Members of the executive board exonerated Captain William Hansen, of the Sunnyside fire company, of stealing lumber from residences under construction in Sunnyside. It developed at the investigation conducted by the fire committee that considerable spite work entered into the charges brought against Hansen on the part of former mem-bers of the department. Hansen not only proved to the board that he had not stolen any lumber, but that the residences he entered were only those to which he had gained permission from the owners. The charges against Hansen were ordered dismissed.

Circuit Judge Cleiand yesterday afternoon sentenced Arthur Freeman to serve four years in the penitentlary at Salem for a statutory offense. The complaining witness in the case was Mabel Van Fleet, a girl 14 years of age Freeman's attorney pleaded for more time to present evidence showing extenuating circumstances, but Judge Cle-land insisted that the case had aircady been delayed for that purpose and re-fused to grant further time. Freeman years of age, and Judge Cletand hat the sentence would have been more severe had the defendant been further advanced in years.
