

OGDEN WHITES ATTACK THE JAPS

CHARGE UPON QUARTERS WHERE SEVERAL HUNDRED BROWN MEN ARE HOUSED

Ogden, Utah, Jan. 4.—With cries of "Hang the Japs," 150 white men charged upon that part of the city where between 500 and 600 Japanese laborers room, early last night, and attempted to drive out the orientals. But for the arrival of Chief of Police Browning and all of the available members of the police and sheriff forces bloodshed would have resulted. As it was, missiles were thrown and a number of men were slightly injured. Several arrests were made. Most of the attacked party fled, many of them leaving Ogden on the trains. The whites who led the riots are insistent that all Japanese leave the city, and it is believed they are waiting for the excitement to blow over, when they will renew the attack. The trouble followed the discharge a week ago of 30 Americans employed in the Southern Pacific icehouse and the substitution of Japanese at less pay.

ADMINISTRATION SCORES SANTA FE FOR REBATING

Washington, D. C., Jan. 4.—Acting on orders from President Roosevelt, the department of justice today fired a broadside at President Ripley of the Santa Fe railroad as a response to the recent rebates made by the railroad magnate upon the government's policy in the rebate cases against the Santa Fe at Los Angeles. In his final summing up of the case Attorney-General Bonaparte makes the following grave charges: "It appears that the defendant was accused by a former employe, whose enmity it had incurred, of committing a long series of violations of the interstate commerce law and that the course of the road while the charge was under investigation was obstructive and suggestive that it was conscious of its guilt. The road was indicted on 75 violations of evidence from its own records, although many of the records were burned. When the road was brought to trial it professed to show that the rebates were merely compromises with shippers. This explanation was inconsistent with the entries on the books and the road was convicted on every count. "It was declared by the court that the violations had been intentionally and systematically made. The penalty fixed was one-fourth of the maximum, and it was decided upon after careful consideration by the court with a view to preventing such intentional and systematic disregard for the law in the future."

PETTIBONE ACQUITTED OF MURDER

Jury Stood 10 for Union Official's Acquittal on First Ballot but Failed to Reach Agreement for Fourteen Hours.

People Expected Result and Defense Was So Confident That It Submitted Case Without Giving Testimony or Argument.

Boise, Ida., Jan. 4.—George A. Pettibone was acquitted today of the charge of murdering ex-Governor Frank A. Steunenberg. The verdict was announced at 11:15, after more than 14 hours' deliberation. At 10:45 Judge Wood sent for the attorneys, and immediately on their arrival the jury was brought in. The defendant was surrounded by his wife, attorneys and a number of friends. Pettibone was congratulated on every hand when Clerk Otto Peterson read the words that give him his freedom after nearly two years' confinement in the Ada county jail. On the first ballot, taken soon after the jury retired at 8:50 last night, the vote was ten for acquittal and two for conviction. Although the case was discussed, but the two refused to go over to the majority, claiming, it is said, that they would hang the jury. Finally, however, they gave up the fight and agreed to a verdict of not guilty. "Everybody Expected It." Little surprise was occasioned in Boise by the result. No evidence except the depositions on the Bradley explosion at San Francisco was introduced by the defense, and the case was not argued from the standpoint of the defense. When Judge Hilton of Denver took charge of the case, after Clarence Darrow had retired on account of illness, it was decided to submit the case to the jury without testimony and without argument, basing their claim for acquittal solely on the ground that the state had failed to prove the defendant guilty. "It Also Releases Moyer." While no action has been taken in the Moyer case, it is certain there will be no further prosecution. Moyer will be released from jail at once, and he and Pettibone will return to Denver. Attorneys for the defense, without exception, stated that the verdict was not a surprise to them. The state failed, they said, to connect Pettibone in any way with the Steunenberg murder. James H. Hawley, of the prosecution, declined to discuss the case, further than to say Moyer would not be tried. "Too Happy to Feel Bitterness." After the verdict was returned Judge Wood issued a formal order discharging the prisoner and accompanied by his wife and a number of friends, he was taken back to St. Alphonsus hospital, which has been his home most of the time during the trial. He said he never had any doubt that he, along with Moyer and Haywood, would be cleared of the charge. He expressed no bitterness, saying he was too happy to think about those who had caused his prosecution. "In the Jury Room." All last night the jury, to which the case was given for consideration last evening at 8:50, deliberated and argued among themselves, but this morning when Judge Wood arrived no intimation of any kind had come from the jury room. During the long hours of the night the voices of the jurors were frequently heard, but there had been the slightest intimation as to how the jury stands. Judge Wood gave his instructions last night as given to James H. Hawley, chief prosecutor, had completed his address to the jury. Judge Hilton, for the defense, again signified that no argument would be presented in behalf of the defense. "The instructions of Judge Wood were regarded as more favorable to the state than those in the Haywood case. After the jury retired Pettibone, surrounded by a group of friends, including President Moyer of the Western Federation, remained in the courtroom until midnight. Pettibone was then taken to the hospital, where he spent the night. He was so weak that he had to be carried to the courtroom for last night's session. Moyer and a few other federation men remained in the courtroom all night. Judge Wood ordered a cot sent to the jury room for Juror Stahl, who was taken ill during yesterday's proceedings.

