

Tired, Nervous Mothers

A nervous, irritable mother, often on the verge of hysterics, is unfit to care for children; it ruins a child's disposition and reacts upon herself. She is a source of misery to every one who comes under her influence, and unhappy and miserable herself. She cannot help it, as her condition is due to shattered nerves caused by some feminine derangement, with backache, headache, and all kinds of pain, and she is on the verge of nervous prostration. Proof is monumental that nothing is better to regulate a woman's health than Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Thousands and thousands of women testify to this fact.

Mrs. Nellie Makham, of 151 Morgan St., Buffalo, N.Y., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I was a wreck from nervous prostration. I suffered so I did not care what became of me, and my family despaired of my recovery. Physicians failed to help me. I was urged to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and I want to tell you that it has entirely cured me. I think it is the finest medicine on earth, and I am recommending it to all my friends and acquaintances."

Mrs. Geo. A. James, a life-long resident of Fredonia, N.Y., writes:

"Dear Mrs. Pinkham:—I was in a terribly run down condition and had nervous prostration caused by female trouble, in fact I had not been well since my children were born. This condition worked on my nerves, and I was irritable and miserable. I had tried many remedies without getting much help, but Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound brought me back to health and strength. It has also carried me safely through the Change of Life. I cannot too strongly recommend your medicine."

MRS. PINKHAM'S INVITATION TO WOMEN.

Women suffering from any form of female weakness are invited to communicate promptly with Mrs. Pinkham, at Lynn, Mass. From the symptoms given, the trouble may be located and the quickest and surest way of recovery advised. She will hold your letter in strict confidence as indicated by the fact that every private letter received by her during the last twenty years, and more, she now has in the Company's laboratory under lock and key, and no testimonial has ever been published without special written permission. Her advice is free and always helpful.

LYDIA E. PINKHAM'S VEGETABLE COMPOUND, a woman's remedy for woman's ills, made from Native Roots and Herbs, complies with all conditions of the new Pure Food and Drugs Law, and is so guaranteed.

English Periodicals Go Crazy Over Limerick Contests, but Treat Matter With Characteristic Sad Humor—Journal's Prize Offers Exciting Great Attention.

The limerick craze has struck London with a more vital stroke than any of the other cities, and it is estimated that over a million people are daily engaged in "limericking." Almost all the popular periodicals and newspapers have opened one contest after another for the concluding line for limericks they print. Thousands of dollars have been given out in prizes.

One of the amusing features of the contests is the seriousness with which the English editors of the various publications propound their poetic puzzles. One informs his readers that he has engaged E. C. Heath Hosken, the famous novelist, to act as judge with a staff of trained adjudicators "to assist and advise him in coming to a decision." He declares that only trained journalists are employed as judges, and that limerick coupons will be treated as strictly confidential, and after having been kept for a reasonable period will be destroyed in the Shoreditch Borough council dust destructor before authorized witnesses.

The Journal realizes equally well the seriousness of the situation. With all due courtesy and reverence for your ability it asks you to send your solution in with the rest that it may pass upon its merits. The line it wishes you to provide will fit into the blank space in the following:

There was a young man of Hillsdale,
Who looked most remarkably pale,
He went without dinner,
But go so much thinner

And the more musical that blank line is made, the more evenly it fits in and the more meaning there is crowded into the space, the better chance you stand for the first prize. The Journal is looking for just such a poet-musician to help it out of its difficulty.

That last line must be completed by Monday noon, November 4, because the Journal cannot hold its patience longer. If you send in the line that pleases the Journal better than any other, you will be given $10 for your pains. If you send in a line that ranges anywhere from second to sixth best you will get a prize ranging proportionately from $15 to $2. And if you send in one of the next best you will get $1 to show that your trouble is appreciated. For this is a momentous question, "The Journal" and it is willing to pay for its solution.

BRAVE WOMAN'S ACT SAVES MANY

Hospital Patient Breaks From Blazing Ward but Makes No Outcry.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—Presence of mind of a woman patient in the orthopedic hospital, Seventeenth and Summer streets, last night prevented a panic and probably serious damage to the institution when fire occurred in her room. There were many other patients in the building at the time.

The fire originated in a private room on the fourth floor of the Seventeenth street side, and was caused by a reflection on an electric light becoming overheated.

The occupant of the room was abed. Calmly pushing the bell for an attendant, she arose, dressed and quietly walked out into the larger ward without permitting any of the patients to learn of the danger.

Doctors and nurses soon put out the flames with a hand apparatus. Several persons on the street, seeing the reflection of flames through the window, rushed in to offer their assistance. This was the first intimation the other occupants of the hospital had of their possible danger. Physicians last night refused to tell the name of the cool sufferer.

