NO NEED FOR SPECIAL SESSION AT PRESENT

Representative Oregon Business Men Discuss Situation In Meeting at Portland Commercial Club — Confidence Expressed in Financial Soundness of State.

Without a dissenting voice, Oregon business men's representatives, at a meeting at the Portland Commercial club last evening, voted that no special session of the legislature should be session of the legislature should be called at this time, and that the holiday law so that in time of the state could protect financial and business interests without tying up the regular functions of the coults.

A speech by H. Wittenberg, in which he made disparaging allusions to some classes of merchants, was resented by S. M. Garland of Lebanon, who answered Mr. Wittenberg's aspersions and denounced his speech as uncalled for. This was the sense of the meeting that, should this period extend beyond 30 days from the present date the governor should call an extra session for the purpose of amending the holiday law and the attachment law.

The meeting was called to order by C. W. Hodson of the Portland. The purpose of the conference was to determine whether the governor should be requested immediately to call the legislature in special session so to amend the holiday and attachment laws that courts could regularly proceed with their business during banking holidays, but that an attachment could not be levied in advance of judgment excepting in cases of alleged fraud or attempted removal of property from the state.

CONTRACT FORFEITED

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Santiago, Chile, Dec. 2.—The government has forfeited the contract, held by an American company, for constructing the Andlan railroad from the port of Arica to La Paz, the capital of Bolivia, which was cut off from the Pacific coast by the war of 1873, and has undertaken to build the line on its own account. The contractors appear to have secured the concession solely for the purpose of selling out at a profit, and not with any intention of construction.

R. Robinson of the Oregon Cheese company is especially proud of the fact that he had on sale at his store the largest turkey in the city. This turkey was four pounds heavier than the president's turkey, which weighed 28 pounds and there was considerable rivalry among several of his customers to become its purchaser. Mr. Robinson finally decided to raffle off the bird.

FEDERAL POWER AS AGAINST THE STATE

(United Press Lessed Wire.) Washington, D. C., Dec. 2,-No case of more momentous importance has come before the United States supreme ourt in a long time than the so-called 'Minnesota contempt" test case, which ame up for hearing today. The case involves the question of federal and state conflict over railroad regulation that in the recent past has caused sensational clashes of judicial authority, notably in some of the Southern states. The question directly involved is as to whether the United States circuit court exercised its jurisdiction when it held Attorney-General Young of Minnesota in contempt for violating its injunction against enforcing the state law regulating commodity rates, imposed a regulating commodity rates, imposed a fine of $100 and ordered the attorney-general into the custody of the United States marshal until the state suits he had begun were dismissed -
