TODAY'S MARKETS

As Long as Growers Will Feed Market With Hops They Cannot Expect Shorts to Pay Them Advanced Price for Crop.

CABBAGE CROP HITS PRICES

Demand and Consumption Not Equal to Supplies—Sauer Kraut Low.

Front street features:
Wheat regains part of loss.
Very firm tone in local flour.
Millstuffs to advance again.
Eggs are holding firm.
Some pay advance for potatoes.
Four cars bananas unloaded.
Fine apples coming to market.
Fish market well supplied.
Growers feeding hop market.
Cabbage market gone to smash.
Better and higher prices in poultry.
Large veal bane of market.

Cabbage Market Goes to Smash.

It seems that nothing can stop the cabbage market from touching the lowest figures ever reached on the Pacific coast. Supplies this year are fully four times the normal output while demand is about as usual. For this reason cabbage is going begging with growers very willing to accept $10 to $14 a ton for the best quality ever produced on the Pacific coast. Cabbage is selling along Front street in a limited way from ½ to 1c a pound, with most sales at the lower point. Sauer kraut manufacturers have filled themselves up with cabbage until they can purchase no more. Their capacity to manufacture kraut has been reached and then too they experience much difficulty in obtaining barrels. This will likely cause very low prices to rule on kraut this year unless the demand is much larger than usual. Of late years sauer kraut prices have been very high because of the enormous values ruling on cabbage.

Some Pay Advance for Spuds.

The potato market is in very firm shape, both for local and outside business. Shipping demand from California and Arizona is increasing and for this reason dealers are sometimes willing to pay a fractional advance over the former figures for extra fancy quality. The same old trouble of a car shortage is holding back shipments to a great extent but this may prove the salvation of the market after all inasmuch as it will keep shipments down to a figure that there will be little chance of overloading the market in the near future. With small arrivals in the south prices will hold very stiff.

Fine Apples Come to Market.

The arrivals of apples are showing much better quality as the season progresses. From Hood River this morning some very choice Jonathans were received from Union people and they found a ready demand around $2 a box.

Four cars of bananas were unloaded in very good condition this morning. Price as usual.

Nuts of all kinds are arriving quite freely with sales quite fair, but not up to the average on account of the very stiff prices ruling in most lines.

Growers Feeding the Hop Market.

Growers seem unusually anxious to feed the hop market at this time and are offering twice as many bales as shorts are willing to buy even at the present low range of values. The report that Carmichael took on a lot of extra fine quality on the west side Saturday had a somewhat quieting effect upon the nerves of the anxious sellers and this morning they did not crowd the shorts so badly to buy. A prominent buyer in speaking of this said: "The growers can hope for no improvement in hop values as long as they allow the short sellers to fill their contracts at whatever prices they choose to offer. Instead of making the shorts come to them to purchase they are actually telephoning and telegraphing the bears to come and get their hops. Any man who sells hops under 10c a pound this season is losing the amount between that sum and the one he receives."

Brief Notes of the Trade.

Fish markets are well supplied with salmon both from the Columbia river and coast streams but demand is slow because of the warm weather.

Higher prices are ruling for old hens because of the better demand, but mixed lots are holding unchanged, though quite steady.

Turkeys are finding more active call at the values previously quoted.

Large sized veal are not very firm, but small ones are still in good request.

Egg market is holding at former prices.

Butter is steady but unchanged.

Chittim bark is unusually slow with former prices maintained. Manufacturers are buying sparingly.

ITS THE SMALL VEAL THAT FINDS DEMAND

"For large-sized veal there is a very slow demand ruling at this time and for that reason some lower prices are frequently made by receivers in order to unload and keep the market in as healthy a condition as possible. Small sizes are in demand at the prices quoted. For dressed hogs—block sizes—there continues a very good call, although once in a while a sale is made a fraction lower if the receiver has liberal arrivals."—B. W. Graham of Templeton & Graham.

This Is the Absent-Minded Robber.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Spokane, Oct. 21.—One of the most remarkable robberies on record is reported from Mullan, Idaho. Some unknown person entered the Mullan saloon and took $800 in bills, leaving $1,200 in gold, silver and notes. The robber entered the proprietor's room while he was asleep and took his keys from his pocket. After he had stolen the money he threw the keys into the room and awakened the sleeper. Two suspicious characters have been arrested.

Portland Union Stockyards, Oct. 21.—There was a firm tone today in all lines except steers. Cows are in especial good call at this time and prices are being easily maintained. The lack of call for steers is caused by the great amount of contract stuff coming.

