This evening at 8.30 o'clock a rousing convention will be leid in the Rand half. E. S. J. McAllister will speak, and the nominations of the Good Government leaving will be made. and the nominations of the Good Government league will be made. The committee in charge includes J. W. Grasle, a well-to-do farmer of Milwaukle, Hen Irwin, a young attorney, and Fred Burkemeyer, a prosperous farmer and taxpayer. The platform of the Good Government league is plain and to the point, and is backed openly by all members of the league. bers of the league.

Officials Connive With Criminals. Officials Connive With Criminals.

"For four years the mismanagement of Milwaukis has been in the hands of men who are willing to be assisted by lawbreakers and who are not inclined to build up the town on its own foundation," reads the platform. "They consider the gambling house a business proposition because it pays annually a revenue of $1,300.

"Do you think it pays to be burdened or four treasurer are to be elected."

Law-respecting citizens of Milwaukle, buy property here for a home? Every have sounded the death knell of the no-torious Milwaukie club. Determined Milwaukie has lost and is losing some that their pretty little town shall be rid of the contaminating influence of faro banks and other gambling devices which continue to thrive under the fostering inactivity of Sheriff Beattle and District Attorney Hedges—the latter's little of the elements that go to make up a good, ordinary community. the Good Government league will bend every effort to elect its candidates at the coming city election.

The homebuilders and taxpayers of the community are unalterably opposed to the maintenance of the resort, which has been allowed to run without interference from either the city administration or the county officials, notwithstanding the fact that at all times they have been cognizant of the flagrant violation of the law.

The Good Government league has been the Good Government league for any man, but the administration is very poor.

Mayor Proud of Law Violation. Mayor Shindler has been mayor of Milwaukie ever since the town was in corporated. Last August, when asked why he took no steps to close the Mil-waukle club, he said he thought the club did the town no harm, but on the contrary did it good.

"Every person and merchant here feels the beneficial influence of the club's presence," said Mr. Shindler in an interview with a Journal representain interview with a journal representa-tive. He said that five employes live in Milwaukie, have their homes there, and when there is work to do about the club Milwaukie people get it to do. Mr. Shindler mentioned at the time that he was a contractor and built the Milwau-kie club.

A signed petition was presented not long ago asking the officials to permit the club to continue operations in the city, but it is charged the signatures

Jackson this morning reported the detection of a thief whom he caught taking wood from a big pile near the road. The superintendent did not exercise his power of arrest, and let the man go with a warning.

A few nights ago Superintendent Jackson went down to the roadside at dusk to await the return of one of the poor farm inmates, whom he sustant in the superintendent of the poor farm inmates, whom he sustant into the wagon.

After he had thrown in enough wood to make a "cinch," Jackson demanded what he was doing. In apologetic tone the man replied that he was taking a stick of wood. Jackson informed him that the best thing he could do would be to put the wood back, drive on, and thank his lucky stars that he had missed being put in jail.
