Making Pinal Effort.

President John L. Day, of the Depositors' association, yesterday went back to work for the Portland General Electric company, of which he has long been a trusted employe, but he will continue to give a part of his time each day to the work of the association. He still has complete confidence that his effort to realize through the Home Tele-phone bonds subscription plan, the final payment of dollar for dollar to every de-positor, will succeed, and hopes by that method to recover his own money, some-thing like $3,500, which he had deposited in the bank.

Secretary Richmond is on duty at the office of the association, with two assistants, completing the card indexing of all depositors and the condition of their accounts, and sending out notices to those who have not already received association's printed literature. Bolicit Each Depositor.

The effort to save the bank through The effort to save the bank through reorganization, and thus release the Home Telephone bonds to those depositors who are subscribing for them, will be continued as long as there is any prospect of succeeding. Every depositor will be solicited, and shown the clear advantage of accepting a 5 per cent interest-bearing security already paying its interest regularly, in exchange for accounts in the suspended bank. "After all depositors have been calle upon, and are given the facts regarding this situation, if they do not come in the plan will fall to the ground. Upon those who have refused to come in and help us will fall the responsibility for loss to all the depositors," Secretary Richmond said today. "We will exhaust every effort than can reasonably be tried, and if we fall it will not be the fault of the Depositors' association as a

The total subscriptions to bonds and bank stock has reached $685,000. Of this amount $600,000 is for the Home telephone bonds, and the remainder is for stock in the proposed bank reorganization. As an indication of how ganization. As an indication of how established banks regard the Home tele-phone securities, it is pointed out that practically every bank that carried a deposit in the suspended Oregon Trust & Savings bank voluntarily elected to sign for these bonds in lieu of the de-nosit.

When the press was sent west from New York it was addressed to a fictitious name at Baker City, Oregon. The witness said his object in doing this was that he didn't want the secret service men to get on to the fact that he had ordered such machinery. Later the press was taken to Welser, Idaho, and afterward to Huntington and then to a dugout on the Bastian runch, where dugout on the Bastian ranch, where Coon formerly made his headquarters. Elmer Turner, he said, had put up most of the money which had gone to purchase the press. This machine was purchase the press. This machine was to have been used in Coon's copper experiments. Afterward he found out that it was not just what he wanted. Early last year Coon advertised the press for sale.
