

LITTLE JOHNNY AND THE TEDDY BEARS

Oregon

Journal

SECOND SECTION

VERSES BY
ROBERT D. TOWNE
EDITOR OF JUDGE

PORTLAND, OREGON, SATURDAY EVENING, NOVEMBER 23, 1907

1. A dandy cop against a tree
A-snoring is a sight to see.
No wonder John and Teds are quick
To see a chance to play a trick!

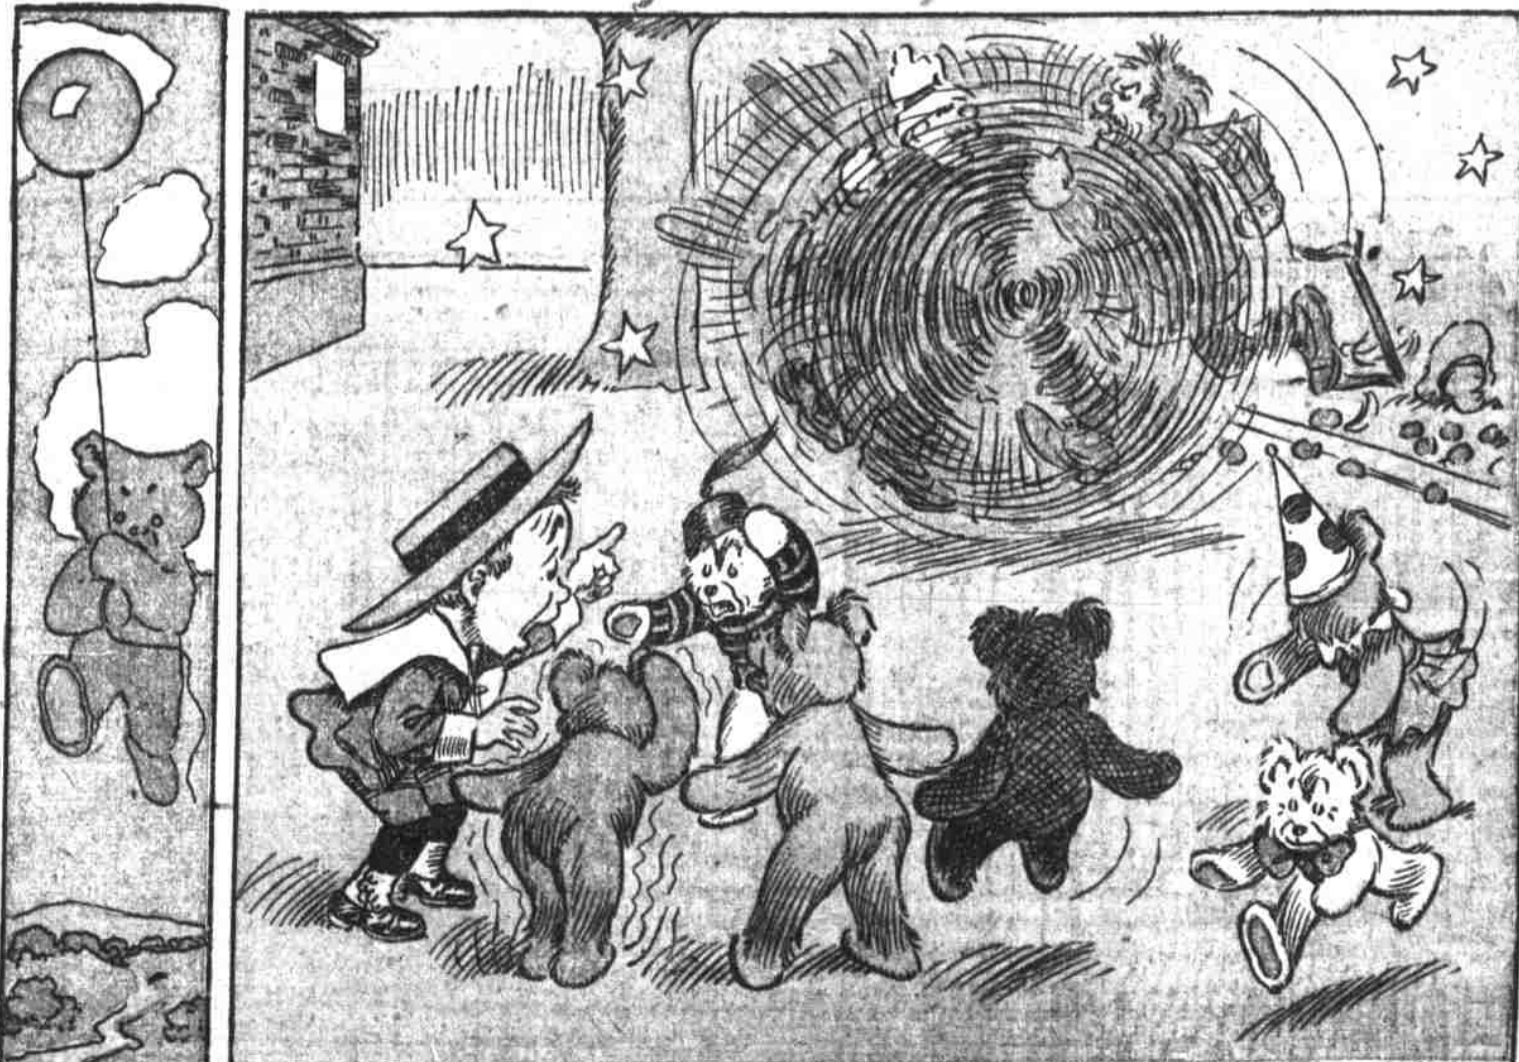

2. Sir Cop awakens with a start.
He does not see the "banan" cart,
Nor dream of trouble to ensue
When the "banan" man wakes up, too.

3. Sir Cop first rushes toward the Teds,
Intending straight to break their heads.
But soon he finds that with his feet
He's pulling push-carts through the street.

4. The push-cart man is mad, you bet!
And blames the cop for the upset.
The cop, of course, thinks he knows now
Just who's to blame for all the row.

5. Thus, while the Teds and John stand by,
Sir Cop and Sir Italian try
To figure out just who is who,
And John and Teds enjoy the view.

6. And now it dawns on both at once
That each has acted like a dunce.
Just at this juncture Johnny feels
It's time the Teds took to their heels.