POLICE RECORDS SHOW CRIME IS RAMPANT HERE

Statistics Point to Flood of Bad Men Pouring Into Portland From Every Hand—Great Number of Arrests Have Sequel of Few Convictions.

If any further evidence were needed to substantiate the fact that Portland has been overwhelmed with an avalanche of crime and criminals during the past 31 days, the official report of Chief of Police Gritzmacher, as compiled by Thomas Jefferson Casey, head of the bureau of statistics, proves beyond a doubt that the municipality is at present overrun with an army of evildoers, unparalleled in the history of the city.

During the time beginning September 30, 1906, and ending yesterday crime in Portland has increased over 48 per cent. The official records of the police department show that in October a year ago 1,032 arrests were made for various offenses, while in the month just ended 1,532 persons were taken into custody, being the largest number of arrests made in any month since the inception of the department.

The explanations given by Chief Gritzmacher of the great increase in crime are the suspension of work on the north bank road and the annual winter influx of the hobo element.

Although 81 cases of larcenies were reported only 21 arrests were made on that charge and but two of these were of all important—the capture of Louis A. Cohen and E. B. Henderson, for the looting of the Frohman Trading company's establishment in the Portland hotel. The Pinkertons secured the evidence and located the alleged criminals.

The chief's report also shows that, while seven burglaries and 10 highway robberies were reported, not a single person was apprehended on these charges. Notwithstanding that eight unsuspecting shopkeepers were mulcted by means of fictitious checks, only one alleged "bad-check man" was landed in the toils.

For the first time since Gritzmacher has filled the position of chief, a murder mystery has been solved and an arrest made. It is true that on the occasion of a former homicide, towit, the slaying of Madge Doyle by Henry Rose, the murderer surrendered himself at headquarters and expiated his crime on the gallows.

Through the excellent work of Patrolman Dick Stuart, Joe Anderson, alias Perry Betts, accused of having slain Harry M. Logan, an engineer, on the Fourth street bridge Thursday morning, October 24, is now awaiting a preliminary examination in the police court, with the chances of hanging for the crime against him.

The story published in The Journal last night, in which Chief Simons of Ashland, Oregon, stated that over 100 hobos and yeggmen have been run out of the southern Oregon city daily during the past week, all of whom headed for Portland, is verified by the number of men arrested for vagrancy in October.

During the month 117 arrests were made on this charge, while in September but 21 idle and dissolute persons were apprehended, and in August 35.

That the Sunday closing of saloons has apparently not assisted in the cause of temperance is shown by the fact that 753 arrests were made for drunkenness as compared with 547 for September and 536 for August. Incidentally 16 liquor dealers were haled before Judge Cameron for failing to obey District Attorney Manning's edict.

Only one suicide came to the attention of the police in the past month, that of George W. Claxton, who ended his life at his home on the east side by cutting his throat with a razor and hanging himself with a clothesline.

With only a population of 50,000, Sacramento, California, owns and operates an automobile patrol wagon and ambulance, yet the rattle-trap, antiquated vehicle, drawn by two horses is still in service in this city. The dilapidated wagon responded to 600 calls during the month, the largest number on record. In September 445 runs were made and in August 498.

For assault and battery 30 persons were haled before Judge Cameron, after hours 30, disorderly conduct 45, disorderly by fighting 20, drunk and disorderly 27, night-walking 10, sturdy beggars 20, using profance language 15, jimjams 7, violating city ordinance 85, saloons open after hours 6, threatening to kill 5, minors smoking cigarettes 5, suspicious persons 5, refusing to move on 8, insane 8, gambling 95, abusive language 6, cruelty to animals 5, contempt of court 5, carrying concealed weapons 7.

The patrolmen suppressed 30 disturbances, assisted 21 injured persons, helped 25 intoxicated persons to their homes, summoned 125 witnesses, picked up 5 lost children and put up 5 stray teams.

In the municipal court $2,731 was collected from fines and forfeitures. The board of prisoners in the city prison was $260.28 and at Kelly Butte $214.08.

