ADDISON WROTE

"A statue lies hid in a block of marble; and the art of the sculptor only clears away the superfluous matter, and removes the rubbish.

Statues of "Opportunity," "Success" and "Good Fortune" lie concealed-and often scarcely concealed at all-in every page of Journal classified ads; and the art of the reader "clears away" those want ads that do not appeal to him and investigates and inquires nito those that do.

Hundreds of thousands of eyes are focused on Journal ads every day, making it possible to get results that would otherwise be improbable. It pays to be in the best.
