You can't read a newspaper without noticing where somebody has been robbed of a large amount of money.

It may have been taken from under the carpet, from bureau drawers or under the floor, but the money is gone and no trace left.

Too often such robbery is accompanied by bloodshed and murder. The victim is killed to avoid exposure or tortured to disclose the hidden wealth.

The man who carries large amounts of cash or hides them around his premises places a premium on crime, and should not grumble if he is robbed.

We offer you a safe place to deposit your money, a place where it is insured against loss.

a. by We will supply you with a check book which enables you to draw your money at any time.

If a burglar steals your check book he can't draw your money and we will give you another check book.
