

AT THE GRAVE OF WHITMAN

Hundreds Devoutly Pay Homage to the Patriot and Martyr.

THREE STATES UNITE TO DO REVERENCE

Governor Mead Extols the Great Missionary and His Companions—Oldest Native Son of Washington Pays Peculiar Tribute.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Whitman College, Walla Walla, Wash., Nov. 30.—Extremely impressive exercises were held yesterday in commemoration of the sixtieth anniversary of the Whitman massacre. Hundreds of people gathered to do honor to the memory of the martyr missionary and his wife and twelve associates, who were murdered by the Cayuse Indians sixty years ago at Waiilatpu, the old Whitman mission station, six miles west of Walla Walla.

It was there that the principal exercises of the day were held. A special train took out about 700 people from the city, and hundreds more drove out. The war department had ordered the troops to participate in the ceremonies. Two squadrons of the Fourteenth Cavalry met the train, and the procession was formed to march the half mile to the grave in the following order: Fourteenth Cavalry, Fourteenth Cavalry band, speakers of the day and distinguished visitors, survivors of the massacre, old pioneers, trustees and faculty of Whitman college, citizens of Walla Walla and students of Whitman college.

The Heroes Enslaved.
Arriving at the grave, a dirge was played by the band, the grave was decorated with flowers, prayer was offered by Rev. J. E. Walker, of China, and "Taps" was sounded by a bugler. Reforming, the procession marched up the hill on which the Whitman monument stands, where the speeches of the day were delivered. Representing Governor Gooding of Idaho, John Bailey, one of the oldest pioneers of that state, and a former delegate in congress, spoke. Pendleton, who has represented Governor Chamberlain of Oregon, who was unable to be present, but, unfortunately, was prevented from attending. Governor Albert E. Mead, of Washington, gave the concluding address, extolling the work of Whitman and the part played by the early missionaries in the development of the northwest, and expressing the appreciation of the people of Washington of their services. Patriotic music was furnished by the cavalry band at intervals.

This was by far the largest crowd that has ever gathered at the old mission station to do honor to the memory of Marcus Whitman, even exceeding the large crowd which participated in the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary in 1891 in connection with the erection of the monument.

MERRITT SEES NO ONE RACE BUT HUGHES

New York Assemblyman Believes Governor of State Will Be President.

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
New York, Nov. 30.—"By the time the Republican national convention comes around Charles E. Hughes will be the only man in sight for the nomination for president," said Assemblyman Edwin A. Merritt Jr., of St. Lawrence.

This was the most important declaration on the question of the presidential nomination that has yet come from an up-state Republican leader. Mr. Merritt is one of the big men in the legislature. He was formerly a member of the Odeil faction, and was Odeil's candidate for speaker two years ago. He is at present a candidate for the leadership of the Republican majority on the floor of the assembly, and is reported to be the Hughes spokesman in the house.

Mr. Merritt was seen at the Murray Hill hotel.

Governor Hughes will be the next Republican nominee for president, he said. "The Republicans in my section of the state are all for him. I am also convinced that Republicans throughout New York state generally are for him."

Governor Hughes is also strong in other states.

Do you think the Roosevelt people will be for Hughes in the end, and everybody else will be for him. It will be another Saratoga convention all over again.

ARCHIBALD DEFIES POWER OF THE LAW

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Roseburg, Or., Nov. 30.—Jud Green, aged 24, accused of complicity in the burglary of a number of cabins in the West Fork mining district and arrested here, a fugitive, several days ago at the request of Walter Critser, of West Fork, has made a statement seriously implicating his partner W. J. Archibald. The men had been prospecting in partnership in Curry county near West Fork. Several cabins in that locality were burglarized and suspicion was directed toward them. A search of their camp, it was said, revealed provisions, cooking utensils and tools, which had been stolen from Walter Critser's house. Critser delivered Archibald to the justice of the peace at Agness, Curry county, who in turn committed the prisoner to the custody of the sheriff at Gold Beach. Green fled to Roseburg, and was arrested here. Archibald is again at liberty, the sheriff of Curry county having released him because the commitment from the justice of the peace had not fixed the amount of bail. Archibald is reported to have resumed prospecting near West Fork and to have threatened to kill any man sent to arrest him.

Critser claims to have evidence that Archibald is a bad man, having killed a man in North Dakota and later was an inmate of an asylum in Montana, and that he carried the alias of "Rattlesnake Jim" in Dakota and W. J. Haskins in Montana.