FIRST TOWN TO PROTECT BABIES

Montclair Did It Indirectly but Effectively by Fighting Impure Milk.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Montclair, N. J., Oct. 22.—The most important forward move yet undertaken by any municipality in this country has been made by the board of health of this town in ordering the exclusion of all milk that comes from herds that are not proved free from tuberculosis.

This action is based upon the demonstrations of Dr. E. C. Schroeder and Dr. John V. Mosher of the bureau of animal industry of the federal department of agriculture. These experts have demonstrated the effectiveness of milk from tuberculous cows and the probability of all milk from untended herds containing the germs that convey consumption to men, women and children.

Acting upon these proofs of the common cause of tuberculosis, the federal government has urged the recommendation of the pasteurization of all milk from untended herds.

Six months ago the Montclair health board wanted a big company that has been bitterly opposing pasteurization, that if it wished to continue to sell its milk it would have to certify that the cows supplying the milk had been tested with tuberculin and proved free from the disease.

The certificates offered have been unsatisfactory, superficial examinations being relied upon in many cases instead of the infallible tuberculin test, and so Montclair has ordered the milk from these herds excluded from the town.

The authorities have taken the impracticable ground maintained for 15 years by Nathan Straus that no raw milk is safe unless the animals are proved free from tuberculosis, and has drawn the line against such milk in the defense of the health of the community.

The circular announcing this action says:

"The object is to contribute to the reduction of the high mortality from tuberculosis (consumption) which prevails in Montclair, as elsewhere, and which in our town caused 12.2 per cent. of all deaths during 1906. This disease is now generally accepted, may be communicated from cows to man through the milk of tuberculous cattle."

The action of the health board has been precipitated by the declared intention of the milk trust to fight both pasteurization and the enforced testing of cows with tuberculin.

The urgency of the peril of tuberculous milk was demonstrated last week by the discovery that there were thirty-two tuberculous cows in the model, certified herd kept by the city of New York on Randall's island to supply milk for the city's wards. This discovery led the city charities commissioner, Herbert, to substitute for the certified milk of this herd pasteurized milk, which has been used at all the other city institutions.

GRAND JURY INDICTS SILVERTON MARSHAL

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)

Silverton, Ore., Oct. 23.—The grand jury at Silverton has found a true bill against A. C. McMillen of this city, who was arrested some days ago charged

The evidence introduced in the case is said to have been somewhat damaging to Matlock's case, and an indictment may also be brought against him.

SNEAK THIEVES ARE PLYING THEIR TRADE WHILE BACKS ARE TURNED

Keep a lookout on your clothes and grips.

With the approach of winter an unusual number of thefts of articles of wear have been reported to the police. In many instances the perpetrators are not criminals but merely men not particularly fond of work and who resort to this method of providing themselves with clothes for the months when the wind blows cold and there is very little sunshine to keep their bodies warm.

Today we hatch out the finest brood of Suits, Hats, Shirts and Furnishings that has ever broken the shell in this city.

They are all "birds."

JIMMY MAN LANDS IN NET AT THE DALLIES

Believed by the sheriff's office to be the leader of a gang of store and box car thieves, Fred Ward, ex-convict, was placed behind the bars in the county jail yesterday. An information filed against him charges him with the larceny of saddles worth $300. The saddles had been shipped by the Breyton Leather company to Lewiston, Idaho, and were purloined from a box car.

Ward was arrested at The DALLIES by E. B. Woods, a special agent of the O. R. & N., who also holds a commission as deputy sheriff. Much credit is also due to Deputy Sheriff Leonard, who has been working on the case several days.

Ward is said to have served three years in the Salem penitentiary for safe cracking, another term of one year for a box car robbery, and still another of 15 years in the Stillwater, Minnesota, penitentiary. As he is 40 years old, almost half his life has been spent in prison.

Ward is said to be the leader of a gang that has been operating in the Bonneville section and is believed to be responsible for a safe cracking at Linn and robberies at Bonanza, Troutdale and Fairview. Ward weakened and gave information as to where several of the saddles may be found. Two of them have already been recovered. Further arrests are expected within the next few days.

REID ROAD SEEMS TO BE SHELVED

Astoria, Ore., Oct. 23.—The chamber of commerce committee on the Reid road right-of-way matter has reported. The report was placed on file without comment, as Mr. Reid had no representative present at the meeting.

The report places the chamber in the position that it drops the matter altogether and will have nothing more to do with it unless it comes up in a different shape.
