

NEWS FORECAST OF COMING WEEK

Presidential Race Claims Attention Since State Elections Are Over.

(Halted Press Leased Wire.) Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—Now that the state elections are over the presidential race takes on renewed interest, though it cannot be said that the results of last week's elections gave any indication as to how the wind blows in the race for the White House.

BURBANK'S LATEST IS THE SUNBERRY

Formed by Crossing a Poisonous Plant With Another Species Practically Inedible.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Stanford University, Cal., Nov. 9.—Luther Burbank, who is lecturing at the university this week, has shown two relatively new creations to his audience. One is the so-called "sunberry," formed by crossing two kinds of solanum, one of which is poisonous and the other eaten only by the jackrabbit.

HEYBURN WANTS COIN FOR WESTERN BANKS

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.) Washington, Nov. 8.—Senator Heyburn, of Idaho, called on the president today to request him to direct the treasury department to create no more money in New York banks until some more strenuous attempt is made there to pay back to western banks their reserves.

LINN FAIR ROUSED HIGHEST OPTIMISM

Prophets See Valley Transformed to Orchard Region and Products Shipped Beyond Seas.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Albany, Or., Nov. 9.—The Linn county apple fair has demonstrated that Linn county is to be reckoned a factor in the future in the production of good fruit, and will take its place as the center of the valley which can and will produce the finest red-checked apples in the state.

FATHER LOSES LIFE TRYING TO SAVE SON

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Astoria, Or., Nov. 9.—The bodies of Karl Liegfriedsen and his 6-year-old son George were found in the water near the North Pacific wharves yesterday. Both had been missing since Thursday and search had been made for them. It is supposed their drowning occurred through the boy's falling from the railroad trestle near the roundhouse and that his father jumped in after him and lost his life in attempting the rescue.

No One Need Freeze at Boise

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Boise, Idaho, Nov. 9.—The fuel situation in Boise has been substantially relieved and the indications are there will be plenty of coal and wood for the coming winter. In fact, there is plenty of fuel in this city at the present time. Local dealers say there will be no shortage, as the more of valley product growers there have a perfect climate for such varieties as the Yellow Newtown Pippin, Banana and the Red Fuji.

Fads and Fashions.

NEW YORK, Nov. 9.—Autumn fashions are now coming to the front and many of the new styles are exceedingly pretty. The tailored suits should be mentioned first, because they have such an important part in the fall wardrobe. Stripes are decidedly in favor for all tailor-mades and are seen particularly in broadcloth, which, by the way, is as popular as ever, for it is suitable for both dress and plain costumes.

Another Tiny Tot.

Unquestionably the smallest baby in Detroit, if not in the country, is 'Jackie' Smith, who when 12 hours old was eight inches tall, weighed one pound, and who is at present a resident of one of the improved baby 'hatcheries' under the watchful care of Nurse Mrs. Palmer, of the children's hospital.

Man and His Labors.

'Now, Will,' said Josephine, 'it's time you began to get ready.' 'Ready for what?' sighed William. 'Ready for what?' 'And he rolled his head against the back of his chair in a helpless sort of way that was only equalled by the degree of languor with which he batted his eyes.'

Cleaning Laces.

The lace and fan display which is soon to be held at the Art Museum will be a source of pleasure and instruction. It is quite likely, too, that it will remind some women of half-forgotten treasures of their own, stored in the attic, and with the seal of new interest and enthusiasm these will be brought out to confront the passer-by with the cleaning question.

right hand, his expression that of a man who is undergoing torture. "Cramped," he said, "I had 170 letters to sign this afternoon." "One hundred and seventy letters," she repeated in amazement, "and had her voice in lamentations again I will give you a few statistics concerning Josephine." "When she swept the room that morning she made 420 motions with her broom." "She walked in and out of the kitchen 270 times." "She made three apple pies and the apples she cut into 180 pieces." "She also made a cake and in mixing the batter she brought her spoon against the side of the bowl 760 times." "When she made the hash she brought the chopper down 1,260 times." "She washed one of her aprons, rubbing it up and down the board 180 times." "An ironed for an hour, pushing an eight-pound sad-iron backward and forward 2,150 times." "For a rest she did a little needle-work, her crochet needle going in and out 180 times." "One hundred and seventy letters to sign," she wailed; "170 letters to sign! Will you do your share, will you?" —New York Evening Sun.

Uses for Stale Bread and Cakes.

No matter how stale bread is, it need never be wasted. When needed in no other way, it can be thoroughly dried, put through the food-chopper, which reduces it to crumbs, and kept for finishing the tops of many baked dishes. The best bag I have ever seen in which to chop dry pieces until ready to be reduced to crumbs was oblong and closed at the top; at the upper corners were loops on which it was hung from the edge of a shelf close to the cook stove. The opening was a perpendicular slit from the top, faced and large enough to permit the insertion of the hand. As the bag hung flat, no dust could enter, and the warmth from the fire dried the bread quickly without danger of molding. When putting this very dry bread through the food-cutter, tie a paper bag over the end of the cutter, then the crumbs will not fly in all directions. Many separate line coats are especially good when browned separately in a little butter and sprinkled over several other names. Take stale slices of bread and trim to the same size. Make a raw custard in the proportion of one beaten egg and a pinch of salt to each half pint of milk. Spread the bread on a platter and pour over a part of the custard, basting with more until the bread is thoroughly soaked. Drain slightly, then quickly saute in a little butter in a hot pan. Serve plain or with cream. This is especially good under several other names. Take stale slices of bread and trim to the same size.
