

RESIST MOVE TO FORCE OPEN SHOP

Metal Workers Will Endeavor to Checkmate Plan of Iron Manufacturers.

Active steps are being taken by the metal workers' unions of the city to resist the open shop program announced by the managers of the iron manufacturing plants of Portland which was to have gone into effect the first of this month.

Under the direction and advice of J. J. Stratton of Chicago, organizer of the International Association of Machinists, an iron trades council, including the machinists, molders, blacksmiths and boiler-makers, was formed last Sunday night, having for its purpose to resist the enforcement of the open shop policy, to oppose any reduction in the present wage scale, to protest against the introduction of the "piece" system as a means of determining wages and to fight the introduction of the "personal record" card.

The council will meet again next Sunday night when a permanent organization will be effected and plan of action mapped out to resist the alleged assault on unionism which is being made by the Pacific Coast Metal Trades association. It is reported that 10 nonunion molders have been imported into the city by Portland foundrymen and are being quartered at hotels until put to work. "We know that these men are to receive $4.50 a day and a bonus of 50 cents," said a machinist today, "in fact some of them have already been put to work and are being paid that wage while union men doing the same work are being paid only $3.75 and $4 a day. It is hard to understand what the employers mean, when they give as a reason for adopting the 'open shop' policy, that they were paying union men all the business work and who bring in nonunion men and pay them an advance of 25 per cent over the scale."

Special Organizer Stratton refuses to say what means will be adopted by the affiliated iron workers to defeat the open shop policy, but it is generally believed that after the various metal worker trades are amalgamated a demand will be made upon the employers to discharge all nonunion men, and in event the demand is not complied with a walkout of all union men will follow.

This action would probably affect not over 500 men, as the foundries and machine shops are not employing over half the number of men at work three months ago.

cases will you go down the line?" he was asked again.

Evadus Answer. "I made an effort to start on the Oregon cases before and the rope broke. Now, I am not going to say what I will do."

Mr. Heney wants to try the Hall case and in all probability will. He would also like to try the Herman case, but beyond that it is not believed he has any great desire to personally conduct the prosecutions. He feels that it is up to him to try John Hall, because of the fact that it was due to his efforts that Mr. Hall was dismissed from the district attorney's office and that he is responsible for his indictment. Mr. Herman has claimed a good deal of his attention from the first and he would like to conduct that prosecution. After that, however, it is believed that he would like to turn the prosecutions over to Bristol. If the latter is continued in office, and return to California where he has plenty of excitement awaiting him.

Judge Hunt Coming.

Judge Hunt of Montana, will be on hand January 13 to take up the hearing of the Hall case and to hand down his decisions in the various other cases in which different kinds of dilatory motions are pending. Judge Wolverton will make the order calling the trial jury for the land cases in time that all of the panel may be present at the opening of court.

It was a notable scene when the Oregon cases were called in the federal court this morning. Looking over the audience the spectator might have concluded that it was a meeting of the Oregon Bar association for a large number of the prominent attorneys of the city and state were in attendance. Here and there could be seen defendants in the various cases, John Hall, Dan Tarpley, Captain Ormsby and a number of other well-known faces being noted.

Mr. Heney was 10 minutes late in reaching the court room and in addressing the court apologized for his tardiness. He then proceeded at once with the task of setting the land cases, asking that the calendar be called. He asked that all of the cases be set down for January 13 in the order in which they should be tried and this was done by Judge Wolverton. The cases as set down and which make up the list of the Oregon land cases yet untried are as follows:

BEGIN SETTLEMENT OF FRAZER ESTATE

William A. Munly and Robert Gallaway this morning filed a petition in the county court for the appointment of Mrs. Dora E. Frazer, widow of the late Judge A. L. Frazer, as administratrix of his estate. The judge did not leave a will. The petition states that the property consists of several lots in Eugene, valued at $2,000, salary due from the state to the amount of $500, and several life insurance policies. It is said that the aggregate of these policies is about $25,000.

The heirs of the estate are the widow and four children.

GOOD TIMES STORY FROM FOREST GROVE

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.) Forest Grove, Or., Dec. 17.—All the banks of this city—the First National, the Forest Grove National and E. W. Mr. Haines, president of the Oregon Bankers' association, said he would not have known the holidays were off if the papers had not announced it. Everybody seems to have his pockets full of money and the stores are doing an enormous Christmas business.