MAYS TAKES CASE TO HIGHER COURT

Former U. S. District Attorney Dismisses Motion in Circuit Court.

Instead of asking for a modification of his sentence of four months in jail and to pay a fine of $10,000 for conspiring to defraud the government out of timber land in the Blue mountain reserve, former United States District Attorney Franklin Pierce Mays dismissed his motion in the United States circuit court this morning and perfected his appeal to the United States circuit court of appeals. As a consequence of Mays' action Judge Charles C. Wolverton granted the order and raised Mays' bond from $8,000 to a supersedeas bond of $20,000.

The bond of Williard N. Jones, convicted together with Mays and George Sorenson and sentenced to serve eight months in jail and to pay a fine of $2,000, was raised at the same time by Judge Wolverton from $6,000 to $10,000 under the similar action.

This is a part of the famous Blue mountain reserve case in which Binger Hermann and others were indicted. It was the longest of any of the land-fraud cases tried in Portland. The case lasted 26 days and nights during last summer. Other cases are still pending, and particularly in the trial of Hermann, which Francis J. Heney is coming to Portland to prosecute.

When Jones and Mays were sentenced last spring, November 1 was set as the date to hear arguments for the modification of their sentences. Since then both have been out on bond. Mays, whose health is said to have been poor, has spent most of his time at his place in Tighe valley.

Separate appeals were taken in each of the cases heard this morning. United States District Attorney Bristol appeared as the government representative.

LEAVES TO ARGUE APPEAL IN FRISCO

United States District Attorney W. S. Bristol leaves tomorrow for San Francisco, where he will appear for the government to submit a brief and argue before the circuit court of appeals in the cases of Willard N. Jones and Thaddeus Potter, convicted on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the United States of timber lands. While at San Francisco it is expected Mr. Bristol and Francis J. Heney will decide as to the date of the resumption of the Oregon land fraud cases which include the trial of Binger Hermann.

WILDE, CUPID, CAUSES SOURNESS BECAUSE PICKLE HAD A BIG CAP

Ellsworth PicKel was in a pickle for a short time yesterday afternoon, all because of the way he spells his name. He lined up at the marriage license counter in the county clerk's office, and the trouble commenced as soon as Deputy Cupid Wilde started to write his name. That big K in the middle was responsible.

Mr. PicKel is proud of that K. It creates a hump in the middle of his name that might by the irreverent be compared to the hump on a camel's back, but Mr. PicKel insists that this is a heritage from his ancestors that must not be taken from him. The innocent-minded deputy Cupid was a moment dismayed by the frown on Mr. Pickel's face when he made a mistake in writing the name.

An erasure and another attempt brought better results, and Mr. PicKel departed with his license, entitling Martha W. Blanchard to spell her name, also, with a towering K.

WOMAN SAYS WOMEN DID IT

Suffrage Movement Must Be Free of Entangling Discussions.

"The men of the state are coming to know what the suffrage movement means," said Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway this morning. "Formerly they associated the movement with that of prohibition, but now they are learning that it means not force, but liberty. The failure of the campaign at the last election, in my belief, was due to the hurrah campaign which was instituted here by women imported from the east who affiliated themselves with the women of the W. C. T. U. This stirred up all the opposition that is usually found to any movement having prohibition as its object."

Equal suffragists of Oregon, headed by their venerable leader, Mrs. Abigail Scott Duniway, are growing more confident that their cause will be won in June next when the votes are counted at the polls. Their petitions to place the "constitutional amendment" granting suffrage to women of the state have been signed by some 8,000 of the voters of the state and sealed by notaries, and are now waiting for the pleasure of the campaign managers to file with the secretary of state. Out of an abundance of caution, however, the work of gathering signatures will not be abandoned until at least 2,000 additional signatures have been secured, verified and made ready to file with those names already prepared and in the possession of the officers of the Oregon State Equal Suffrage association. It is now planned to file the entire lot about the middle of December.