Green in his statement acknowledged the theft from Critser's house but says Archibald committed it single-handed. He will be detained pending the arrest of Archibald, for whom a diligent search is being made.

Notice.
Property owners and lease holding tenants in the Fourth ward are hereby requested to meet at the Alisky hall, Saturday evening, November 30, at 8 o'clock, to protest against the location of the crematory site on the block bounded by Front, Taylor, Salmon streets and the river. We feel that the proposal to locate it there is an outrage; that if the people in Gold's lake and Sullivan street can successfully oppose it, that this ward, the heaviest taxpayer ward in the city, should successfully resist the attempt of some of the parties of the council to locate it on Front and Taylor streets. Every hotelkeeper, every property owner, every merchant, every business man should remember what the terrible stench from the garbage and soil wagons would create, passing their doors to such a close proximity. Come out and help us defeat this location. Be sure and attend the meeting at the large hall in the Alisky building, Third and Morrison street, Saturday evening at 8 o'clock.

KIMMONS IS FOUND BY THE AUTHORITIES

(United Press Special Wire.)
Oakland, Cal., Nov. 30.—M. A. Wilkins, who is being held on a charge of having murdered and then buried the woman who was known in the community in which they lived as his wife, and who was also suspected of having made way with a young woman, was found by the authorities in a rooming house in the city.

Kimmons was found in a rooming house in the city. The man who was a frequent visitor at the Wilkins home up to the time of the murder was found in a rooming house in the city. The Realm

Fads and Fashions.
NEW YORK.—Fashions are not meant to stay with us any great length of time. Dressmakers and milliners create beautiful gowns and hats all on one color scheme, and when nearly every woman is satisfied with this fashion there comes an abrupt change. It has recently been announced from Paris, that costumes and hats are no longer to match in color, and another thing is announced, that the large hat has had its day.

Street hats of the very latest style are very small indeed. However, it is not probable that women in general will adopt this fashion for many months, perhaps not until summer. On the most stylish hats, the underbrims are of another color, and then the trimmings are of still other colors or shades. The black satin hats that are so pretty have become so common that not many will wear them, at least in the large cities. They are jaunty things, light in weight and can be trimmed to match or harmonize with the gown.

Boas for the neck are worn more this winter than they have been for some time. White marabou boas with muffs to match are worn with evening costumes. The shaded brown feather boas made very wide are most effective, and they give a certain dressy air to a costume. Even in these marabou scarfs, all colors can be found, from the delicate shades to the dark rich tones. The very prettiest and most striking effects are obtained by the combination of ostrich tips and marabou, the ostrich feathers being either a lighter or darker tint than the marabou.

It looks as though fur coats would be worn quite commonly this winter. They were made in all styles and of a great many kinds of fur. Braiding and velvet are used as trimmings, and some coats show touches of lace. The muffs are immense this season, and are elaborately trimmed with lace, which is wired to keep it in shape. A few days ago, I saw a beautiful white ermine muff which was trimmed with lace and ends, and through the lace could be seen a touch of silver colored chiffon. It had to be carried rather carefully.

New wrist bags and evening bags are seen among the latest goods in the large stores. One evening bag was made of watered silk, embroidered in spangles and pale shades, lined with silk and finished with a row of lace. Plain bags are made of handsome materials and trimmed with gold cord. A bag of black velvet was shown with a dull red fringe above the collar, and a bag of oiled and was embroidered in dull gold spangles and flowers in gold thread. A pretty wrist bag was of shiny black leather, having a frame set at intervals with red stones.

The choosing of veils is quite as important as the choosing of hats. They are worn by nearly every well-dressed woman, but we often see a veil that is decidedly unbecoming. The most successful way of wearing fine veils is close to the face, and the back of the head with the ends tucked away and pinned in place, and then caught in with the hair. The most common mistake is to wear colored veils as the poorest choice one could make. They not only spoil the complexion for those who can see it, but they are really too conspicuous.

Black is a safe color for nearly every one. A new veil which is novel and pretty is of black fillet net, with black chenille pin dots arranged in a diamond in quarter-inch squares. The border, which was about two and a half inches wide, was a Greek key design outlined in chenille pin dots.

A striking long Empire coat was seen on a fashionably dressed woman. The skirt was much shorter. The high Empire belt and revers were of self-toned velvet, and the waistcoat was a dull red and black striped velvet. The buttons were black velvet. The hat part of this coat was the sleeves. They were made from shaped bands going around the arms and stitched together. The hat that was worn with this coat was a dull green felt, faced with American beauty velvet and trimmed with heavy plumes to match.

