secure information as to the widening and raising of the new bridges so that traffic on them would be less liable to delay. G. C. Parsons of Pledmont said that, in view of the fact that the Harriman lines were considering the reconstruction of the Steel bridge on wider plans, the club could do no better than to urge the cooperation of the city in building a better and wider bridge where the Steel bridge now stands.

E. L. Thorpe, secretary of the com-mittee in charge of the grange and Multnomah county fair, invited the organization to visit the fair on Portland day, Friday, October 18. The invitation was accepted and as many of the mem-bers as possible will attend the fair.

Superintendent Gardner Reports Increase in Number of Children Received.

At the monthly meeting of the Boys' and Girls' Aid society, held yesterday afternoon at the chambers of Judge William B. Gilbert, Superintendent Gardner reported that 50 children were received during the month of September an increase of 15 over the number rean increase of 15 over the number received in the corresponding month last year. Out of this number 29 are new cases, 11 being from Multnomah county.

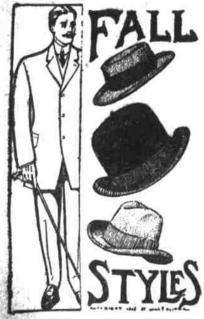

Mr. Gardner reported on his trip to county seats in the southern part of the state. He said that some of the local organizations are much more active than others. One of the chief difficulties is disregard of the compulsory education law. The society is preparing to send a circular letter to the custodians of all wards, calling attention to the law, and the county school superintendents have promised to assist in every way possible. Truant officers will take the names of the children and report upon them at intervals. report upon them at intervals.

Another means adopted to keep in touch with the children placed by the society is in the preparation of special report cards to be used by teachers in all schools where wards of the society are sent.

BURGLARS GET CASH

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Hood River, Or., Oct. 9 .- The mill of the Hood River Milling company was entered Monday night by burgiars who secured $10.60. Entrance was effected secured $10.60. Entrance was effected by forcing a window. Manager G. J. Gessling, who states that he has been anticipating a visit of this character ever since the mill was built, left the safe unlocked so as to keep robbers from blowing it open. The cash drawer was locked, however, and this was broken open and its contents taken. No trace of the robbers has been discovered.

This is the second burglary of this character within a short time and is leading the authorities to believe that it may be the work of parties in the locality, rather than strangers, as was

A further examination of this interesting subject brings to light the marvelous change that has been wrought in the per capita debt of the nation in the past 42 years. In 1865 there was $63.20 of interest bearing debt to each man, woman and child in the country. Now this figure has dwindled to $10.20, a reduction of $53. Interest charges now amount to less than 25 cents per annum, against $4 in 1865. In other words, while the gross debt per capita is 16 per cent of what it was in 1865, the fixed charges per capita have shrunk to but 6 per cent of the requirements 42 years ago.

At the close of the civil war, when the national credit was strained almost to the breaking point, the annual interest disbursement amounted to $175,000,000, an average interest rate of more than 6 per cent. Today more than three fourths of our bonds bear but 2 per cent, while the average rate on the entire outstanding issues is but 2.3 per cent. Not only has there been a tremendous reduction in debt, but a steadily expanding credit has resulted in cutting off nearly two thirds of the average interest rate. While the interest bearing debt of the country is $858,000,000, the report of the United States treasurer shows that there is enough cash in the treasury to retire nearly 45 per cent of these bonds.

In the following table is shown the different issues which make up the present interest bearing debt of the Fine Street Parade Witnessed by Hundreds of People This Morning.

The biggest of the smaller shows, better known as Gentry Brothers' Famous Shows, United, made good its promises IN HOOD RIVER MILL of the past several days and presented to several thousands on the principal streets this morning one of the prettiest street parades ever given by a traveling circus. The crowds that lined the right of way were not only delighted with the diminutive chariots, coaches, cages and tableaux and charmed with the exceltableaux and charmed with the excel-lence of the wardrobe and decorative materials used in the parade, but they were a unit in expressing surprise at the fine conditions of the hundreds of ponies and horses. In these particulars, especially, comparison with any other circus parade seen here this season is altogether favorable to the Gentry Brothers.

Brothers.

In addition to the quality and individuality of the various features, not excepting the inevitable elephants, camels and calliope, the crowds had occasion to express surprise at the length of the "dog and pony" show parade of the "dog and pony" show parade since the display was nearly a mile in since the display was hearly length.

Notable among the features were Count and Baron Magri in the tiny coach originally given Mrs. General Tom Thumb by Barnum; the wagons bearing the scores of beribboned and well groomed dogs; the little pony colts trotting alongside their mothers, and the monkeys, some of whom rode "outside" on top of the cages, while others were seen in durance vile behind the bars.

Tents Are Crowded. Early this afternoon the doors of the Gentry tents were thrown open to the thousands of patrons, mostly calidren and their escorts, who came to see the pony drill, the monkey fire department, the diving dogs, the pyramid pony act, and the various other features incident to the characteristic Gentry program. Countess Magri—Mrs. General Tom Thumb—also held court just inside the main entrance, renewing many friendships dating back 40 years, and the pony and entrance to the country of the country and animal tent also come in for a large share of attention.

Following the afternoon performance all the children in the audience were given invitation to ride the ponies, elephants and camels, and few of them declined the offer. The Gentry shows will exhibt on the same grounds this evening.