Thursday of next week the annual meeting of the association will be held at the home of the president, Mrs. Duniway. At this meeting it is expected that the leaders in the movement from all over the state will be present, and that the future plans and the details of the coming campaign will be mapped out and determined upon. At that time also three members of the executive committee will be elected to fill the vacancies caused by the death during the year past of Judge R. P. Boise of Salem, Judge John B. Waldo of Salem and Mrs. J. N. Dolph of Portland.

Mrs. Duniway, president of the association, is at the present time more confident of the success of the campaign than at any period of the long struggle for the adoption of the amendment.

"Following that campaign," said Mrs. Duniway, "the women of Oregon were told by the men of the state that if they wanted equal suffrage they could have it. The work of the past few months leads to the belief that they meant what they said.

"I am confident that the campaign we are now carrying on will result in the passage of the amendment, for the conditions of today make our demands just."

The movement has received the financial assistance of Senators Bourne and Fulton, and of John Barrett and other well-known men and politicians of the state.

DREDGE DIGS BASIN.

Portland & Seattle Railway Company Begins Work.

The dredge Columbia is digging a basin above the Portland & Seattle Railway company's bridge spanning the Willamette in accordance with the agreements of the charter granted by the Port of Portland commision. The basin is to be wide enough to permit of the largest steamers coming here to swing about with the tide if at anchor and to extend from the bridge to the lower end of Swan island.

It will take some time to complete this work, although the channel is quite wide there at this time. The material pumped from the river bed is dumped on the low lands of the railroad company, so that while the channel is being deepened the railroad company's property is also being improved. The railroad company pays for the use of the dredge.

The dredge Portland is at work digging a deeper channel at Hunter's on the lower Columbia.

ALONG THE WATERFRONT.

The steamer City of Panama, Captain Nelson, sails for San Francisco at 4 o'clock this afternoon from Ainsworth wharf. F. W. Ransome, who was appointed to take the place of J. J. Kelly, as dock and cargo superintendent, took charge of the work of the loading of the steamer at 12 o'clock last night and had her ready this afternoon to leave on schedule time. This is considered exceptionally quick work. Mr. Kelly resigned to engage in the lumber business.

The American bark Homeward Bound arrived up this afternoon with a cargo of coal from Newcastle, Australia, and went to the O. R. & N. dock to discharge, the cargo being consigned to the Southern Pacific. She will load wheat for Europe.

An apprentice boy belonging to the British ship Port Patrick fell from the Pacific Coast company's coal dock to the beach, 14 feet below, last night while going ashore. His left arm was broken. The dock is poorly guarded against such accidents.

A new armature for the dynamo was taken to the drydock this morning and soon the plant will be equipped with electric lights again.

The French bark Turgot left down this morning bound for Europe with a cargo of wheat and she will be followed this afternoon by the French bark Laennec which finished loading last night.

HER "BEST FRIEND."

A Woman Thus Speaks of Postum.

We usually consider our best friends those who treat us best.

Some persons think coffee a real friend, but watch it carefully awhile and observe that it is one of the meanest of all enemies, for it stabs one while professing friendship.

Coffee contains a poisonous drug—caffeine—which injures the delicate nervous system and frequently sets up disease in one or more organs of the body, if its use is persisted in.

"I had heart palpitation and nervousness for four years and the doctor told me the trouble was caused by coffee. He advised me to leave it off, but I thought I could not," writes a Wisconsin lady.

"On the advice of a friend I tried Postum Food Coffee and it so satisfied me I did not care for coffee after a few days' trial of Postum.

"As weeks went by and I continued to use Postum my weight increased from 98 to 118 pounds and the heart trouble left me. I have used it a year now and am stronger than I ever was. I can hustle up stairs without any heart palpitation, and I am cured of nervousness.

"My children are very fond of Postum and it agrees with them. My sister liked it when she drank it at my house, but not when she made it at her own home. Now that she has learned to make it right, boil it according to directions, she has become very fond of it. You may use my name if you wish as I am not ashamed of praising my best friend—Postum."