For the Sunday Night Supper.
Try a fondue, for which the materials may be prepared beforehand. The ingredients required are remnants of cold chicken, veal or turkey, minced fine, one slice of cold boiled ham also minced, one cup of dry bread crumbs, 1 cup boiling milk, 1 tablespoonful butter, half an onion boiled in milk, pepper and salt to taste.

Prepare as follows: Soak the bread crumbs in the boiling milk, stir in the butter and beat until light. Let this mixture cool and when cold stir in the minced meat. When ready to use beat the eggs and pour into the mixture, then pour all into well greased baking dish. Set in a brisk oven. When the fondue is a light delicate browned puff send it once to the table in the dish in which it was baked.

In the Capable Woman's Home.
"If every woman would have everything ready, as one of my customers does, when I arrive, my troubles would be lessened and their own dressmaking bills would be curtailed," said a home dressmaker this week. "When I step into the sewing room on the first morning of my engagement with this woman I find all the materials, linings and trimmings, with such small accessories as thread and sewing silk and button-hole twist of the colors that I shall need, and hooks and eyes, and buttons, all in their places on the sewing table. Nothing ever has to be sent out for, and there is little to waste time in discussion over. All plans are pretty well laid and all ripping and pressing is done. A certain scrapbook always lies on the sewing table and I always find it interesting. In it are pinned pictures of waists and gowns that have been cut from fashion papers as suitable for the garments to be made. If there has been a doubt about trimmings or materials and my opinion is wanted before buying samples of possible ones they are also pinned in the book. To be sure, there is the whole story of the book. Knowing pretty well what work will be wanted I often will have brought with me designs for garments that are likely better than those shown in the scrapbook. In such cases no harm is done by showing the others ready, and the mere act of looking for them has brought the woman's mind to bear on the subject."

Charcoal Stops Gas On Your Stomach

Wonderful Absorbing Power of Charcoal When Taken in the Form of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges.

Trial Package Sent Free.

Charcoal, pure, simple charcoal, absorbs 100 times its own volume of gas. Where does the gas go to? It is just absorbed by the charcoal—the gas disappears and there is left a pure, fresh, sweet atmosphere, free from all impurities and germs.

That's what happens in your stomach when you take one of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, the most powerful purifiers science has yet discovered. You belch gas in company, sometimes by accident, and to your own humiliation. That is because there is a great amount of gas being formed in your stomach by fermenting food. Your stomach is not digesting your food properly. Gas is inevitable. Whenever this happens, just take one or two of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges, and then if there is any gas going to be formed, one of these wonderful little absorbers, a Stuart's Charcoal Lozenge, will take care of all the gas.

And it will do more than that. Every particle of impurity in your stomach will make your system sweet and make you feel better all over for it. You can eat all the onions and odorous foods you want, and no one can tell the difference. Besides, charcoal is the best laxative known. You can take a whole boxful and no harm will result. It is a wonderfully easy regulator.

Send us your name and address today and we will at once send you by mail a trial package of Stuart's Charcoal Lozenges. 200 Stuart building, Marshall, Mich.

So that she does not have to stop to think about the pros and cons. "As may be surmised, the woman is a social creature, and she has many outside church, society and club interests. The great secret of her capacity for getting through about twice as much work as the ordinary woman is the order and method with which she meets each day's work. She says, but it is hardly to be believed, that she was a disorderly girl and the terror of her mother, but that the cares of a family and the desire to do a good many things well, led her to order and method in the end. Some persons have criticized her for running her house on 'institution' methods—meals on the minute and the family expected to be prompt; washing done, hall or front on Monday; ironing on Tuesday, and so forth. But she says, 'I am sure, but there are fewer exigencies and anxieties in that family than in any that I ever knew.'"

Looking Beyond.
It was Thomas Carlyle who said, "There is a perennial nobleness, and even sacredness, in work; were he never so benighted, forgetful of his high calling, there is always hope in a man that actually and earnestly works; in idleness alone there is perpetual despair. Work, never so mean, is in communication with nature; too real desire to get work done will itself lead one more and more to truth, to nature's appointments and regulations, which are truth."

Remedy for Seasickness.
They say in London that a new remedy has been discovered for seasickness. An old sailor has proved that a pocket looking-glass is an infallible cure.

The looking-glass cure must be taken immediately the sufferer steps on board ship. The prescription directs the patient, when the first indescribable feeling comes on, to take out the pocket looking-glass and look himself fair and square in the eyes.

