TODAY'S MARKETS

Prices Down Owing to Much . Larger, Arrivals — May Go Lower on Street.

Produce market features: Egg market is lower. Egg market is lower.
Concessions in chickens.
Turkeys still very scarce.
Creamcry butter generally up.
Dressed meats in firm request.
Onion trade is quite good.
No demand for seed pointoes.
Salmon comes from the north.
Water too high for smelt.

Egg Market Is Lower.

Lower prices are ruling in the egg market at this time, thus confirming the exclusive predictions made by this paper. For some time it has been seen that egg values were boosted too high ind for's boosted market there is always he same result—lower values. Gener-lly speaking, the reaction from a coated market is very severe and this may be the case in eggs. At this time eggs are selling at 35@37%c, with few sales at the latter figure. In fact re-reipts are beginning to show such an increase that some dealers are talking of $2%c before long. Careful figuring shows that the arrivals of eggs during the rast 10 days were fully double ing the past 10 days were fully double what they were in the preceeding period. The increase has been a gradual one and arrivals are now so good that there is absolutely no scarcity of local stock. This is resulting in a still weaker feeling in eastern eggs and lower prices will likely result here. However, there has always been to great a range between local and eastern eggs of the same cuality and it may be that the range will be narrowed on this movement.

Creamery Butter Is Advanced. As has been predicted in this report during the past week there was an vance of 25c a pound in the pilce eamery butter by city manufacturers this morning. The advance follows the manner made by the Damascus natitution last Saturday, the price being placed at 37½c for the best product. today's advance M. Morstensen of the Hazelwood says: "At this time there is a very heavy demand for best treamery butter and as supplies were small advanced prices were toutcome. While there is a grefor first-class butter at this time. wen at the high prices now in effect, here is much less demand for the cold age product. I take this to mean people have plenty of money." Outside creameries have not yet fol-lowed the advance made by the city institutions but will likely do so either this afternoon or tomorrow morning because of the great demand and short Concessions in Chicken Market. Because of the very heavy receipts uring the past five days, some comssion men made a slight concession in chicken values this morning but the general market besides being dult and a trifle weak, was unchanged in price There is a fractional increase in the supplies of turkeys with demand very few small shipments of fall sal-n are reported in from the sound sountry. Stocks are in fair shape and sell at 10c a pound, while the few local fresh fish find an instant call at 11c. On account of the higher water in the Cowlitz there were no smelt receipts in this market today, fishing operations being entirely suspended. Dressed meats are still in very good demand along Front street, even though supplies are fair. Former prices still the rule.

Stock Market Strong and Weak by Turns at the Start of the Session.

(Wire of Downing-Hopkins Co.) New York, Dec. 13 -The early tradng in stocks was irregular, strong and veak by turns, influenced by profesweak by turns, influenced by professional buying on one hand, extensive profit taking and distributive selling elsewhere. The market absorbed these offerings very well, until just before 2 p. m., prices turned heavy and declined a point or more in the active issues. The news developments were of a mixed character, and were not of much significance one way or the other. The gradual picking up of all gilt-edged issues is still very much in evidence, and all commission houses report that the buyers are those who will not let go at the present level of prices. wanted in the southern metropolis to answer to a charge of forgery.

Rogers was arrested in Wallace, Idaho, and it was due to the investigations made here by Detectives Price and Coleman that the San Francisco authorities were enabled to find the man. After ascertaining that Rogers had once lived in this city the San Francisco police asked the local department to assist in locating him. Detectives Price and Coleman were detailed on the case and after a time were enable to report that Rogers was probably living under an assumed name in Wallace. His arrest followed in due time.

Advance of $1 Quoted in the North - Great Scarcity With Small Grind.

The local wheat situation is quiet at the moment with exporters buying sparingly and millers practically out of the market. There is but little doing in flour either locally or for the orient. Milifeeds are firmer on account the small grinding of wheat for flour. The Puget sound markets report an advance of $1 a ton because of the small supplies and the local market is firmer aupplies and the local market is firmer though unchanged at the moment.

