

Advice to Women

Mrs. Pinkham's Standing Invitation to Women

All sick women are invited to write Mrs. Pinkham, Lynn, Mass., for advice. She is the Mrs. Pinkham who has been advising sick women free of charge for more than twenty years, and before that she assisted her mother-in-law, Lydia E. Pinkham, in advising. Thus she is especially well qualified to give advice to sick women. Write today, don't wait until too late.

Mrs. Pinkham never violates the confidence thus entrusted to her, and although she is constantly receiving testimonials from women who have been benefited by her advice and medicine, never in all her experience has she published such a letter without the full consent, and often by special request of the writer. Neither has she ever disposed of her confidential letters in any other way. Every one of the hundreds of thousands of letters written to her by confiding women she has to-day under lock and key in the Company's laboratory at Lynn, Mass. Remember, the best medicine for women is

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

EVERY WOMAN SHOULD CONSIDER THESE FACTS

First, that almost every operation in our hospitals, performed upon women, became necessary because of neglect of such symptoms as Backache, Irregularities, Displacements, Pain in the Side, Dragging Sensations, Dizziness and Sleeplessness.

Second, that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from native roots and herbs, has overcome more cases of female ills than any other one medicine.

It regulates, strengthens and restores women's health and is invaluable during the period of Change of Life.

Third, the great volume of unsolicited and grateful testimonials on file at the Pinkham Laboratory at Lynn, Mass., many of which are from time to time being published by special permission, give absolute evidence of the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound over the illnesses of women.

ASHLAND NORMAL IS FLOURISHING

Added Year's Work Brings in Great Many Strong Students.

TRIO OF SPECIALISTS AUGMENT FACULTY

Miss Doughty, Who Has Toured Alaska, Is Prepared to Lecture on That Strange Country—Society and Social Matters.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Ashland, Or., Oct. 8.—A most successful month is just closing at the state normal. The enrollment has been larger and the prospects brighter than on any previous opening month in the history of the school. The added year's work has brought many advanced students to take post-graduate work.

To meet the growing demands of the school the former excellent faculty has been increased by the addition of three new members, who come highly recommended.

Professor H. T. Sutton of the department of oratory has been instructor in that department in Cotner university, Nebraska, for the past 10 years, and has a national reputation as a teacher of oral expression and literature.

Professor H. H. Wardrip, instructor of physical culture and manager of the team, was lately assistant to the director of manual training in the San Jose normal, California.

E. Sloan, supervisor of the primary grades in the training department, is well and favorably known in Oregon. She has done institute work in Washington, Oregon, California and Idaho, and is the author of the Sloan readers.

Mrs. Marge J. Brown, who has charge of the sixth and seventh grades of the training school, has been a county superintendent of schools in Colorado, and was last critic teacher in the Georgia state normal.

FREAK HOOD RIVER PEAR THAT MEANS FORTUNE TO DISCOVERER

Specimens of Mason's Seedless.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Hood River, Or., Oct. 8.—A seedless pear discovered on his ranch by A. L. Mason, a noted fruit man at Hood River, has caused a greater sensation than the high prices received for apples at Hood River this year.

The discovery of the seedless and coreless pear was made by accident by Mr. Mason, who, although vice-president of the Northwest Fruitgrowers association and unusually well posted, had never heard of anything of the kind. It was also a poser to E. L. Smith, considered the father of horticulture at Hood River, E. H. Shepard, editor of "Better Fruit," and H. F. Davidson, Hood River's pioneer fruit shipper. It was thought at first when Mr. Mason opened a bag full of the pears in the presence of several well-known fruitgrowers and announced to them what it contained, that he was joking. After cutting open a dozen or more they were convinced and announced that if the tree on which they were grown continued to propagate seedless pears Mr. Mason had made a wonderful discovery.

Unlike other seedless deciduous fruit the seedless pears are exceedingly well developed, large, of fine quality and flavor, and maturing at a time of the year that makes them one of the most valuable varieties for canning that has ever become known.

All attempts to account for the phenomenon leave the problem unsolved, as no attempt had ever been made by Mr. Mason to grow seedless fruit. Neither did he know that he had done so until the pears were being prepared for canning, when, on being cut open, they were discovered to be absolutely seedless.

Originally the tree on which the pears grew was supposed to be of a variety known as Clapp's Favorite. It is now known, however, that it is not of that variety and it is as yet an unnamed pear, with the exception of the name applied to it locally of "Mason's Seedless."

Several years ago Mr. Mason bought a large number of trees, among which was this one, which afterwards proved to be untrue to name. Until last year it had no fruit on it, and then the yield was so small that no attention was paid to it. This year there were six boxes on the tree, making it worth while to utilize them, and this brought about the discovery that they were seedless.

