INDIANS ADEPTS IN CONVERSATION

Redmen Not Only Outplayed but Outgabbed Men From Harvard.

Shades of Teumeh! What is this native American face coming to? Carlisle Indians have thrown off their natural reserve and have become such fluent conversationalists as to put an Indian maiden in the shade. They have done more, they have absorbed the "college spirit" of the Atlantic boys. They have learned chess and bridge and the game of cards. They have learned to play "Yankee Doodle," "There'll Be a Hot Time in 'Havawath," and a score of other sprightly tunes.

Formerly if a play was a success there was an attic grant from the redmen and if a failure a cedar-splinter. That was all during the entire game. Now it is different. They have a line of gaff that so nettled the Harvard players that their nerves were jarred out of place.

Every time the Indians had the ball Mount Pleasant sent a cedar-splinter. "Remember last Saturday." Then they would all let out a war whoop that made Josh Crane's pupils feel like emeralds.

The running fire along the Indian line was kept up continually. It was something like the "Havawath" winder it unsettled the Harvard men.

Captain Lubo—Who got that last man?

House—I did, captain.

Captain Lubo—Good. Who'll get this man?

Exendine—I will, captain. I'll get him.

After the play was finished the conversation began again.

Exendine—I got my man, captain.

Captain Lubo—Good, Gardner, you get this man.

Gardner—I'll get him, captain.

Another play was run off.

Captain Lubo—Did you get him, Gardner?

Gardner—I got him, captain.

Captain Lubo—I'll get this man.

House—I'll help you, captain; we'll get him, captain.

Is it any wonder that Harvard succumbed to a running conversation like that, especially in view of the fact that the Indians were playing good and were "gaffing" him, captain?

The "back up" and "cheer up, old boy" of Harvard were lost in this manner of conversation. There never has been anything like it in the history of recent football.

M'FARLAND-HERMAN MILL ON TONIGHT

Davenport, Iowa, Nov. 21.—In the pink of condition as a result of several weeks of faithful training, Packie McFarland and "Kid" Herman await the sound of the gong to call them into the arena of the "Frisco City Athletic club tonight. Keen interest is manifested in the bout, and the club expects a record-breaking crowd at the ringside.

The articles of agreement call for a 15-round contest, the fighters to weigh in at 135 pounds at 6 o'clock. A fast pace is looked for as the two are regarded as evenly matched. A victory over Herman will place McFarland sufficiently in the limelight to demand a match with Battling Nelson or George Memsie and in line for a go with Joe Gang who outclassed "Kid" Herman in their fight.

THE CRITICAL SITUATION, WHICH NEEDS NO WORDED EXPLANATION

PORTLAND WANTS COLLEGE GAMES

Manager Greenhaw Requests of State University an Annual Game Here.

There is every reason why the annual football game between the Oregon Agricultural college and the University of Oregon should be played in Portland. The reported announcement that General Manager Greenhaw of O. A. C. has asked the Eugene management to have the next game played in Portland meets with local approval. Coming as it does after a Corvallis victory and the fact that the next game would ordinarily take place at Corvallis, the proposition should have some weight. It is to be hoped that the state university faculty will consent to the change.

This year's contest is by far the biggest collegiate football game in the state and played on a neutral field it would be much more satisfactory to the supporters of both events.

Oregon Agricultural college's initiative and opinion expressed by prominent Oregon graduates tend to the belief that both events would be much greater. Portland is the best football town in the northwest and there are as many supporters of the Agricultural college here as there are of the state university. That Portland wants the game is reflected in local sentiment and it will do anything to draw the big contest to this section of the state.

SPORTING NOTES

Local and Otherwise.

Jack Blackburn and Harry Lewis are to have it out tonight before the National A. C. of Philadelphia.

The bout between Frankie Nell and Owen Moran is slated for decision in San Francisco tonight.

Soldier Burns and Kid Sullivan are to meet before the Eureka A. C. of Baltimore the latter of this month.

Jimmy Gardner is to meet the winner of the Chambers and Willie Fitzgerald bout in Philadelphia next Friday night.

"Klonake" the big colored fighter who once whipped Jack Johnson, is said to be doing well in a campaign on the coast.

As a drop-kicker, Harlan of Princeton, seems to have it on about all the punters in the country.

Something like $90,000 will be Carlisle's share of the receipts from the games with Pennsylvania, Princeton, Harvard, Minnesota and Chicago.

The result of the coming Army-Navy game cannot be forecast with any degree of certainty, though the Army team appears to have a shade the better of it so far.

There is little to choose from among the four Maine college eleven's this year. Bates, Bowdoin, Colby and the University of Maine are all evenly matched.

Louis Castro, Atlanta's great infielder, is to retire from baseball and enter the mercantile business in Chicago, a well known in Portland, having played here several years ago.

Bob Englaub is slated to be traded by the Boston Red Sox to the Chicago Cubs for a pitcher of the same name. Manager McGuire is out for harmony if the team never wins another game.

Manager Murray of the Philadelphia Nationals recently signed John Gibson, the League Island navy yard wonder who makes 15 pitches a second for the Quakers for the coming season.

Clark Griffith, leader of the Highlanders, was in Chicago recently trying to get the Cubs to trade Jake Ruppel to even look at the fountain pen.

President Norris O'Neil of the Western league says the National commission is to propose the major leagues against the minors in most of their rulings.

President Murphy of the Chicago Cubs has been spending a vacation at his old home in Wilmington, Ohio.

It is not much wonder the Yale team has been successful this season with 16 former Yale players returning to help coach the squad. The enthusiasm aroused by the former stars shows in the team's playing.

The seven new football songs at Harvard are entitled "Cambridge Town," "Smash the Line," "Spirit of Harvard," "No Hope for Yale," "Harvard Love Song," "Victory Song," and "We're Harvard Men."

Chicago baseball fans firmly believe Eddie Jones will manage the White Sox again next season instead of White.

WEST SIDE HIGH WINS ON COLUMBIA'S GAME

Collegians Score Touchdown on Portland Academy and Take Contest.

COLUMBIA 6, PORTLAND ACADEMY 0

Portland academy's pennant aspirations went glimmering yesterday when Columbia university defeated them by the score of 6 to 0. This victory of the collegians gives the West Side High school the undisputed championship of the interscholastic league.

Columbia outplayed her opponents in almost every department of the game. Hurlburt had a trifle the best of the argument in kicking, but in every other feature Columbia excelled. Columbia's touchdown was made on a pretty run of 40 yards by Walker after he had recovered a fumbled punt.

Pomeroy and Walker were the stars of the game with Ennis and O'Brien as close seconds. Both Pomeroy and Walker were good for substantial gains whenever they were called upon to carry the ball. Ennis directed his team beautifully and handed punts to advantage.

O'Brien foisted all attempts to gain around his end. Hurlburt, Harding and Norris were Portland academy's best players.

ARCADIA TRACK MAY NOT BE COMPLETED

(United Press Leased Wire.)

Los Angeles, Nov. 21.—The Arcadia racetrack promoters are beginning to worry a little over the prospects that the grandstand will not be finished in time for opening day next week. There are but eight more working days before the opening, including Sunday, and it is not likely that the vast amount of work can be finished in that time. Shipments of horses continue to arrive daily. W. S. (Kansas) Price was the latest arrival yesterday.
