TODAY'S MARKETS Christmas Trade in the Wholesale Markets Is Averaging Well—Both Outside and City Business Is Much Better

MAY FORCE A SUGAR BATTLE

Third Refinery Starts Business on the Coast-Big Deal Closed.

Produce market features:
Sugar interests are apart.
No stoppage of egg arrivals.
Some pressure in chickens.
Turkeys sell quite freely.
Large oranges are scarce.
Scarcity of ripe bananas.
Cellar sweet potatoes higher.
Higher prices on best celery.
Smelt run on and off again.
Wheat is steady though dull.
Milifeeds maintain big advance,
Hop selling is enormous.

Bugar Interests Are Apart.

From the present outlook there promises to be a less harmonious feeling in the sugar market in the future. Formerly there were but two refineries fighting for the trade of the Pacific coast but now another has been added to the list and while it is quite likely for two interests to come together, the additional refinery may cause a lot of trouble, especially when it is well-intreached. The latest arrival is the Honolaiu Plantation company which owns as well as manufactures a large per cent of the sugar grown is the islands of Hawaii. The company has recently completed a new and modern refinery and a deal has been closed whereby the concern will be regularly represented on the Pacific coast. The firm of M. J. Brandenstein. & Co., which has large houses both here and in San Francisco is now the Plantation company's representative; the deal involving the largest amount in the history of the Pacific coast sugar market.

Pendleton Or., Dec. 19.—Business is dull in the local wheat market, the price being down, and the farmers are un-willing to part with the holdings at a figure that is 10 cents lower than what they could have secured early in the fall.

Until yesterday the local quotation on club had been 67c for several days. but another drop of a cent occurred dur-ing the day. However, wheat is said to be worth 68c in Pendleton, and at least one buyer is offering that figure. Others declare they are out of the market for the time being.
