Better Prospects for Excellent Values - Shipping Trade Is Excellent.

Produce market features: Turkeys likely to sell well. Another millfeed advance. Local wheat is 1c advanced. Flour trade is nominal. Continued demand for hops Fine pineapples from south. Apple market is dull again. Cheese holds better for best. Eastern hide markets very dull. Too many local eggs coming. Chicken market remains good. Onion trade is slow again.

to absolutely forecast what is going to happen in the turkey market, conditions at this time tend toward liberal parchases and prices during the Christ asset to get stocks to market and make single forest stocks to market and make single forew turkeys are coming and demand is quite liberal, with prices showing an advance. It is believed now that turkeys will sell even higher than figst tange under 18c and from that flugre expected. Best turkeys will not likely tange under 18c and from that flugre each, short wool. 25@40c; medium mission men say that the trade has better prospects than for several seasons. The demand is just as heavy as it was a year ago, while fewer turkeys are beginning to some at a lively rate and many have been turned down but and any have been turned down but and any have been turned down but and many have been turned down but and any have been turned down but and many have been turned down but sight. Shipping orders are beginning to come at a lively rate and many have been turned down by the dealers because they did not know about the amount they would have to sell. This brings the thing back to the recent statement made in this report that shippers would receive betters returns for turkeys if the receive betters returns for turkeys if the receiver better the recei know how many they have to nell, so that receivers could take orders in advantage orders. them Unless shippers notify the trade what to expect there is a big chance for a siump in prices at the end of the trade, providing reaching should be larger than expected. The lower prices would be due entirely to the lack of business fact of the shippers, because they forest the local trade to turn down orders because the former did not take the trouble to let his commission man know what stocks to expect.

The shipping trade is expectably warfed against sending "oil" stock to market, for the buyers want the best and are willing to pas the price. Util' stock would only cause lower prices on the Sugar California $1.748 per barrel; spronts, 89 9c in.