SURPRISE SPRUNG IN HINES MURDER TRIAL

Goldfield, Nev., Oct. 9.—Fred Bruhn, the star witness of the state in the Hines murder case, created a sensation in court today when he testified that Podhorsky, the Russian count, was sitting down with his hands on the table in front of him when he was shot and that he never arose after the first fire, but gradually reeled from the chair to the floor dead. The defense has been trying to establish self-defense in that the count rose and put his right hand toward his hip pocket when he saw Hines approach. This was the worst blow the defense has sustained. The case is being argued to the jury this afternoon.

Tomorrow will be the last day for discount on west side gas bills. In the future the reading of meters on the west side will commence on the 11th of each month instead of the 15th, as heretofore, to accommodate the increase in constituers.

It has only been a few years since the growing of wainuts attracted commercial attention in this state. Most of the first nuts grown here were of small size and of rather indifferent quality and for awhile producers felt that climatic conditions were not proper for the raising of wainuts on a commercial basis in competition with California.

pronounce them to be far superior to those grown any other place. They say that not only does the walnut reach the large size of those grown in the southern state but the nuts are generally of better color; the meat is firmer and the oil more abundant and richer. This is causing many to go into the culture of walnuts as a regular business.

It has been shown that walnuts are one of the most profitable crops to produce even in California where the dry weather in many seasons interferes with a large crop. Here in Oregon the ex-weather in many seasons interferes with a large crop. Here in Oregon the experts say there can scarcely be a failure to produce a good crop.

Every year the demand for wainuts is increasing while the output has steadily decreased. Values have been advancing for several seasons because of the smaller crop both in California and in France until at this time quotations are advancing to such a figure that the prices would soon be prohibitary if allowed to continue upward for a short time.

According to a grower from West Virginia who was recently on a visit in this city, the climatic conditions in eastern Oregon are just about proper for the successful raising of these nuts. He said that the peanut does not desire rich soil; the poorer the better, and in sections of the inland empire peanut growing could be made successful on ground that is not at present utilized.

The tight money market east shows its pernicious influence only in this way so far as Oregon prosperity is concerned. Every eastern million that comes into Oregon to be placed in latent resources releases that much Oregon wealth for active development uses. Therefore the eastern investor is a highly prized element in the state's upbuilding, and his absence this month only makes the Oregon heart grow fonder.

Timberlands have in two or three years come to be ranked as A1 security by the hanking fraternity. It is being realized that the exclusive hold the northwest now has upon the lumber manufacturing industry is a real and tangible asset and that timber values will resist the influence of hard times stronger than any other class of property. The only danger attending timber investments is that of fire, and this is diminishing every year as the state ber investments is that of fire, and this is diminishing every year as the state increases its precautions and the public becomes educated up to a realization of the vital necessity of preserving the state's standing timber from harm. Realty values in Portland are still low enough to make investment attactive to any capitalist from outside of the state as well as local residents. The city has successfully steered clear of a boom and as a result its realty values are holding their own and slowly but surely advancing with the city's legitimate growth of population and industrial development. (Corner Second) PORTLAND, OREGON be truthfully said of every considerable city in the state of Oregon. In cities like Eugene, Medford. The Dalles, Hood River and many others of like class, there is apparent a strong spirit of progress but no craze in realty speculation. The colonist movement from the middle states to Oregon which is now under way and has run steadily since September 1, is doing much to counteract the effect of the recent close money market. There are about 1,500 homes seekers and small investors coming in through the Huntington gateway every week, and it is estimated that by the close of the colonist period October 31 the number will have reached 15,000. Nearly all of these people have some money to invest, and they either come to invest it or to look over the field

SOMETHING NEW IN REAL ESTATE ADVERTISING

One Advertiser Tells the Plain, Unvarnished Truth About His Property

It is our hope to sell just 300 Irvington Park lots to home-builders this fall. If we succeed in doing that, we are indifferent as to whether we sell another foot of that property for the next five years. In fact, we would rather not. If we cannot sell them by telling the plain, unvarnished truth, they will never be sold by us. Consequently, we have determined to adopt a plan of advertising

The streets in Irvington Park are all cleared and provide good roadways as they are; but they are not graded. They will be as soon as men and money can do it. The Alberta street car line runs within

3 blocks of the Park and that line will be extended to the center of the addition just as soon as we can get East Thirtieth street graded, the only thing that is holding us back. The same grading proposition is retarding the building of cement sidewalks. These objections, as far as we can see, are the only ones that are in the way of making Irvington Park one of the most desirable residence locations in Portland at the present time. Then, again, we are selling property and not improvements. Therefore, the improvements above mentioned are not included in the price of the lots. They will all be put in, however, and each purchaser of a lot may pay for his grading under the bonding act, being allowed 10 years to do so. We could add the cost of these improvements to the price of the lots, and add an additional sum for these benefits, and charge you at once for them. We deemed it far better to allow you 10 years to pay this part of the bill than compel you to pay it in the time that we require you to pay for the lot. This, therefore, is to your advantage and not to ours. Now, you know all the bad features about Irvington Park. Permit us to tell you just one advantage that throws all the disadvantages in the shade-there is a magnificent and valuable growth of 15-year-old cedars and shrubbery on almost every lot. Prices from $225 to $350. Terms 10 per cent cash and $10 per month, 6 per cent on balance. You can almost pay out on the property within the year.
