NEW YORKERS AWAIT SINGER

Tetrazzini Will Be Welcomed to United States by Many Admirers.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
New York, Jan. 3.—Music lovers of New York are awaiting with the liveliest interest the coming of Madame Tetrazzini, the new coloratura soprano, who sails from England on La Lorraine tomorrow to begin her engagement at the Manhattan opera-house. Her first appearance will be made week after next in "Traviata." Already every seat in the Manhattan opera-house has been sold for this performance.

But a short time ago Madame Tetrazzini was unknown to the musical public—today she is ranked with Patti and Melba. Some competent critics even go so far as to place her above any other singer who has been heard by the present generation.

The new and dazzling star of the operatic stage is not quite 30 years old. Like De Reszke and Caruso, she has practically been her own instructor. For six months she studied under Signor Geocherini. She made her debut in the small part of Inez in "Africaine," in her native city of Florence, and she was paid $100 a month. Later she went to Rome, and afterward spent four years in South America. The next seven years were spent in Russia, where she met with great success.

Her first big success in a leading part was as Violetta at Buenos Ayres. It was said that her performance was so realistic that a physician asked permission to examine her because he thought she was suffering from consumption. She is nervous and excitable before she appears on the stage, but after the first notes have been sung she throws herself into the part and forgets all but that.

During her recent engagements at Covent Garden she was hailed as the greatest singer heard there in years. The plaudits of London have brought her a contract for the next three years at the Manhattan opera-house in this city. It was nip and tuck between the rival managers, Hammerstein and Conreid, as to who should secure the services of the new star. The manager of the Manhattan finally won out, but only after he had made an offer to the diva that hardly any one could resist. Madame Tetrazzini will be paid $1,500 for each of her appearances at the Manhattan opera-house this winter. During the second season, according to the term of the contract, she will be paid $2,000 a night, and for the third season the pay will reach the enormous sum of $2,500 for each performance.

Railroads Fight Reduction.

(United Press Leased Wire.)
St. Louis, S. D., Jan. 3.—The application of the railroads doing business in this state for a permanent injunction restraining the South Dakota railroad commission from putting into effect the proposed new schedule of passenger rates is on the docket for hearing in Judge Cleland's court today. The proposed schedule would reduce fares on all standard-gauge roads from 3 to 2 1/2 cents a mile. The railroad commissioners contend that the reduction would stimulate traffic as well as be of general benefit to the public, but the railroads insist that any such reduction will compel them to do a passenger business at a loss.

ARMY ENGINEERS STUDY BOUNDARY

Officers Coming to Portland to Report on Controversy Between the States.

(Washington Bureau of The Journal.)
Washington, Jan. 3.—Colonels Leach and Lockwood and Captain Weber, United States board of army engineers, will arrive in Portland January 19 or 20, to look into the controversy over the fishing business between the states of Oregon and Washington. They will not give special attention to engineering proposals or projects relating to the Columbia or Willamette rivers because they go to attend to matters which are under dispute as to technical questions and not regarding desired appropriations.

It is believed that good will result if the business interests of Portland and Astoria watch for the coming of these engineers, who are potent in the army engineering department and men of the highest character, thoroughly devoted to the program of the improvement of the rivers and harbors, and day by day here handling questions pertaining thereto.

Probably they will take time to look at the jetty at the mouth of the Columbia, and when doing this, there will be opportunity to store their minds with ideas germane to the whole list of northwest projects.

Colonel Leach never fails to manifest his appreciation of the urgent need of bringing into use the latent resources of the Pacific coast, and is one of the most enthusiastic supporters of the improvements planned and now in progress.

ADJUTANTS TO CONFERENCE ON MANEUVER CAMPS

(United Press Leased Wire.)
Olympia, Wash., Jan. 3.—Adjutant-General Otis Hamilton of the Washington national guard says the summoning of the adjutant-generals of Oregon, Washington and California to Washington, D. C., is solely to confer with the war department as to maneuver camps this year and the organization of coast artillery reserves, and that the suggestion for the conference originated with the state and not with the federal authorities. General Hamilton said:

The report to the effect that the adjutant-generals of the three Pacific coast states had been summoned to Washington for conference with the war department officials need cause nobody any concern. The conditions which brought about this proposed conference are purely local in the Pacific coast states and pertain wholly to the administration of national guard affairs therein.

FALLS CITY SALOON ROBBED BY BURGLAR

(Special Dispatch to The Journal.)
Falls City, Or., Jan. 3.—The Bank saloon, owned by Thomas Edgar, was robbed yesterday. The robber first broke into an unfinished building across the street, taking a brace and bit and chisel. He then proceeded to cut a hole in the side door of the saloon and draw the bolt on the inside. He took about $15 from the cash register and smashed three slot machines getting some $40 more.

was missing and suspicion pointed to him as the robber. Sheriff Grant of Dallas was immediately notified and having a full description of the man picked him up almost at once, he having walked into Dallas during the night. He will be brought back here this morning.

Ohio Legislature to Meet.
(United Press Leased Wire.)
Columbus, Ohio, Jan. 3.—Members of the Ohio legislature are already putting in an appearance in anticipation of the opening of the session next Monday. The general sentiment expressed by those already on the ground is that the session will be marked by the transaction of much important business. The Republican members of the house have arranged for a caucus tomorrow afternoon to nominate a candidate for speaker to succeed Carl A. Thompson, resigned, and to reach an agreement on other questions. F. T. Engleson of Guernsey will no doubt receive the nomination for the speakership.