SEATTLE SPIRIT SPLASHES INTO THIN AIR, SAYS SAN FRANCISCO

Dr. William A. Mundell, of the San Francisco Examiner, likes Portland. He has visited all the cities in the northwest, including Seattle. He does not have a very high regard for the city on Puget sound.

"Seattle's spirit is not much," Dr. Mundell said this morning. "The idea up there is to make the visitor think they have a great city. That said spirit doesn't fool the close observer. Seattle is having one long, iridescent dream that will eventually develop into a nightmare."

"Seattle reminds me of a diamond palace that one visits expecting to see nothing but the genuine stones," continued the Golden Gate newspaper man.

CHEHALIS SETTLES TRACTION QUESTION

Weeks Franchise Granted With Provisions for Unity in Service Without Monopoly.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Chehalis, Wash., Oct. 9.—By the passage of the franchise ordinance by the city council granting to Ben Weeks and his associates of the Centralia, Chehalis Electric Railway & Power company a permit to build an interurban line between Chehalis and Centralia it is believed the project is nearer consummation than ever before.

Owing to the peculiar topography of this city and the manner in which the streets are laid out there are but two or three thoroughfares over which a street railway can enter or leave the city. Originally Mr. Weeks asked for a franchise for a double track on the two principal routes and on the best business streets. He objected to any common user clause, but it was finally agreed to grant a franchise for a single-track system, with the necessary turn-outs, as he did not intend at this time to build more than one track anyhow. This track is to be laid to one side of the center of the street, so that if at any future date some other company wishes to use the same streets the two systems can make a trackage agreement, giving a double track system with all the advantages of the common user. This satisfied those who wished to prevent any one company from securing a monopoly of the streets. Ultimately it is hoped to extend the line into eastern Lewis county.

INTENSELY IMPROVED

The strenuous life was never more perfectly exemplified than in the perfecting of Ladd's Addition for the homes of Portland people. At times, over 200 men and as many horses were busy. Even now, when the north half of the property is ready, the balance is a scene of constant and unceasing activity. The result of this extraordinary effort on the part of the owner has been an intensely improved residence addition, making for a better and more magnificent Portland. See it now and you will never, as long as you live, be able to efface the memory of this delightful spot.

LADD'S ADDITION

Most Perfectly Appointed Residence Section of Portland

This Ideal Building Location is most beautifully portrayed in an artistic little folder that will be mailed or presented to you upon request. You and your friends are welcome to a copy

F. W. TORGLER, Sales Agent, 106 Sherlock Bldg.

From a big, gently rolling field, workmen have transformed this property into a veritable private residence park. For your convenience, there are broad, asphalted streets, wide parkings, cement curbs and sidewalks, water and sewer systems laid in fourteen-foot alleys, facilities already installed for immediate connection with the electric light and telephone companies. A 20-minute walk takes you to the shopping and business center of the city. Several streetcar lines, with a three-minute stroll, landing you down town in five minutes. No convenience is lacking that you could demand.

A Journal Tourist.
Miss A. Doughty, teacher of history and geography, was one of a party of 14 persons who made the tour of southern Alaska as the guests of The Oregon Journal. She was nominated by Miss Alice Grant of Dallas, who led her district in the number of votes in the educational contest on August 15. Miss Grant also had the highest number of votes in the state at the close of the contest. Miss Doughty gave the students a most interesting and instructive description of the trips and, of the country, and will later speak on "Alaskan Indians and Totem Poles." She spoke very highly of The Journal's method of assisting ambitious students, and planning such delightful trips. As the educational contest is a regular feature of The Journal, doubtless many students will next year take advantage of the excellent opportunity to secure a free trip, cash prize and scholarship.

Miss Ida M. Case, of the department of English and literature, spent her vacation in Europe.

Physics Class Wires Buildings.
Professor C. A. Payne, teacher of natural science, was visitor at the Jamestown exposition, during the summer.

The Athletic club, the Y. W. C. A. and Y. M. C. A., and the Young Men's and the Young Ladies' Congressional and Athena Literary societies, have all been reorganized, and are doing good work.

Professor Joy's class in physics, assisted by Professor Wardrip, has finished and connected both buildings with electric bells.

The faculty very pleasantly entertained about 150 students and invited guests Friday evening in the chapel. One of the features of the evening was the unveiling of four pieces of statuary which had been presented to the school by the Euterpean and Dramatic clubs.

Thomas Molloy Is Recovering.
(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Tualatin, Or., Oct. 9.—Thomas Molloy, who was reported badly injured in a cave-in on the Salem and Portland Electric line at Fulton Saturday, is resting quite easy in the Good Samaritan hospital. One leg was broken below the knee and he suffered slight internal injuries. He is expected home, on crutches, next week.

Tomorrow will be the last day for discount on west side gas bills. In the future the reading of meters on the west side will commence on the 11th of each month instead of the 15th, as heretofore, to accommodate the increase in consumption.
