

FINE EXHIBITS SHOWN AT SCHOLLS' INSTITUTE

Event Held Under Auspices of Oregon Agricultural College Experiment Station and Grange—Dr. Withycombe and Other Prominent Speakers Heard.

A farmer's institute was held Friday and Saturday of last week at Scholls, Washington county, under the auspices of the Oregon Agricultural College Experiment station and Scholls' grange, number 328. Creditable exhibits of fruits, nuts, vegetables, etc., were made by the farmers of that section. Ford Gremer made a fine exhibit of English and black walnuts, which were grown on his farm near Scholls.

An exhibit of Spitzbergen apples was made that for richness of color and flavor equaled anything produced in the Hood River country. Individual exhibits of corn, tomatoes, potatoes and general garden truck were made that were quite as good as the more pretentious displays made at the late state fair.

Dr. Withycombe Speaks.
Dr. James Withycombe, director of the Oregon Agricultural College Experiment station, delivered an address in which he touched upon many phases of an Oregon farmer's life. He congratulated the Scholls grange upon the quality of the exhibits made at their district fair. He said that viewing such exhibits was of great value, as it gave one new ideas of the ability of the soil to produce when properly cultivated.

"Scientific farming will double production," he declared. "Farmers of this nation create seven billions of its wealth."

Dr. Withycombe called attention to the fact that the Willamette valley contains about 5,000,000 acres, and if farmed as intensively as Belgium would support 2,000,000 of people. While the state is rich in timber, eventually its wealth must come from the farm. Its great perpetual basic wealth is agriculture.

Other Speakers Heard.
Professor C. E. Bradley, chemist at the O. A. C. experiment station, spoke on the "Chemistry of the Soil." Friday evening an illustrated lecture on "Types of Livestock" was given by Dr. Withycombe. Mrs. Orta Buxton spoke on "Domestic Economy," and made a plea for better sanitary conditions on the farm. She recommended the canning of more fruits and meats.

Saturday morning William Scholmerick gave an address on "Dairying," recommending dairy cattle for the dairyman and care in feeding. He said that 99 cows are overfed where one is overfed.

E. T. Judd called attention to the annual meeting of the Oregon State Dairymen's association to be held in Portland December 12, 13 and 14, and urged that samples of butter be sent for exhibition.

Mrs. Orta Buxton spoke on the "Canning of Fruits, Meats and Vegetables." The institute and fair was a pronounced success, and is expected to result in much good to the agricultural interest of Scholls and vicinity.

DEAF MUTES HEAR PASTOR'S SERMON

Dr. Wilson's Address Interpreted for Benefit of Part of Congregation.

LARGE CONGREGATION ATTENDS CENTENARY

Pastor Speaks of the Little Things Upon Earth That Are Exceedingly Wise—Four Insects Illustrate the Force of His Words.

An overflow congregation assembled at Centenary Methodist church yesterday morning to witness the inauguration by the pastor, Dr. Clarence True Wilson of services for deaf mutes. Professor Wentz interpreted Dr. Wilson's sermon for the benefit of a large number of deaf mutes who occupied a portion of the gallery set aside for their use.

Dr. Wilson's sermon was taken from Proverbs, xxx, 24. "There be four things which are little upon the earth, but they are exceedingly wise." The sermon was especially adapted to children, who formed a large part of the congregation, and began with a reference to the ant as a model in the way of thrift, industry and foresight. The locust was used to point the lesson of unity. The coney, a little fur-bearing, rock-dwelling animal of Syria, was used to illustrate the value of prudence, in that it burrows deep into the everlasting rock to make its home. The final illustration was taken from the life of the spider, which seeks to spin its web high and above danger.

THIS WAY BUT ONCE.

One Life on Earth Often Full of Mistakes and Errors.

"This Way but Once" was the subject of the sermon preached at the Taylor street Methodist church last night by Dr. Benjamin Young. He said every man was a pioneer, every man was traveling in a new country, he has never been this way before, and would give much to go back and correct the errors of the past.

Dr. Young said the great and immortal allegory written by John Bunyan was true to life; dangers beset the path of the wayfarer whenever he may choose to go. "Unless I am alert and of great courage and true, and moved upon great hopes, I shall fall, an untidied offering to some malignant demon of the desert." This was the theme of the doctor's discourse.

"This way but once" are solemn words. You cannot go over the journey there would come some joy to most of us on this account. At some critical moment we were not as true as we should have been, and that experience is marked with dismal failure. We would give a good deal if we could expunge the ugly thing from the book of personal history.

RELIGION IS A LIFE.
Rev. Dyott Discusses Churchianity and Christianity.
The differences between "Churchianity" and Christianity were discussed in a sermon by Rev. Luther R. Dyott at the First Congregational church last night. His text was from Acts x, 28: "He went about doing good." He said in part: "Jesus Christ was a philanthropist in the best sense of the word. His was the benevolence of life, flowing forth in love to all mankind. His life was love. His deeds illustrated, and he commended his creed. Men have been inclined to magnify the non-essentials of religious belief at the expense of the essentials of life, and churchianity has sometimes been confounded with Christianity. But the man outside knows the difference and is willing to substitute churchianity for Christianity. For the man who merely pretends to be a Christian, whether he is in the church or outside of it, we have little or no use."

FINEST ANIMAL.
Man Is Given Power to Make or Unmake Lives of Others.
"The Evolution of Man" was the subject of an interesting address by Rev. D. L. Rader, editor of the Pacific Christian Advocate, delivered before the Y. M. C. A. yesterday afternoon. The speaker said that it was the future that interested the man, the past was gone. The future could be made what it was desired if earnest and honest effort was put forth.

Man is the finest animal in the world, the speaker said. He contended that all the passions of the human hand had their place and worked for good provided they were put under rightful control and dominion. The animal never stops to ask which is right, but there is always some time in the life of man when he asks whether his course is right or wrong. The man who does what he wants to do without considering the rights of others is an anarchist, and his spirit

They had heard a great deal of the charming personality and graciousness of Miss Maconda, and wanted to entertain her while she was a guest in the city, so a few of the society ladies under the leadership of Lady Tupper gave a splendid reception Saturday afternoon to the famous prima donna and the affair was a brilliant success. Madame Maconda sings in Vancouver tonight, and her coming has aroused an interest never before displayed there over any singer. Maconda sings here on Thursday evening, and the seat sale for her

WELCOME NEW PASTOR.

Rev. C. N. Reeves Preaches His First Sermon at Piedmont.

Rev. C. N. Reeves preached his first sermon yesterday morning since coming to Piedmont Presbyterian church from Devil's Lake, North Dakota. He chose for his text, Matthew xxviii, 18-23. Rev. Mr. Reeves drew a practical lesson from his text showing that no man can live on his own strength alone. After the services yesterday, the new pastor received a hearty welcome at the hands of his congregation. He served four years at Devil's Lake and succeeds Rev. L. M. Boorer at Piedmont. Rev. Mr. Reeves is a graduate of Princeton college and seminary, graduating from the theological department in 1899 and from the theological department in 1902. His first pastorate was at Mount Pleasant, New Jersey.