Thaw's Battle for Life Draws Near

New York, Jan. 4.—Unless something altogether unforeseen occurs the second trial of Harry K. Thaw for the murder of Stanford White will begin next week before Justice Dowling in the criminal branch of the supreme court. The attorneys for both the prosecution and the defense are ready for the trial and desirous that it shall proceed without further delay. The impatience of the prisoner for the trial to begin is well known. It will doubtless be the most welcome sound he has heard in months when the keeper's keys rattle in his cell door and he is asked to march across the bridge of sighs to face once more the judge, the prosecutor and the throng of morbidly curious who will crowd the courtroom to hear the trial. Great interest centers in the course of the defense at the coming trial. It is generally believed that despite any ideas of justification which Thaw may believe in, his present lawyers will confine themselves to making out a case of legal insanity. This may be emotional, or hereditary, both of these phases of the matter having been gone into at the first trial. There will be a few changes among the witnesses, though for the most part they will be the same as testified at the first trial. Several of the alienists will be dropped and it is possible there may be several new ones introduced. First-mate Paul Brady, who was one of the first on the scene after the shooting, Policeman A. L. Debs, who got Thaw and the gun; E. H. Convey, assistant superintendent of Madison Square station; H. F. Bines and Meyer Cohen, eye-witnesses of the affair will all be put on the stand to tell their stories again. "Actresses to Testify." Mae Mackenzie, an actress friend of Evelyn Nesbit Thaw, was one of the foremost characters in the first trial, and had a prominent place in the testimony of the case. It is now rumored that she may be placed on the stand by the commonwealth and be used by the district attorney in an effort to convict Thaw. "Missing when the case went to trial the first time was Miss Ida Vera Simonton of Pittsburgh. She was in South Africa, where she remained until a short time ago, when she returned to Pittsburgh. The testimony to be offered by this missing witness is the unknown quantity in an equation that has been awaited with interest. Admitting that she knows something about the case, Miss Simonton has announced that she will obey a summons of the court and will go on the witness stand. Also she has said her testimony will be sensational and will be for the commonwealth, as against the defendant. "One actor in the dramatic first trial has passed out of the case. This is Abe Krumel, the once prominent little attorney, who testified to the relations between Evelyn Nesbit and Stanford White and was regarded as one of the great witnesses for the defense. "All I have to say in answer to his open letter is that when I get good and ready, or when the proper time comes, I shall give to the public the facts upon which I base my accusation against Senator Fulton."

Boise, Ida., Jan. 4.—State Auditor Robert S. Bragaw today brought suit in the district court here for damages in the sum of $50,000 against Governor Frank R. Gooding and the Statesman Publishing company. In the interview in question Governor Gooding said Bragaw had rendered the defense more service than any other man in its employ. Not long ago Auditor Bragaw refused to pay deficiency warrants drawn

The explosion caused intense excitement both in the bank and street. The first impression was that an attempt had been made to rob the bank. An explanation of the explosion has not been offered. The following employes were injured by the explosion: J. Donaldson, pass-book clerk; Legan Wilson, mail teller; Elbert Ward, negro porter. J. F. Snyder, the assistant chief clerk, saw a strange man in the washroom for fully 20 minutes before the explosion occurred and believes that he left the street. The first impression was that