Hogs are holding unusually well for this time of year, all arrivals being picked up at the values quoted. Usually at this time of year hogs are weak, but packers are forced to pay up this year because of the small supplies and large demand.

The sheep market is very firm; the tone is strengthening under stress of very light arrivals. Prices are maintained at last week's rulings.

A year ago today all lines were steady.

Official yard prices:

Hogs—Best eastern Oregon, $6.50@6.75; stockers and feeders, $2.50; China fats, $6.00@6.25.

Cattle—Best eastern Oregon steers, $3.75@3.85; best cows and heifers, $2.75@3.00; bulls, $1.75@2.00.

Sheep — Best wethers, $4.75@5.00; mixed, $4.25@4.50; lambs, $4.75@5.00.

Quarantine Is Removed.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Boise, Ida., Oct. 21.—State Veterinarian Dr. G. E. Noble has received official notice from the department of agriculture that the quarantine against Idaho sheep has been removed. Idaho and Wyoming sheep are the first from which the quarantine is raised by the government. Sheep from these states can now be shipped to any part of the country without being examined by federal inspectors for the disease called scabbies, and the government inspectors will be recalled from Idaho and sent to other states to make investigations. However, sheep brought into Idaho will be examined rigidly as in the past.

New York, Oct. 21.—The sharp advance in Americans in London was probably the main cause of today's big uplift in stock values here but the part the professional element paid was no small one. The advance in consols in London was also a strong factor toward causing a good trade elsewhere.

Money rates here started at 7 per cent for call loans, gradually working themselves up to 9 per cent and later selling below the opening figures.

EARLY GAIN IS MADE A LOSS

Sharp Advance in Wheat at Start Is Checked by Reported Sales.

Millstuffs Are to Rise.

A sharp rise is likely tomorrow or Wednesday in bran and shorts on account of the big demand and small supplies.

Local wheat this afternoon lost the cent it gained this morning. This puts club at 87c and bluestem at 89c.

Local flour is firm but unchanged. Nominal export trade.

Chicago, Oct. 21.—The wheat market was excitable at all times today, opening at a sharp advance and closing with a material loss in all options.

The great strength displayed by Liverpool and the initial advance there of over 2d sent the shorts in a hurry to get under cover and the result was that first prices here were about 1½c above Saturday's closing figures.

It was a case of the trade getting too bullish all at once, for the market failed to hold and bears began to go short again. The report that the Patten crowd was a seller probably caused a large per cent of the reaction today.

The southwest was reported a very free seller on the lack of a big cash demand at the moment. The visible shows an increase of 602,000 bushels for wheat, 47,000 bushels for corn and 395,000 bushels for oats. The primary movement of wheat was bullish, the receipts being 1,534,000 bushels, compared with 1,591,000 bushels a year ago.

The coarse grain market followed wheat.

Morrow Is Prosperous.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Heppner, Or., Oct. 21.—This is one of the best crop years in the history of Morrow county, and with wheat at high prices the farmers are enjoying a prosperous season. The grain crop of this section has been conservatively estimated at 2,000,000 bushels, which is 500,000 more than any former year. The price of club is expected to go over 80 cents per bushel.

Digs Big Potato.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Athena, Or., Oct. 21.—While digging potatoes on his farm a few miles from this place, Clarence La Brache unearthed one monster spud which tipped the scales at five pounds. One hill yielded 16 pounds. The potato crop in the Weston mountain district promises to be immense.

RECORD YEAR FOR OREGON AGRICS

Enrollment of 1,100 Students This Fall Touches High Water Mark.

Registrar J. B. Horner of the Oregon Agricultural college predicts a registration at that institution of more than 1,100 students before the present year is concluded. This will be an enormous increase in enrollment over last year and greatly encourages those connected with the institution. The Oregon college is rapidly growing to be the biggest in the Pacific northwest. The following is the statement of the registrar:

Heavy Enrollment.

"The total registration of the Oregon Agricultural college during the first three weeks of the present school year was 870, subdivided somewhat as follows: Agriculture 87, household science 99, mechanical 95, electrical 111, pharmacy 77, civil engineering 64, mining 43, literary commerce 93, forestry 10, sub-freshmen 122, specials 34, music specials 26, graduates 9.