Editor Leo Peterson of the Portland Commercial Review, today reviews the wheat and flour situations as follows:

"There is very little change in the local situation. Exporters are willing to buy wheat at prevailing quotations, but sellers are not over-anxious to dispose of their holdings at prices of fered, and prefer to keep their wheat in country warehouses until prices advance. Buyers are not very anxious to increase their limits, having plenty of increase their limits, having plenty of wheat bought for all chartered tennage, and vessels on spot are receiving prompt dispatch. As soon as they are ready to and vessels on spot are receiving fromitions dispatch. As soon as they are ready to load, wheat is put into them, which enables them to get to sea without any unnecessary delay. The trade can hardly be described as buoyant; but there is every indication that confidence has largely been restored, and although a certain feeling of nervousness is still observable in consequence of the delicate financial situation, we can note a vastly improved trade, and a further enhancement of values. From an extremely high point wheat has had a severe slump, but the loss has not yet brought the price to a place where it looks rheap. How far the monetary difficulties can go in forcing prices is too perplexing a problem to be answered offhand. That it can overcome a strong supply and demand situation to the extent of further marked depression appeals to many. of further marked depression ap-tent of further marked depression appeals to many.

Bearishness can find no other factor than that of the handleapped commercial interests, and it has played it against conditions which ordinarily would cost them prestige. The fact that prices were high, that speculation was overweighted on the long side gave the short seller who sold the market a splendid advantage when the crisis came. The logic of the situation is builtsh. The heavy supplies so conspicuous have ceased to be a bearish argument. Stocks at the present time are decreasing, compared with the heavy increases at this time last year. It still augurs close figuring on the part of the deficient nations to maintain necessary reserves. This country must continue the only satisfactory source to draw the only satisfactory source to draw the only satisfactory source to draw upon for some time at least; nor can Argentina, which is now looked upon as a liberal supplier, rob the international market of its strength. The news from India gets worse as time progresses, and the prospect of famine is daily becoming more evident. The native foods in some of the large districts have been practically a failure, and wheat sowing has been so seriously delayed as to make it impossible of export next season.

"There was a slight improvement in the demand for flour since the last review, compared with that of the past fortnight, but most of the orders booked are for January loading. Evidently the reduction of freight rates to take effect on January 1 has stimulated buyers abroad to enter the market for stocks that they were badly in need of. Another factor that should be taken into consideration is that prices were lopped off during the week under review of 200 per barrel on export brands. The reduction in values has caused a great deal of surprise to many. Miliers have been contending right along that they could not accept lower prices on export flour on account of the high prices that had to be paid for wheat, and this precluded them from making any reduction in values of export flour."

Ella Finney on Hops. Brooks, Or., Dec. 13.—Commercial Ed-tor Oregon Journal—Had you invited

California must not lead us. We are centrally located, with Washington to the right and California to the left. In GRADES the right and California to the left. In hop growing we are second to no state. In friendship we extend a hand to both and ask them to unite.

Formerly it has been every one for self—every state for self. Now, unity is the watchword. They used to say before we had railroad accommodations that California claimed our world-renowned wheat as hers. (But I guess this was untrue). Our hopbuyers are Oregonians, and we will put them against the world for shrewdness—unless it might be Tacoma and San Francisco.

Surely we have among us one man equally bright to lead our home organization. Be slow in forming the plans, but quick in marshaling the laws. Have no blue laws about it, simply this, and nothing more. For 1908 no hopgrower about all or contract hope at less than nothing more. For 1908 no hopgrower shall sell or contract hops at less than the price of production, say 11½ or 12 cents a pound, and the freedom of more if we can. This is unjust to no one and leaves us safe and free. Will the presidents of hopgrowers associations in California, Washington, New York, England and Germany send their names and addresses to Oregon Journal? Let and addresses to Oregon Journal? Let us hear from the organizations of the world. And then let The Journal favor as with a culled, easy and simple plan that every Oregon hopgrower will send to The Journal the amount of hops grown. It will be easy to find out how many hops we raise.

PLENTY OF CUT GLASS NOW ON SALE

The fabled buil in the china abop wa entirely outclassed by a heavy ird brace which workmen were attemptin brace which workmen were attempting to set up at the M. I. Asher jewelry store, 287 Washington street this afternoon. The brace was a large, heavy affair to be used to hold up a hig clock. In some manner it slieped from the control of the workmen and crashed through the plate glass window, carrying down with it fine china ware, cut glass, rings and other jewelry. The window was demolished and damage done to the amount of $400.