The result is alleged to be that the rolling of the ship and even the smell of the engines will pass unnoticed, and a little perseverance will transform a bed sailor into a good one.

"It is a very curious fact and one for which it is difficult to account," said a noted city physician recently, that a casual glance in a looking-glass may arrest seasickness. It may be that the woe-begone countenance is responsible for introducing a vein of humor, and the sufferer resolves to 'cheer up.' Personally I think there is a more scientific reason. It is well known among sailors that the rise and fall of the horizon is responsible for the early stages of this distressing malady. Physicians in consequence often recommend their patients to try to fix their eyes on some immovable object, such as a ring on their finger or a book held firmly on the knee. The looking-glass is probably the same kind of antidote to the movement of the ship.

"It would be necessary, of course, to hold the glass firmly and fix the gaze steadily on the reflected image. The looking-glass remedy may be something in the nature of a faith cure. If the attention can be absolutely concentrated on the image in the glass, and all thought of illness banished there is an excellent chance that the voyage will have no bad effects."

"With regard to the length of time required for the cure, it is a general fact that if seasickness can be successfully resisted for several hours the symptoms are not likely to recur, except in cases where no remedy will relieve the unfortunate sufferer, and sea and brain sickness are interchangeable terms."

Helpful Hints.
After wearing a shirt, first of all give it a thorough brushing, then, holding it securely by the band, vigorously shake it. This treatment will remove dust and the garments will last much longer than if dust and dirt are allowed to work into the cloth. A muddy skirt should never be brushed while damp, but on the other hand it should not be put away dirty; as soon as the mud is dry it should be carefully brushed off with a good hard clothes brush.

To clean a white kid belt, get some gasoline and commence operations by putting a table out of doors in the shade. Have some clean rags and a thick white cloth to cover the table. Put some gasoline in a basin, and into it put the belt; let this soak for a few minutes, then rub it and rinse it in gasoline. Put the belt on the cloth and with pieces of rag rub off the dirt, always working in one direction, and constantly changing the surface of the rag. Rinse again in clean gasoline, and with fresh rags, rub again till the surface is perfectly clean. Hang the belt in the air to dry, and your belt will look perfectly clean and an ounce of spirits of rosemary, mixed together thoroughly and apply to the belt.

To make the neck firm, bathe it every night and morning in very cold water. To excite the circulation, stitch neatly around the neck and work closely in rows to center until completely filled in. This will give desired breadth to the neck.

When one has to wash the hands often it is advisable to use a soap containing a generous proportion of vegetable glycerine and rubbing alcohol and drying the hands well.

Diamonds, sapphires, emeralds and rubies when worn in the face should be washed periodically in a little salt and water. Afterward polish with chamois leather.

TRIBUTE TO FIFTEEN ABSENT BRETHREN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Roseburg, Or., Nov. 30.—The annual Elks' memorial services at this place will be held at 2:30 p. m. tomorrow at the Elks' temple. The services will be for members only. The eulogies will be delivered by Rev. E. H. Hicks and Binger Hermann. The services will be eulogistic of 15 members who have died since the lodge was organized here in 1896. A number of these were among the 40 charter members, and several were of great prominence in the community and state.

One name has been added to the memorial list since the services a year ago, that of Fred Page Tuston, who was the first exalted ruler of the local lodge and its first delegate to the grand lodge of the United States.

The following are the deceased brethren in whose memory the 225 members of Roseburg lodge No. 325 will hold services. Ad. Harmon, J. W. Frazee, C. Y. Benjamin, A. W. Reed, James A. (Cable), J. P. Davis, Asher Marks, I. Caro, Edward A. West, W. J. Buchanan, W. C. Hildebrand, William Faber, J. J. Guth, G. R. Linser, Fred Page Tuston.

DREAMS HE SEES HIS SON STABBED BY MEN

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Rome, Nov. 30.—A remarkable case of mental telepathy is reported from California. A man named Braccala dreamed that he saw his son stabbed by two men. In fact, the son was stabbed by two men, and told her what he had seen. While they were discussing the matter a knock came at the door, and hast-

A Mother Testifies

This is to certify that my daughter was down for almost one year with a cold. The doctors finally pronounced it consumption. We had given up hope for her recovery. I was given a sample bottle of Foley's Honey and Tar. I gave it all to her in about three hours. It stopped the cough, and gave her rest. I sent next day and bought a 50c bottle and began giving it. In three months' time she was well. There can not be too much said in favor of Foley's Honey and Tar. It saved my child's life.