"Of the students who registered for the first time, 35 came from other colleges and universities, 209 from high schools, 74 from academies and preparatory schools and 46 were required to pass examination because they were able to present satisfactory credentials. The outlook is that there will be from 1,000 to 1,100 students this year and that every county in the state will be represented according to its population. The students from Multnomah county are given below:

"Students from Portland — William Bollons, Jessie E. Bodle, Harold Barbur, William C. Allen, Hazel Allen, Edward E. Allen, Albert George Abendorth, Benjamin H. Greenhaw, William H. Burton, Orren K. ROBBERS HAVE ESTHETIC TASTE

Fastidious Burglars Steal Seal Skin Sack, Violin and Silver Spoons.

Variety is the spice of life, it is said, and from the reports of the robberies made this morning and yesterday the police are more than convinced that this little saying is quite true. That some of the thieves are most fastidious in their tastes is conceived from the fact that among other things reported as missing is a sealskin coat, gone together with the delicate odor of sachet powder.

Half a dozen solid silver spoons are also gone but from another home. Then a watch was taken from a room in a hotel which leads the police to believe that possibly some one is figuring on starting up in the jewelry line. And then grips, a violin, bank books, and just common old razors were on the list this morning which helps to keep the detective force busy.

W. M. Chapin reported that his home at 209 Meade street had been entered, a trunk broken into and a sealskin coat together with a valuable old violin taken. The robbery was committed while the occupants were absent.

Someone who is fond of shaving himself or other people, or perhaps just because he wanted to steal, entered the barber shop of L. Walter Maehler, 292 First street, last night and got away with eighteen razors—not safeties—and a hone.

At the home of Mrs. J. Lyons, 312 East Thirty-fourth street, south, six solid silver spoons are missing. This is the result of a burglary one night last week. The spoons are engraved with the name of "I. Soule."

J. H. Puyear, a guest at the Sargent hotel, lost a watch which he says was taken from his room. He has his suspicions. On the inside of the gold case is the engraving: "Charles Vanriper."

HUSBAND FORCED HER TO LEAVE ALASKA

Rosa Christensen has begun suit for divorce from Sverre Christensen, alleging that she was so cruelly treated by her husband at Dawson in 1905 and 1906 that she was compelled to return to her former home in Portland. She says she was beaten and slapped and called names that cannot be repeated in the court record. She was married in Portland in 1894.

Garfield, Wash., Oct. 21.—T. L. Jackson, who owns a splendid farm four miles south of Garfield, has begun hauling his apple crop to the packing-houses here. Friday he brought in a wagon load of apples picked from one Blue Pearmain tree that brought him in cash $11. Two other trees have paid the same farmer this season $12, or $6 a tree. Mr. Jackson has owned the orchard about two years, having purchased it from George F. Stivers of Portland.

FESTIVAL MARCH MAKES BIG HIT

De Caprio's Composition Is Roundly Encored When Played by Sousa.

Sig. A. De Caprio's festival march, played by Sousa's great band under direction of the Portland bandmaster and composer, made a decided hit, and when published should do much to advertise the rose festival for which purpose it was created. It is a catchy piece, the most striking part being the rhythmic swing of the trio.

Arrangements of the march for piano will be placed on the market and half of the proceeds will go towards the rose festival fund, and it is safe to say that it will not be long off the press before everybody in Portland will have tried it, and the little boys will be whistling it on the streets. Copies will be distributed all along the coast and placed on sale where they will do the carnival the most good.

Sig. De Caprio did himself proud when he led the great Sousa band at the Armory Saturday night, and the fact that the audience would not be appeased without a da capo, notwithstanding the long program before them, immediately placed the stamp of public approval upon the work that had occupied no little amount of Sig. De Caprio's time.

An idea of what work had to be put down in order to place the piece before a band of the Sousa magnitude might be faintly understood when it is said that in the first place a full instrumentation had to be arranged and then enough copies made to supply each performer. For instance, there were about 20 clarinet parts, some with variations enough to make the copyist dizzy, and then 30 or more other parts, from piccolos and oboes down to the sousaphone, the big belled bass, and the piano score for the harpist.

Sig. De Caprio is said to be one of very few bandmasters ever accorded the honor of wielding the baton before the acknowledged peer of all bands, while the man who brought it out and made it famous formed one of the vast audience.

EAST BUBBLES IN PROSPERITY

Widespread Congestion of Overwhelming Business Says F. G. Buffum.

Conditions similar to financial and business conditions in the west were found by F. G. Buffum, on a trip to Maine, New York and other eastern states. The railroads are crowded with travel throughout the east, and the telegraph wires must be used constantly by the traveler to get sleeping car or hotel accommodations desired.

"The east looks prosperous to me," said Mr. Buffum. "Everybody seems to have money and to be going somewhere. The factories are away behind with their orders, the wholesale houses have sold more than they can deliver, and there is no indication of a business slump or stringency.

"I heard a few comments in eastern wholesale houses about the flurry in New York, but nobody seems to take it seriously, and they do not believe it amounts to anything more than a Wall street disturbance. The country is too prosperous to stand for anything like a widespread stringency. The crops have been good in the eastern states, there is not an idle mill nor an idle man who wants to work."

He visited Portland, Maine, which is a town of about 60,000 people, having grown 15,000 in 20 years. He said there was but little change noticeable since he left there 30 years ago. The town is sleepy, but is developing the pulp mill industry. Maine produces a vast amount of pulp and paper from its spruce timber, which is without pitch and especially suitable for paper manufacture.

"I have been east on various occasions just preceding the presidential year and this time I heard less talk about retrenchment policies in business in anticipation of presidential election than ever before. There seems to be no evidence of uneasiness about business so far as presidential year is concerned. The busines men feel that the country is in such good shape that next year is going to be about the same as any other year for business."

INDUSTRY AT ROAD'S MERCY

Seattle Prepares to Fight Proposed Advance in Lumber Rate — Congressmen Petitioned to Give More Power to Commission.

A circular letter containing a large amount of data concerning timber and lumber values and the proposed increase of the transcontinental freight rate on Pacific northwest lumber has been compiled by Victor L. Beckman, of Seattle, and copies sent to every congressman and senator.

The purpose of the document is to convince the members that an amendment to the interstate commerce law should be immediately adopted that will compel the railroad companies to first submit all proposed freight rate increases to the interstate commerce commission and secure its approval before such increases can be put into effect.

Rate Is Killing Business.

It is shown that under the law as it now stands the lumber manufacturing industry of the Pacific northwest, and every other productive industry, is at the mercy of the railroad freight rate makers, and that the railroads can at will appropriate any part or all of the manufacturer's profits, or crush out any line of industry that they do not desire to encourage. The lumber mills of Oregon and Washington are rapidly shutting down as a result of the proposed increase, which will go into effect November 1.

The advance in freight rates amounts to about 25 per cent, and is claimed to be greater than the entire profit now realized by the lumber mills on their export product. The author of the Beckman circular estimates that it will add about $70 to the cost of building an average cottage for a workingman in the middle west.

The data given shows comparative freight charges imposed on lumber tonnage from the south, from the Pacific northwest and from Wisconsin and Michigan mills to points in treeless regions all over the country, and it is shown that the charges for carrying Pacific northwest lumber are in nearly every instance more than double the charge on southern and northern lumber.

Refutes Railroad's Arguments.

This condition the Pacific northwest millmen have been able to combat successfully owing to the lower price of timber here, but they allege that if the rate is further increased they will be practically shut out of middle west territory.

It is further shown that the empty car haul on transcontinental railroads is less than on any of the railroads in the more populated eastern states, and that the net earnings of the transcontinentals for the last year were greater in proportion to cost of operation and maintenance than on the eastern railroads. That every leg that the railroad ratemakers have stood upon in forcing the advance is struck from under them is the claim of the millmen, and they do not believe congress can withstand the force of the argument that the law should provide the desired protection from the greedy railroad managers.

DOMESTIC TROUBLE IN FRANKLIN CASE

J. E. Franklin was placed on trial in the federal court this morning before Judge Wolverton and a jury charged with having written lewd and obscene letters to A. J. McMillan and having sent them through the mails.

The work of selecting the jury occupied most of the forenoon session of the court, and A. J. McMillan was the first witness for the government. He testified to having received the letters and to turning them over to the postal authorities.

Back of the case seems to lie a story of domestic difficulties. McMillan testified that Franklin had written many letters to Mrs. McMillan, urging her to leave her home and come to him. As a result of this there was no love lost between the men, and at last when Mrs. McMillan did leave home, her husband turned the letters received from Franklin over to the postal officials. The trial of the case will not be finished before tomorrow afternoon. The defendant is an old white-haired man.

EQUALIZING BOARD OPENS TAX BOOKS

The county board of equalization met in the office of the county court this morning, where the tax rolls are open for inspection and complaints regarding errors in assessment may be filed for consideration. Assessor Sigler and County Clerk Fields are in attendance, County Judge Webster, the third member of the board, being absent.

Only a few persons came before the board this morning. Nine petitions for changes of assessment were presented, all concerning small sums fixed by the assessor on personal property. The books will be open throughout the week, after which time the board will take up the petitions then on file.
